Children's questions should be answered, not flippantly, nor even categorically, but with a display of interest and in a manner that will teach them to work for themselves. Parents are the only ones to do it, and so far as they fall short in this, they fall short in their obligation to their offspring, just as certainly as they would if they failed to feed their bodies when they are hungry and the food is in the house.

TO MY SMALL BUT TACTFUL FAMILY OF ONE

Ambassador Gerard's Great Bombshell
for the Untactful Kaiser

MR. GERARD'S famous book, "My Four Years in Germany," has now been published as a book by Hodder & Stoughton.

It is charmingly dedicated thus:—
"To My Small But Tactful Family of One—My Wife."

Few books dedicated to one person will be read by so many people.

The book, as the world already knows, is one of the heaviest blows which has been aimed at the personality of the Kaiser, and it has been felt. The Kaiser in his heart will be the first to admit that an Ambassador who can hit back like this is worthy of respect.

As for the world of diplomats, this book will make them green with envy. For when did the learned diplomat of our time score so heavily as this un-diplomatic untrained diplomat, who without the training did the work and maintained the dignity of his great country?

The book contains many facsimiles of interesting documents, and chiefly that of the famous message of the Kaiser written on telegraph forms to President Wilson.

Mr. Gerard in his "Foreword" says:

Fear is Bred in Them

"We are engaged in a war against the greatest military Power the world has ever seen; against a people whose country was for so many centuries a theatre of devastating wars that fear is bred in the very marrow of their souls, making them ready to submit their lives and fortunes to an autocracy which for centuries has ground their faces, but which has promised them, as a result of this war, not only security but riches untold and the dominion of the world; a people which, as from a high mountain, has looked upon the cities of the world and the glories of them, and has been promised these cities and these glories by the devils of autocracy and war.

"We are warring against a nation whose poets and professors, whose pedagogues and whose parsons, have united in stirring to a white pitch of hatred, first against Russia, then against England, and now against America.

Petty and Small

"When I returned to America, after living for two and a half years in the centre of this world calamity," says Mr. Gerard, "everything seemed petty and small. I was surprised that people should still seek little advantages, still be actuated by little jealousies and revenges. Freed from the round of daily work, I felt for the first time the utter horror and uselessness of all the misery these Prussian autocrats had brought upon the world, and what a reckoning there will be in Germany some day when the plain people realise the truth; when they learn what base motives actuated their rulers in condemning a whole generation of the earth to war and death!

"Is it not a shame that the world should have been so disturbed; that peaceful men are compelled to lie out in the mud and filth in the depth of raw winter, shot at and stormed at and shelled, waiting for a chance to murder some other inoffensive fellow creature? Why must the people of Old Poland die of hunger, not finding dogs enough to eat in the streets of Lemberg?

Long Lines of Broken Peasants

"The long lines of broken peasants in Serbia and in Rumania; the population of Belgium and Northern France torn from their homes to work as slaves for the Germans; the poor prisoners of war starving in their huts or working in factories and mines; the cries of the old and the children wounded by bombs from Zeppelins; the walls of the mothers for their sons; the very rustling of the air as the souls of the ten million dead sweep to another world—why must all these sorrows come upon a fair green earth, where we believed that love and help and friendship, genius and science and commerce, religion and civilisation once ruled?

Autocracy Deceiving a People

"It is because in the dark, cold northern plains of Germany there exists an autocracy deceiving a great people, poisoning their minds from one generation to another, and preaching the virtue and necessity of war, and until that autocracy is either wiped out or made powerless there can be no peace on earth.

"The golden dream of conquest was almost accomplished. A little more advance, a few more wagon loads of ammunition, and there would have been no Battle of the Marne, no Joffre—a modern Martell to hammer back the invading hordes of barbarism.

America Bars the Way

"I have always stated that Germany is possessed yet of immense military power, and, to win, the nations opposed to Germany must learn to think in a military way. The mere entrance even of a great nation like our own into the war means nothing in a military way unless backed by military power. And there must be no German peace.

"Fortunately, America bars the way—America, led by a fighting President, who will allow no compromise with brutal autocracy," concludes Mr. Gerard.

HIS NEW YEAR'S DINNER DREAM
