

DELICATE GIRLS MADE STRONG

Rich, Red Blood Needed to Keep Up Their Vitality.

If growing girls are to become well developed, healthy women their blood supply must be carefully watched. Mothers should not ignore their unsettled moods or the various troubles that tell of approaching womanhood. It should be constantly borne in mind that pale, bloodless girls need plenty of nourishment, plenty of sleep and regular open-air exercise. But a lack of appetite, and tired, aching limbs tend to hinder progress. To save the weak, thin-blooded sufferer she must have new, rich, red blood and nothing meets a case of this kind so well as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills not only enrich and increase the blood supply, they help the appetite and aid digestion, relieve the weary back and limbs, thus promptly restoring health and strength and transforming anemic girls and women into cheerful, happy people. Among the thousands who have obtained new health and strength through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Miss Violet Booth, Glenora, Ont., who says:—"For a long time I was pale, breathless at the least exertion, and could hardly do any housework without stopping to rest. I often had severe headaches, and my appetite was poor and fickle, and I would get up in the morning without feeling the least bit rested. I had tried several medicines, but did not get benefit from anything until I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When I had taken two boxes I could see an improvement, and after using six boxes I found my health fully restored. I feel altogether different since I used the pills that I strongly advise them for all weak, run down people."

If you are weak or ailing in any way, avail yourself at once of the splendid home treatment which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills so easily afford, and you will be among those who rejoice in regained health. These pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Canada.

Canada is the United States' second best customer, being exceeded only by Great Britain. Canada's purchases from the U.S. have reached $800,000,000 a year.

Minard's Liniment For Dandruff.

Action.

We are born to act. Reflection is after all a subordinate, derivative, artificial function, and our whole organism is framed to move, to do, to live. Most of us act instinctively, act excessively, buzz and blur, waste movement, waste force, waste energy, fatigue and exhaust ourselves, then look about in weariness, and regret long effort spent for nothing and purposeless exertion gone astray.

Then there are the people who hate to act at all. Intelligence, overdeveloped, grown over-analytical, dreads to take an ill-considered step, dreads to take any step whatever, for fear it should be ill-considered. Weigh the consequences of even trifling action; how vast they are, how far-reaching, how freighted with horrible possibilities. Can the most thoughtful provision always avoid or avert them?

And there is the fear of being responsible for others or to others. A man's slightest word or deed may affect the welfare of souls, and a man is so utterly unfitted to have such a burden placed upon him! It is easier to sit back in a quiet corner and watch the vast, curious world rush by and attempt no movement that is not absolutely necessary to make that quiet corner safe and habitable.

When you get drawn into that labyrinth of endless-angled analysis of possibility, you are cut off from action altogether, and the only remedy is to go out and act. Due consideration, reasonable forethought, are prescribed for everyone. But you must remember that perfect action is seldom to be looked for and never to be done. It will be done, probably by some one less competent than you. Take hold and do it in the very best way you can. Others are fallible, all make mistakes. Go and make them as others do, then correct them, forget them and act again. Remember that the greatest and most successful careers of the world are nothing but a tissue of mistakes, corrected and forgotten.

In these days of expensive fuel it is worth while to pay attention to a source that is too often neglected: the old stump field. Most, if not all of the coniferous trees have no taproot, but lay hold upon the ground with a widespread network of superficial roots that clutch the soil like a gigantic, many-fingered hand. Both stumps and roots are therefore easily blown out by a shot or two of dynamite. If they are the stumps and roots of any of the pine trees, they are full of pitch and resin that burn with a flame as hot and clear as oil.

Boy Scout Notes.

Three new proficiency badges will soon be available for Canada's Boy Scouts. They are the Athlete's, the Canoeist's and the Bookbinder's.

Scouts throughout the province are making plans to celebrate Sir Robert Baden-Powell's sixty-fifth birthday on February 22nd. Since the British "Chief Scout" founded the Boy Scout Movement in 1908 his citizenship training plan has spread to almost every civilized country, and probably five to six million boys and young men have come into contact with it.

The Ontario Provincial Council of the Boy Scouts Association will this week publish the first issue of its new monthly paper for Scoutmasters, Assistant Scoutmasters and other Boy Scout workers. It will be called "The Trail" and will be the first publication of its kind in Canada. Its columns will be devoted to general news of the organization in Ontario and to special articles intended to help the Scout officer in the efficient conduct of his troop. It is to be mailed free of charge each month to all registered officers.

The Canadian General Council of the Boy Scouts Association has just appointed a publications board consisting of the following: W. J. Sykes, Librarian, Carnegie Library, Ottawa; Russell Paterson, Executive Secretary, Montreal Boy Scout Council, and also a writer of Boys' Stories; Gerald H. Brown, Editor of the Boy Scout Canadian Handbook; John Dixon, Advertising Manager for the Conservation Commission, Ottawa; Harry Hereford, Industrial Engineer, Ottawa; Lawrence Burpee, Secretary, International Joint Commission, Ottawa; Scoutmaster Frank & L. Coombs, writer of short stories, Simcoe, Ont.; and Professor G. H. Director of the Government Technical Education Department, Ottawa. This Board will control the editorial and business policies of the Boy Scout Magazine, "Canadian Boy," and under its direction will be published all future editions of the Boy Scout Handbook for Canada and of all other official books, booklets and pamphlets of the Association.

Dominion Registration for Silver Foxes.

Many silver fox ranches in Canada are still unaware that a step of paramount importance to their industry has been carried through this year. It is now possible for any fox owner, if he possesses pure-bred pedigreed stock, to secure registration of the same with the Canadian National Live Stock Records, Ottawa. This has been brought about by the formation of the Canadian Silver Fox Breeders' Association, with headquarters at Summerside, P.E.I. Full information can be obtained by writing to the Secretary, E. H. Monkley.

Buildings on the Sun.

Well into last century it was believed that the sun was inhabited, not with puny beings like ourselves, but with people weighing several tons and of proportionate strength. The sun, being a body of most tremendous size, must necessarily have inhabitants worthy of its grandeur. And, having men, women and children, it must have buildings in which to house them and to carry on their industries.

Hence some observers, with an ingenuity which did credit to their imaginative faculties, were certain that they had discovered buildings on the dark, solid body of the sun. The buildings were not claimed to be in regular formation, such as a vast city in the sun might be supposed to contain, but were merely "traces."

That was how these observers allowed their imagination to run riot. As a fact, what they actually saw was not a dark body on the sun, but for it possesses none, but dark openings (caused by eruptions of gas in the sun's flaming envelope) and the differences in the shading of the spots were taken to be buildings beside which St. Paul's Cathedral would be a mere toy.

RELIEVES PAIN

Why Don't You?

Why don't you try to be cheerful, To look at the bright side of things, To think of the cloud's silver lining, And not of the shadow it brings? It isn't the man with the grumble Who gets to the top all the while, But the man who can laugh at misfortune, And try once again with a smile.

Why don't you try to be hopeful, To hope to be half way to the light; It's the star, when there's naught else to steer by, That leads from black darkness to light.

Be hopeful, but still with your hoping, Leave nothing to chance all the same; For the hope that alone brings you heartache, With action wins glory and fame.

Why don't you try to be thankful For all the good things that you hold; For the blessings that ever surround you, For the love that's more precious than gold? So take heart—make another beginning— Go forth with a song to the fray, For from those who are cheerful and hopeful, The cares of the world fall away.

Be Careful How You Turn.

An ancient belief exists in the virtues of dancing or turning round in the direction of the sun. Sun-dances are still held in Mexico, Chile, and Spain, in which the turns of the dance are arranged astronomically and the movements of the heavenly bodies are followed in the dance both as to time and direction.

We are taught not to stir a pot the wrong way or the sugar in our tea; while mayonnaise sauce would be ruined if stirred one way and then the other.

A story is told of some Scottish boatmen who considered it unlucky to start on a voyage, however short, unless they turned their craft round three times with the sun.

It may be asked why once or twice would not have answered just as well. The number three, however, is one upon which the superstitious set great store. Some of the ancients regarded it as the perfect number, for it represented the beginning, the middle, and the end; it was the Trinity.

So round went the canny Scots' boat three times with the sun.

BITS OF HUMOR FROM HERE & THERE

Modern Life.

"Do you help your wife with the dishes?"
"No."
"There isn't room for both of us in the kitchenette."

Where is the Lighthouse?
"I've called in reference to your advertisement for a maidservant."
"Oh, yes!" nervously answered the mistress-would-be.

The caller was very well dressed, though perhaps she did not look very strong for housework.
"Do you think you could do a little housework?" asked the woman.
"Well, mum," replied the girl, "my health is not too good, and I thought I needed a little sea air. Will you tell me where the lighthouse is? And then we can see if I can do the job."

The Reason Why.
Tommy, aged six, had been out on a long walk, and on his return was speedily put to bed.

Some time later his mother, going up to his bedroom, found that her fond offspring had gone off to sleep with his feet resting on that part of the bed intended for his head.

She woke him up, reversed him, and then demanded an explanation.
"Two chubby little fists wiped the sleepiness from two little eyes, and then a plaintive voice replied:
"But, mummy, my head wasn't tired, and my feet were."

One Big Appetite Was Enough.
One day a man complained of not feeling fit, and a friend suggested that he take exercise.

"There's horseback riding," said the friend. "It is one of the best forms of exercise on earth."
"I know," was the doubtful rejoinder "but I am afraid I can't afford it."
"Can't afford it!" exclaimed the other. "You already have a horse; and just think of the appetite it will give you!"

"Yes," responded the man, with a sigh, "and just think of the appetite it will give the horse!"

Surnames and Their Origin

COLLINS

Variations—Collinson, Collett, Colet. Racial Origin—Norman-French. Source—A given name.

Here is another group of family names derived from the given name of Nicholas, only this time more in accordance with Norman than Anglo-Saxon custom.

Even before the Normans invaded and conquered England the given name of "Cole" or "Colin" was popular and widespread among them. They had formed this name of the famous saint who was archbishop of Myra in the fourth century, and who already had become the patron saint of children.

Incidentally, this tendency among the people of Europe in the early Middle Ages to take a single given name and split it up into all sorts of diminutives and variations was not due entirely to the natural inclination to form nicknames, but in large measure was due to that same death of insufficient names to go around which, intensified as populations became larger, finally grew into the formation of family names.

The family of Collins, when it is not traceable to Irish sources, is simply the modern form of "Colin's son," as also is the family name of Collinson.

The Normans quite frequently formed diminutives of given names by the endings "et" and "ot," and it is from names so formed that the family names of Collett and Colet come down to us.

MEREDITH.

Variations—Merideth, Meredeth, Merriweather, Merriman, Murray. Racial Origin—Anglo-Saxon. Source—A sobriquet, or nickname.

There's a word in the English language which is responsible for a great deal of misunderstanding among us as to the character of the English public in medieval times. It is the word "merry." It is met with constantly in fiction, where it really belongs, as lending local color to the olden days, and also in historical relics.

The misunderstanding on our part arises from the fact that the word had a very different meaning in those days. The English of medieval times were no more rollicking or boisterous than those of to-day. The word meant "happy," "contented," "satisfied," "pleasant" and "peaceful." Of all these meanings, that of "peaceful" is probably the closest to it.

There was nothing incongruous, therefore, in the hope of the religious Englishman of those days for a "merry death," and by that same tendency which leads the human race, when not too bound up in conventions, to name its children after its hopes and aspirations, "Merydeth" would often be added as a sobriquet to a child's name, becoming a family name in the course of time in a great many instances.

The family name of Merriman is accounted for quite similarly. A merry man in those days was a peaceful, contented, happy man, not necessarily a laughing or noisy one. This sobriquet was one more likely to be given to a man as an adult than as a child, but would have no less tendency to develop into a family name. We have a relic of the old-time use of merryweather (merywedyr) in the use of "fair weather" in that song which begins, "It's always fair weather when good fellows get together."

The family name of Murray is, of course, for the most part of Celtic origin, but when it is not, it is merely a corrupted spelling of Merry, from the old forms, such as "Richard le Mery."
