St. Thomas Business College

re-opened Tuesday, Sept. 3rd, with the largest number of students in attendance in the history of the college, at a September opening. This is further evidence that the public appreciates
"THOROUGH INSTRUCTION." Our High Standing at last year's examinations of the Business Education Association of Canada has become generally known, and a very large increase in our attendance is the result.
Come to St. Thomas if you want the best training.

Brain Power in Animals.

A noted lecturer on stock-breeding declared some time ago that all stock success, either in breeding or feeding, must have its foundation fixed upon one idea, brain power of the animal, and that animal temperament and power of assimilation of food were dependent upon the brain strength of the animal, and that breeding for intelligence was a thing that should be placed first in the list, and then the other desirable qualities would be much more easily secured.
In this he was emphatic, that in the dairy the brain function of control of milk flow was not made enough of by the men who were breeding dairy cows.
There was, in his opinion, no such thing as profitable milk-giving by a cow of low brain development, or equally low mental power. The cow of small brain and fat, dull eyes did not possess the vital quality sufficient to make her a good milk producer. She was either a cow that gave a good measure of milk for white and dried off early, or was no milk producer at all. Of course, he said, this did not refer to a type of cattle that had their milking qualities bred out of them, and that aided by quickly drying them off to promote the beef habit. The cow of the largest active brain, the strongest nerve power, indicated by the bright, protruding eye, other things being equal, was the best cow, and of most extended milking period. The idea was how to control this nerve force by quiet and gentle methods, humane care, and as nearly as possible uniform conditions, and have the abundant energy find its expression and escape in the form of milk. The highly-bred race-horses—bunches of nervous energy—finds expression in the training and the racing; and the brain of this horse is the promoter of the energy of that "electric battery." In this breed the milkpail is the reservoir of this discharged surplus energy, and the idea of the lecturer was that high excellence must be promoted from brain supply.
Our readers might notice if there is any connection between brain power and their best cows—London Farm & Home.

Improvement in Colts.

There are colts and colts, as the saying goes, but the differences between the young growing horses are to a very large extent due to the management and to the feeding. Colts are born, it is true; but to a large extent they are made by care and attention, and of these the feeding is the most important. The young animal may be very justly compared with a plant. The seed may be of the best, but unless the culture is of the best, the growth is stunted. The young animal of whatever kind is subject to the same natural law. It is worth while to mention this, Maine Farmer says for it is quite a common occurrence to see the avoidable deterioration of a wellbred young animal, due simply to this mistaken thought that blood will tell. Blood represents years and generations of the best breeding, feeding, care and education, one generation inheriting the gains made by previous ones. So it will be a simple loss of money to pay high prices for the service of a sire of high character, and then think that inherited influence will work out the problem without sufficient food to support it. An animal eats its food, chews and grinds it with its teeth, and makes it into a pulp by mixture with the saliva, which is really the first of the digestive and solvent fluids. The teeth crush and grind the food, and the more palatable this is the more is the flow of this fluid.
Thus with pleasant food the mastication in the mouth is most perfectly performed, and as the saliva is a solvent and a chemical fluid as well, the food has its starch to some extent changed into sugar, and so goes into the stomach partly digested, one of the facts which should be duly considered by the feeder.

Every animal loves a change of foods.
It is possible for any animal to live on a single food, but it will never improve on it. Wild animals in a state of nature never improve. They cannot improve; this is easily seen to be an impossible thing for them. But man is an improving animal, and when civilized is constantly bettering his condition, and improving everything he comes into possession of. It goes with civilization that this is the result of intellectual feeding.

Feeding paves the foundation for training, and every step gained is firmly fixed and made the basis for future improvement. Thus it is our horses are constantly bettering their records in every way, and what has been accomplished is only a starting point for future improvement. All our live stock has been subjected to the same influences. We have two-year-old cattle which weigh as much as the old five-year-old steers.
Our cows at two years old yield more butter in a week than any average three of the stock of fifty years ago.
Our lambs come to market under a year, and bring the values of two or three year old wethers of a generation back. Of course, this increases the value of the breeders and feeders, and is equally an economy to the consumers. The lists of foods at command almost bewilders the scientific students.
It is not to think of how the farmers and stock feeders are at a loss to choose this or that as being the most effective, and thus economical, and profitable. At the same time education runs alongside of the train of improvement, and as we gain in scientific information we apply it to practical uses. In regard to our live stock interests, this advantage is perceived on every hand. With improvements in horses, there are gains made in every way in our live stock.
This is all a result of the application of the ultimate principle of economy, by which the art of feeding animals has been greatly extended, and by which our choice of foods is enlarged so that by the extension of the knowledge of the chemistry of foods the feeder is able to vary the bill of fare and economize in the cost.

A Life-long Fighter.

General Maximo Gomez, the Cuban leader, is the most interesting figure in Cuban history, next to Estrada Palma.
The old liberator is not a native of Cuba, but his life has been one of devotion to struggling causes. Gomez is a San Dominician, who has been fighting in one country or another for sixty years. He got his military training in the Spanish army, and after passing through one revolution he left home and settled in Cuba. That island has been his home ever since, except for the time he has served in banishment. In 1895 he was given the supreme command of the Cuban forces, and for three years gave Spain as difficult a fight as she ever had in any of her colonies, and managed to lose comparatively few of his own men. At 78 General Gomez, in spite of his campaigns, is vigorous and active.

That Pallid Complexion.

impoorished, the system weak and worn out. A pallid sickly complexion is a sure sign of thin, wat-contains ten days' treatment. Price Take care of the stomach and the health will take care of itself. If people only realized the soundness of that statement the majority might live to a good old age like Moses, "the eye undimmed, the natural force unabated." It is in the stomach that the blood is made. It is from the stomach that nourishment is dispensed to nerve and muscle. If the stomach is "weak" it can't do the work for each part of the body. If it is diseased the disease will taint the nourishment which is distributed, and so spread disease throughout the body.

It was the realization of the importance of the stomach as the very centre of health and the common source of disease, which led Dr. Pierce to prepare his "Golden Medical Discovery."
"Diseases which originate in the stomach can be cured through the stomach." The soundness of this theory is proved every day by cures of diseased organs, heart, liver, lungs, blood—by the use of the "Discovery," which is solely and singly a medicine for the blood and organs of digestion and nutrition. It is a temperance medicine, containing no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant.

What Catarrh is and is Not Catarrh is not a wash. You cannot force liquid into the lungs.

It is not an ointment to be anointed up the nostrils. Ointments are useless and disgusting. Nor is it a powder to be blown up the nostrils and still further irritate the already congested and irritated membrane. It is simply balsamic and healing substances breathed into the lungs and throat.
Cures of course. That is nature's way of curing, and nature's way is the only true way. If you suffer from disease of the throat, lungs, nasal passages, do not neglect to test Catarrh, 25c, and $1. Guaranteed to cure Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Hay Fever, or your money back.

Nothing travels faster than thought but some people's thoughts never travel

The Cause of Nervous Headache

This most distressing and common malady doubtless has its origin in some unbalanced condition of the nervous system. Probably the simplest, safest and most efficient remedy is Polson's Nervine. Twenty drops in sweetened water gives immediate relief, and this treatment will cure the nervous headache. It goes with the region of pain with Nervine. To say it acts quickly fails to express the result.
Sold everywhere in large 25c. bottles.

Sympathy is easy to get, but when you need help you will find that is a different question.

Nervous Dyspepsia

How it shakes one up, invades sleep, destroys strength, adds a real misery to life. Not the stomach but the nerves are affected. Starved nerves make the whole trouble. You need Ferrozone because it's a nerve food.
It supplies the elements that are needed to make rich red blood. This is the savings bank of health. The richer the blood in red cells, the richer you're sure to be in health. Ferro-zone quickly makes blood, strengthens the digestive organs and, presto! the nervous disturbance disappears. Sold

SLEEPLESSNESS.

You can't sleep in the calmest and stillest night, if your stomach is weak, circulation poor, and digestion bad.
Hood's Sarsaparilla strengthens the stomach, improves the circulation, perfects digestion, and brings about that condition in which sleep is regular and refreshing.

It does not do this in a day, but it does it—has done it in thousands of cases.
