

Turkey Accuses Britain of Using Coercion in Mosul

Government Announces Its Safeguarding of Industrial Policy—Non Stop Flight Made From France to W. Africa—Matrimonial Alliances Announced Between Carnegie and Rockefeller Families.

VEILED PROTECTION.
LONDON, Feb. 4. Countries in Britain may henceforth secure protection if they prove the satisfaction of the Board of Invention that they are suffering unfair competition and also that their industry is being injured and economically, the period for protection will be fixed by the finance bill wherein protection will be considered on application will be considered in relation to food and drink. The summaries of a long white paper detailing the Government's safeguarding of industries policy announced yesterday, and which received a warm reception in the press. Congressmen welcome them as a reasonable proposal which they all but the most hidebound traders: the exception being many in the House of Representatives who are in favour of conscientious objection to the tariff by the back of their hands and the Government of breach of pledge by failing to embody the proposals in a regular legislative bill.

SCOTIA MINERS IN CONVENTION.
SYDNEY, N.S., Feb. 4. Over sixty delegates in attendance representing all the important coal and approximately 12,000 miners of Nova Scotia, a special convention of United Mine Workers, District 20, opened here this morning, the principle business being the consideration of an ultimatum of the United Mine Workers in demanding a 25 per cent wage cut.

GENEVA, Feb. 4. Another day of protest against the treatment of the Turkish agents attached to the League of Nations Special Commission which is investigating the spot the dispute between Turkey and Great Britain over Mosul. Great Britain insists that the experts in question are ex-communicated, who already have shown their bias in favour of the Moslem side and declares their lives will be endangered if they are allowed to remain in the Commission in its capacity of investigation. The controversy started with a telegram to the Turkish Foreign Minister, who stated that the British had interned two men, Nazim Bey and Mustafa Bey, who were attached to the Commission because of their knowledge of the country in dispute. Shukri Bey, the Turkish Foreign Minister, who stated that the British had interned two men, Nazim Bey and Mustafa Bey, who were attached to the Commission because of their knowledge of the country in dispute.

THE MISSING LINK.
LONDON, Feb. 4. A fossilized skull whose owner is believed to have been probably near the missing link between the Broken Hill and Java specimens, has been discovered at Tanna, Bechuanaland, Professor Dart, of Witwatersrand University, who ascribes great importance to his find. He says the skull represents something midway between man and the great apes and much finer than previously discovered prehistoric skulls.

MADE THE FLIGHT SAFELY.
BAKAR, French West Africa, Feb. 4. The airplane flown by Captain

CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER.
MONTREAL, Feb. 4. Charged with manslaughter, as result of a fatal bath given at Huberdeau Org. Manager to Hector Galoreau on January 21, Rene Francois Desrosiers, known in religious life as Brother Umar, was arraigned before Judge Monet this afternoon and admitted to $5,000 bail. The charge followed an unanimous verdict of the jury, empanelled to investigate the death of the boy who was scalded to death while being bathed by the Reverend Brother.

ANOTHER INTERESTING FIND.
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4. A museum, the property of a daughter of the last king of Babylon, who ruled in the sixth century before Christ, has been uncovered and many priceless objects obtained by the joint archaeological expedition of the British Museum and the University of Pennsylvania in the Chaldean City of Ur, according to a report made public in London and Philadelphia today.

L.O.A. Anniversary at Bay L'Argent

Editor Evening Telegram
Owing to the winter commutation from Fortune Bay being rather irregular, one has not had the privilege of recording the anniversary proceedings of L. O. A. Terra Nova, Lodge No. 73, at Bay L'Argent, until now. The day appointed for the parade being New Year's Day, with a bright morning sun rising over the eastern horizon, everybody anticipated an enjoyable time. But at the time of parading Mr. J. Frost paid an unwelcome visit, which caused many of the members to cover their ears, but realizing that it was an annual parade they triumphantly overcame such difficulties. The splendid band of Brothers paraded to the church and upon entering were greeted with the melodious strains of "Onward Christian Soldiers" which was splendidly furnished by Mrs. F. Bond. The service was conducted by our Lay Reader, Mr. G. Bryant. The service ended and the parade wended its way around the little town and from that back to the Lodge room. Soon we saw the ladies appearing with their baskets and, in a very short time, the Brotherhood united in one family and were enjoying to the utmost their annual tea. The younger members afterwards expressing a desire for a dance, the hall was cleared, and dancing was kept up until the late hours of the night. The interest taken showed that the enjoyment of the annual L.O.A. parade could not be excelled. Thomas Wells, D.M., has been elected for the ensuing year. We wish him success and that under his ruling powers the Lodge will still go forward with zeal, and will stand as always has been, upon the strong foundation of "Unity." The writer wishes No. 73 greetings and further trusts that the true spirit of Orangeism will be firmly maintained. ONE INTERESTED.

CHILD'S WHITE RUBBERS; sizes 8, 9 and 10; only 50c. pair at F. SMALLWOOD'S.—Feb. 4.

Important Warning!
There is only one "Congoleum" and you will know it by the Gold Seal pasted on every pattern. "Congoleum" is a registered trade name and the exclusive property of The Congoleum Company. If you want genuine "Congoleum" take care to ask for it by name and refuse imitations. The Gold Seal pasted on every Congoleum Rug is a guarantee of highest quality and an assurance that you are getting value for your money. Congoleum Rugs are waterproof, dust-proof and sanitary. They do not turn up at the edges, and do not require to be tacked to your floors. At house cleaning time you can take them up in a few minutes. With Congoleum Rugs on your floors, you have no troublesome sweeping or beating to do; five minutes with a damp cloth will suffice to make a Congoleum Rug look like new. In addition to the above good points, Congoleum Rugs may be had in the most beautiful patterns and colorings imaginable and at quarter the cost of a carpet square. Congoleum Rugs are more stylish than floor canvas; people of refinement prefer Congoleum Rugs. Ask for the booklet "Modern Rugs for Modern Homes." Any Dry Goods Store will give you one FREE. Jan. 23, 1925.

Don't say Sardines — say Queen Maud.—Jan. 23, 1925.

Obituary
JOHN MURRAY.
A well known figure on the Central Cab Stand, in the person of Mr. John Murray, passed to the Great Beyond, this morning, at the age of 64 years. The deceased, a cabman of long standing, bore a reputation probably excelled by few. Last night at 11 o'clock he returned from plying his usual avocation. Shortly afterwards he was stricken ill and at 5 a.m. the end came. Left to mourn are a widow, six children, one brother and four sisters, to whom the Telegram extends sympathy.

FRIDAY NIGHT! FRIDAY NIGHT!—Card Party, St. Patrick's Parish Hall, 8.15 p.m. Three valuable Prizes.—Feb. 4, 21.

SNOODLES.
Kid Addison is a Martyr to Household Thrift. By CY HUNGERFORD

QUEER CARGOES
(By T. C. Bridges.)
Thirteen tons of dried fish formed part of the cargo of a liner which arrived at Plymouth in December last. They came from Mexico, and are to be used in the manufacture of paint. Dried fish are also imported from Brazil, but not for paint-making. These are made up into food for poultry and pheasants. Besides the ordinary necessities, such as wheat, meat, oranges, and tobacco, which come pouring into this country from abroad, there arrive here a quantity of goods so fantastic that, when you read their descriptions on the manifest, you are driven to wonder of what possible use they can be to anyone. For instance, a case of walrus whiskers—you might make many vain guesses as to the purpose to which these were to be turned before you were told they are to be made into toothpicks. Frogs' skins, again. Now and then a package of these comes from India, and they are used—of all things—for book binding. It appears that the skin of this Indian frog makes a very fine soft leather which, when dyed, takes the most delicate colours. A well-known English binder has produced some wonderful effects by the use of frogs' skins. "Twenty-five Tasmanian Devils" may sound rather a gruesome conglomeration, yet it was only lot in a cargo of Australian animals and birds which reached London. The "devils," in spite of their name, were not nearly so dangerous as a case of "diseases" brought to Southampton on board a cargo steamer arriving from the west coast of Africa. The case was actually full of cultures of germs of blackwater fever, malarial fevers, and all kinds of tropical diseases. Snails and frogs come to London in large quantities and find their way to Soho, where there are cooks who

London Oddities
In the days of George I. there was a Royal official called the "King's Cooker." His job was an easy one, for the duties lasted only through Lent. They consisted merely of crowing every night during that season in the vicinity of the Palace; thus proclaiming the hour, by so many crows, instead of in the usual way. On the first Ash Wednesday after the coming of the House of Hanover, the King was astounded to see an official enter the room where he was supping and proceed to cook-a-doodle the information that it was ten o'clock. Thinking he was being affronted, he was very annoyed, and it was with difficulty that the interpreter could make him understand the nature of the custom. From that time the King's Cooker ceased to function. Another quaint custom which obtained years ago, says C. G. Harper in "More Queer Things About London," was for each fire insurance company to have its own fremen. It was the custom to affix on an insured house the company's "fire-mark," so that when the fremen arrived on the scene they could at once perceive whose concern it was to put out the flames. The fremen of other companies cheerfully permitted the fire to continue, and went away without lending a hand, assured that their own employers were suffering no loss.

Distemper!
Minard's is the best remedy for distemper and other ills of horses, cattle and dogs.

Riotous Expenditure

INEFFICIENT CONTROL AND DISCRIMINATION.
Outside the cost of hospitals, asylums and other fixed charitable institutions, the cost of medical and surgical services to the public, for so-called sick poor, has been immense and rapidly increasing in recent years. In 1923-4, for instance, the amounts paid to doctors alone were as follows:
Medical attendance to Paupers $ 32,938
Emergency Cases 7,371
Public Health Outposts . . . 21,359
Venereal Diseases 5,608
District Doctors 2,717
$ 69,993

There are several noticeable things which appear upon an examination of the details of expenditure. For instance, the public health cost the most where there were the greatest number of doctors, and the query naturally arises, what about the health of people residing in districts far from hospitals, and with few doctors? The cost to the public of medical attendance on the South West Coast, for instance, was very small; parts nearer St. John's cost five times as much. Again, in parts of a certain Bay where four doctors are situated, the charge to the public funds is large, while in another adjacent part of the same Bay, where there is only one doctor, the charge is very small indeed. There seem to be certain spots in the Colony in which, for some reason or other, the expenditure is out of all proportion to the average of the Colony. In one of these spots there is no resident doctor, but medical attendance is frequently asked for, and occasionally sent from long distances, very often from St. John's, at very great cost. There seems to have been very little or very indifferent control over services in some places, assistance being given at public cost for almost any ailment, and without any enquiry, and in other cases the condition of the applicant being carefully looked into and care exercised by the authorities. All these matters require the closest investigation.

Queen Maud leads a nation—but Queen Maud Sardines lead the world.—Jan. 23, 1925.

Marvellous Film at the Nickel To-Night
REX BEACH'S "RECOIL," DAZZLING PRODUCTION.
The latest Rex Beach picture, "Recoil," will be the attraction at the Nickel Theatre for three days. It has been produced by J. Parker Read, Jr., and directed by T. Hayes Hunter from a continuity by Gerald C. Duffy. The picture was made in its entirety in France—in Paris, in Deauville, and on the French Riviera. "Recoil" shows for the first time in a screen photoplay scenes from Deauville, France's most famous watering place. The Monte Carlo sequences show the famous Casino in reality and not from studio sets. The cast is headed by Betty Blythe and Mahlon Hamilton, with Olive Brook, Fred Paul and Ernest Hilliard in other important roles. The story is one that should appeal strongly to the general public. It is the love story of an American millionaire and a penniless American girl whom he marries in France on a few days' acquaintance. Their personalities fail to fuse at first and the girl leaves him for another man. The husband, in revenge, decrees that the two shall never be apart from each other for the rest of their lives and the big climax of the picture—comes from this determination. The man finally is convinced of the woman's love for him and they seek happiness together in South America. Betty Blythe and Mahlon Hamilton have the leading roles.

DIARIES, 1925.—We have a few Office and Pocket Diaries remaining which we offer at Half Price. DICKS & CO., LTD. Feb. 5, 1925.

The Acme of Perfection—Power's High Grade Home-made Candy.—Jan. 29, 1925.

Obituary
JOHN MURRAY.
A well known figure on the Central Cab Stand, in the person of Mr. John Murray, passed to the Great Beyond, this morning, at the age of 64 years. The deceased, a cabman of long standing, bore a reputation probably excelled by few. Last night at 11 o'clock he returned from plying his usual avocation. Shortly afterwards he was stricken ill and at 5 a.m. the end came. Left to mourn are a widow, six children, one brother and four sisters, to whom the Telegram extends sympathy.

FRIDAY NIGHT! FRIDAY NIGHT!—Card Party, St. Patrick's Parish Hall, 8.15 p.m. Three valuable Prizes.—Feb. 4, 21.

SNOODLES.
Kid Addison is a Martyr to Household Thrift. By CY HUNGERFORD

Distemper!
Minard's is the best remedy for distemper and other ills of horses, cattle and dogs.

Casino! To-Night! To-Night!

CURTAIN 8.30 P.M. SHARP. MATINEES WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY.

THE SEASON'S STRONGEST ATTRACTION—

L. E. PERRIN PRESENTS THE ARLIE MARKS PLAYERS

IN DRAMATIC CLASSICS AND VAUDEVILLE

also, 6 Added Vaudeville Acts 6.

MERLE SCOTT, The Girl and the Violin.

PEGGY LOGAN Dancing Soubrette.

BILLY PHILLIPS, 60 Laughs a Minute.

CLARANCE KANE, Popular Songs.

JIM DALY, The Jolly Scott.

Queen Maud leads a nation—but Queen Maud Sardines lead the world.—Jan. 23, 1925.

"A BREEZE FROM THE LAND OF THE HEATHER."

BY THE SCOTCH LADS AND LASSIES.

SEATS SELLING AT HUTTON'S MUSIC STORE Reserved: 50c. 75c. $1.00. Balcony: 30c. Parquette: 20c.

Queer Cargoes
(By T. C. Bridges.)
Thirteen tons of dried fish formed part of the cargo of a liner which arrived at Plymouth in December last. They came from Mexico, and are to be used in the manufacture of paint. Dried fish are also imported from Brazil, but not for paint-making. These are made up into food for poultry and pheasants. Besides the ordinary necessities, such as wheat, meat, oranges, and tobacco, which come pouring into this country from abroad, there arrive here a quantity of goods so fantastic that, when you read their descriptions on the manifest, you are driven to wonder of what possible use they can be to anyone. For instance, a case of walrus whiskers—you might make many vain guesses as to the purpose to which these were to be turned before you were told they are to be made into toothpicks. Frogs' skins, again. Now and then a package of these comes from India, and they are used—of all things—for book binding. It appears that the skin of this Indian frog makes a very fine soft leather which, when dyed, takes the most delicate colours. A well-known English binder has produced some wonderful effects by the use of frogs' skins. "Twenty-five Tasmanian Devils" may sound rather a gruesome conglomeration, yet it was only lot in a cargo of Australian animals and birds which reached London. The "devils," in spite of their name, were not nearly so dangerous as a case of "diseases" brought to Southampton on board a cargo steamer arriving from the west coast of Africa. The case was actually full of cultures of germs of blackwater fever, malarial fevers, and all kinds of tropical diseases. Snails and frogs come to London in large quantities and find their way to Soho, where there are cooks who

London Oddities
In the days of George I. there was a Royal official called the "King's Cooker." His job was an easy one, for the duties lasted only through Lent. They consisted merely of crowing every night during that season in the vicinity of the Palace; thus proclaiming the hour, by so many crows, instead of in the usual way. On the first Ash Wednesday after the coming of the House of Hanover, the King was astounded to see an official enter the room where he was supping and proceed to cook-a-doodle the information that it was ten o'clock. Thinking he was being affronted, he was very annoyed, and it was with difficulty that the interpreter could make him understand the nature of the custom. From that time the King's Cooker ceased to function. Another quaint custom which obtained years ago, says C. G. Harper in "More Queer Things About London," was for each fire insurance company to have its own fremen. It was the custom to affix on an insured house the company's "fire-mark," so that when the fremen arrived on the scene they could at once perceive whose concern it was to put out the flames. The fremen of other companies cheerfully permitted the fire to continue, and went away without lending a hand, assured that their own employers were suffering no loss.

Distemper!
Minard's is the best remedy for distemper and other ills of horses, cattle and dogs.