Farm Labor Not Scarce in Alberta

Young men, who are thinking of going west to help in the harvesting will do well to study carefully the following item clipped from the News of Monitor Alberta under date of July 19th.

"An article recently appeared in the daily press, and given out by Mr. McGregor of the Food Board, that 40,000 men would be required to help the western farmers harvest their crop, this year. We cannot understand why such misleading statements are sent out by the Food Board in the face of crop conditions throughout the West. Perhaps it is the intention to hand-pull and tie what crop there will be. There are hundreds of farmers in the two provinces, looking for work, so perhaps Mr. McGregor will let us know where the jobs are."
