NOTES.

THE PINE AND THE POMEGRANATE.

FROM THE STAFF OF THE FORTRESS.
How thankful thou shouldest be to me,
Which shouldest be both this shade of mine;
Examine it, and say, with looks close,
A steady and honest pinc.

—The day that comes come soon,
To injure thy defences hard to bear;

The tempest's winds then ne'er thy fort,
My brachial strength o'er thou spread.

The pomegranate which you addressed,
Replied in accents soft and sweet;
And thus her gratitude expressed:
For fortune that were down'd so great—

—I own the truth of what you say—
But while you grieve me from the storm,
A greater good you take away;

The sun that shines and keeps me warm.

Thus oft it happens among men:

Some self-sufficient person may Talk largely of his kindness—when

He leaves you unbur'd to say—

ON THE TWO HARVEYS.

Two Barreys had a separate wish:
To shun in separate stations;
One, invented—Sauce for Fish;
The other—Meditations.

They both their pungent parts applied
To aid the dead and dying;
The other, a sol'ne when fried,
That, rather, a sour from frying.

THE CONFESSIONS OF ALCOHOL.

Art thou no less and full of wretchedness,
And fear no sin? Famine is thy choice,
Not wealth; and death is thy eyes,
Upon thy bleak boughs ragged misery.

The world is not thy friend, nor the world's law,

The world affords no law to make thee rich."

Alcohol being very near his end, in consequence of a wound received from the Temperance Association, calls together his asso-

cates, Murder, Theft, Insanity, Disease,

Bias, Poverty, and makes the following confession of his sins at the suggestion of his attending Physician, Dr. Abstinence.

I confess that through my whole existence I have caused more anguish to the world, and been the instrument of occasional misfortune, to be commented, than any one of my sins; and the cause of suffering to the persons entitled thereto.

The few lots of great advantages to pur-occupied by the undersigned, built of stone, two stories, with a gallery round each story.

25 lbs. each, (in this sum is included the
