

Rev. Henry Gordon Will Speak.

At the Sodality to be held in the Canon Wood Hall to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock, the Rev. Henry Gordon will tell of the latest development in his plans for a boarding school at Cartwright, which he hopes to get underway immediately. The evening will be further specialized by a cup of tea and a programme to which the following will contribute: Miss Christian, Mrs. F. J. King, Mrs. J. A. Winter, Misses Dunfield, Barnes, Ellis and Williams; Messrs Ruggles, and A. Williams. The clothing provided during the winter for the orphans in the Cartwright Mission will also be exhibited. Tickets are being sold for 40 cents, or three for a dollar.—adv., 11ns.

A Hint to Mr. Mullaly.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—I am, indeed, pleased to observe that some steps have at last been taken with regard to providing pedestrians with certain roads whereon they may enjoy themselves without being subjected to the dangers and discomforts occasioned by motor traffic.

I note that in bringing the Resolutions before the Council, Mr. Mullaly has expressed the desire of first obtaining the opinions of the public before finalizing matters, and being one of the latter I take this opportunity of expressing a few views on the subject. It is proposed to allot to the East End the road which encloses the lake of Quidi Vidi. I quite agree with this and think that it is a very happy selection; for, besides being by far the most popular walk in that vicinity this road is of a fine generous length, measuring some three miles in its entire extent. On seeking as to how the West End is provided for in this connection, I am amazed to observe that the selected area is that portion of the Southside Road which runs from Job's Bridge to Syme's Bridge. Now unless there has been a mistake and the word Syme's substituted for Waterford, then the idea is ridiculous in the extreme. All West Enders know that the entire length of the piece of road mentioned is in all about three hundred yards, a paltry two minutes walk, and situated more in the town than in the country. As a walk for pedestrians, unless their wish to do so is to get from one end to the other, it is utterly and absolutely useless. The road West Enders want is that portion of the Southside Road which runs from Job's Bridge to Waterford Bridge. This is the route that some hundreds of pedestrians use every Sunday and holiday and is only a proper equivalent to the road around Quidi Vidi. The scarcity of motorists on the Southside Road shows that they could easily dispense with it, and this can be easily understood when it is seen that there are at least three other parallel roads in the vicinity.

In penning the above, not only do I feel—I am certain—that I express the wishes of all the West End pedestrians, and if Mr. Mullaly and the other City Fathers wish to please the people and do the proper thing in this matter; a little investigation will convince them that only by doing as I have suggested will they accomplish this end.

Yours truly,
PEDESTRIAN.

"Redoos" Taxation.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—On Nomination Day, in the fall of 1919, we had the privilege of hearing the then prospective members for Port-de-Grave make their appeals for support. One of the main planks on which Mr. Geo. Grimes sought support for his party was—that if said party was elected they would endeavour to "redoos" taxation. Cashin & Co., said he, had expended a revenue of so many millions and he contended that some of this should have been saved by the people by "redoosing" taxation. Now that Mr. Cosker, of whose party Mr. Grimes was a candidate, is in power, the people naturally expect the promises of Mr. Grimes to be in some measure fulfilled. No such intention is as yet apparent. On the other hand, those who shouted that Cashin & Co. were grinding the life out of the toilers by taxes, are now introducing measures to further increase those taxes.

Now if Cashin & Co. were robbers for taking so much from the people in taxes, what are we to look upon the members of the present administration as? Angels I presume? Wait and see.

Thanking you in anticipation of space, Mr. Editor.

Yours truly,

SENEC.

Cup Challenger Takes the Water.

CITY ISLAND, N.Y., May 26.—Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the America's Cup was launched here at high tide to-night, at the yards of Robert Jacob, where she has been since last November. The green racer, with Sir Thomas Lipton's private signal and the burgee of the Royal Ulster Club proudly flying in the evening breeze, slid down the ways and hit the water at 7.15 p.m. As she took her first plunge since she has been altered from an extreme scow to a more conventional racing machine, her crew and the representatives of Sir Thomas sent up a cheer. They all were of the opinion that Shamrock IV. is the most dangerous yacht that ever has come after the America's Cup.

At the launching were Colonel Duncan F. D. Neill, the yacht racing representative of the Irish challenger; Charles H. Nicholson, who designed the craft; William P. Burton, the amateur skipper, who will race Shamrock IV.; Mrs. Burton, his wife, who is able to stand a trick at the wheel as well as any man; Claude Hickman, who will navigate Shamrock IV.; Amelius Jarvis of Toronto, Canada, one of the best known yachtsmen in the Dominion; and a half dozen others, all deeply interested in the success of the Irish craft.

As she slipped down the ways to-night, Shamrock IV. looked an entirely different yacht from the one that arrived from England in August, 1919. The yacht's bow and under-body have been changed so much that she never would be recognized by yachtsmen who saw the craft six years ago. Six tons of lead have been cut off the forward part of her fin and "lagged" to the bottom of the keel. The bow has been changed from a scow to lines resembling an extreme racing cutter. All agree that she has been wonderfully improved.

According to Colonel Neill, the mast of Shamrock IV. will be stepped to-morrow. Regardless of the accident to the built-up hollow wooden mast on Resolute, off New Haven, on Saturday, those in charge of Shamrock IV. are going ahead with their original plans and will step a somewhat similarly built-up wooden spar. Designer Nicholson stated that the Shamrock spar was a much heavier and stronger one than the mast Resolute lost. It was not a "pole" mast, he said, but a conventional one with a top-mast added. He does not expect to have any trouble with the stick. Although work will be rushed on the craft, it is doubtful if Shamrock IV. will be under sail much before next Tuesday.
