

Jeannie Sinclair,
OR,
THE LILY OF THE STRATH.

CHAPTER XXXVI.—JIM MURDOCHSON RAFFLED AT LAST—THE STRATH ONCE MORE—PREPARATIONS FOR THE WEDDING.
"Nuff and nonsense, Maister Denman—Shuff and nonsense, I tell ye. Jeannie Sinclair is yours for the askin', and that ye'll find out afore two hours is past."
"This is sheer madness on your part, Ned," exclaimed William, impatiently. "Come, bid me farewell, and, though we shall never see each other more again, I shall not forget you."
"Maister Denman," cried Ned, earnestly, "I ken ye canna bid thine me crazy in this matter. But trust me this once—only this once. I dinna think ye hae fund me just a fule, hae ye, Maister Denman?"
"In all else most sensible and intelligent," returned the youth. "But on this one point laboring under a strange delusion."
"Weel, weel," rejoined Ned, with an assured smile, "dinna believe me—only trust me. I can assure ye I'm as sensible on this point as ony ither; and I swear tae ye, Maister Denman, that, as sure as ye sun shines in the heavens, Jeannie Sinclair will this night be a maid unwed, and her marriage wi' the Baronet blaw the winds."
"Ned, your language is inexplicable," said Robert Douglas.
"That's a lang wurd, Maister Robert. I fancy it means that ye dinna understand hoo it can be as I say. Maybe no; but what I say is true for a' that, and, as ye lo'e Maister Denman, dinna let him gang awa'. Try rather tae seech him tae gang wi' ye tae the kirk, where they stie the marriage tae tak' place, but where it will be effectually stopped. Just gang up there you twa, and tak' a seat in the cock-loft, whaur nobody will see ye, but whaur ye can see and hear a' that gangs on, and then yell understand what I mean, but what I canna explain at present. Promise me this, Maister Robert—Lord love ye promise me this."
"I undertake this," replied Robert.
"Mr Denman will not leave the Strath till the ceremony is over."
"That's a' I want," cried Ned, joyfully; "an' by my faith, gif ye bides in the Strath till the ceremony he looks for is over, he'll bide a while that's all. But losh me, I maunna stay anither moment, for time is precious—awfu' precious. I'll see ye bairn this afternoon or some afters."
"Will ye not say farewell, Ned?" said William, again proffering his hand.
"No, I wunna," replied Ned, resolutely.
"Eh, Maister Denman, that's a bonny doog ye've gotten. When we forgether again, ye maun tell me a' your adventures in Calaforny. And noo, I'm awa tae the conference wi' Lucky Cat—shem—up tae the toon, I mean, where I hae some folk tae see."
And with a wave of his hand, which held his knotted thorn staff, Ned swung himself away, and took the road to the village.
"This is most extraordinary," observed Robert, as he stood looking after him.
"Wild as his statement appears, his air of perfect assurance impresses me with the feeling that he must have some ground for it. From my knowledge of Ned, I have no reason to think that he would cherish an utter delusion."
"I am loth to think so," observed William, "but we are shut up to the conviction, for this cannot possibly be anything but a delusion."
"Reason would say so. And yet, strange to say, I have my doubts. However, for the sake of our friendship, agree to enable me to make good my word to Ned; and stay till—"
"Till the hour of eleven, and the ceremony is to signal, makes it impossible for Ned to cherish his delusion longer," interrupted Denman. "Be it so. In fact I have resolved to follow out his suggestion, and be present unwe in the church. The temptation has come upon me, too strong to be resisted, to see her again, and for the last time. We shall retire quietly before the ceremony is quite over, and make for the Abbey. We shall still have time to reach it before noon."
Robert Douglas was surprised at this very strange resolution on the part of his friend, but he willingly acquiesced, and instead of following the road which led eastward to the Abbey, they struck into the path to the left, which conducted to the village.
The church was at a considerable distance from the hamlet, and stood by itself, surrounded by the large, thick-planted graveyard. When the youths had reached it the doors were open, but none of the villagers had yet come to see the approaching wedding. To be sure, it wanted fully an hour of the appointed time; and without doubt a large assembly would gather—not only to do honor to the great man whose nuptials were to be celebrated, but to see the unwedded sight of a marriage celebrated in church, such an occurrence not having taken place within the memory of the oldest inhabitant of the Strath.

Twelfth of July in St. Catharines.

GRAND PROCESSION OF THE ORANGEMEN.
(From the Hamilton Times.)
St. Catharines, July 12, 2 p. m.—The grand procession of the Orange Lodges here to-day, proved an immense success. Not less than six thousand joined in the march through the town. Forty splendid banners and flags were carried in procession. There nine bands in full blast, besides the inevitable and irrepressible fifes and drums of each Lodge. The whole affair is most creditable to the Society. The dignitaries of the Order are here, and the procession is now marching into Montebello Gardens, to enjoy the speeches. Of men, women and children, there are no less than twenty thousand visiting St. Catharines to-day. Right royally were the Hamilton excursionists received on their arrival. The march through the town was as usual on this day, a prolonged one, and wearied the brethren considerably.
The Toronto brethren and excursionists numbering fully 2,800, arrived about one o'clock. They had chartered two steamers, the Osgrey and Huron. The cost of the whole was $550, and was less than was taken on the Osgrey alone. Many also came by the steamer City of Toronto. The Hon. John Hillyard Cameron, Ogle E. Gowan, Esq., F. H. Metcalf, Esq., J. Ross Robertson, Esq., and other notables, were present in the procession. The Hamilton Orangemen were a credit to the city, and numbered on actual count, 413, including the superb Lodge Orange Young Britons, who were dressed alike throughout.
Brantford and Paris joined Hamilton at the station and increased the ranks about three hundred, and say six hundred excursionists. St. Kitts is gaily decorated with flags, and especially the flag that braved a thousand years' as your loyal and able representative says. It is to be hoped O'Neil and a few Fenian spies are in town, that they may take warning in time. British connection and fealty to the Union Jack are the prevailing sentiments. On all hands are the Hamilton brethren receiving thanks for their splendid turnout. On the whole it was as magnificent a sight as could well be imagined, and St. Catharines will long remember this day. The Great Western Railway made ample preparation for the event, and placed fifteen first-class cars on the track at Hamilton for the excursionists, which were well crammed.
All is quiet, and even opponents are enjoying the sight, and fraternizing with the brethren.
The Secretary of Treasury has directed the Assistant Treasurer, at New York, to purchase three millions of U. S. Bonds each Wednesday during the present month, to be held subject to future action of Congress.

JOHN WHYTE, Official Assignee.
Wyndham Street, Guelph, 30th June.

THERE IS NO PLACE in the DOMINION WHERE DRY GOODS can be purchased on such favorable terms as in Guelph at WILLIAM STEWART'S. This fact is now universally admitted. Many families buy or order from Guelph, as they find Dry Goods of a superior class, and remarkable for cheapness. When such is the case, it is astonishing that any who can pay ready cash continue to buy from the surrounding villages an inferior class of goods at high prices, when by coming to Guelph they might have the best goods at the lowest price, therefore

WILLIAM STEWART,
WYNDHAM STREET,

Would respectfully invite any who are still unacquainted with his establishment to favor him with a call, being convinced that the superior quality of his goods, combined with the low price, cannot fail to give satisfaction.

DR. J. BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR

The great Catarrh, Headache, Neuralgia and Universal Pain Remedy is warranted to surpass any known discovery for the instantaneous relief and rapid cure of any conceivable form of pain. Used internally and externally it never fails.
A little of BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR applied to the head will instantly relieve Nervous Headache, if a sick Headache, dilute 1 to 6 teaspoonfuls in half a glass of water, and take one to four swallows, inhale from the bottle. Both the head and the stomach, and a cure immediately follows. One to four swallows relieves Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Palpitation, Acidity of the Stomach, Flatulency, &c. A small quantity of the Allevantor diluted and snuffed up the nostril, then gargle the throat, and take one to four swallows of the diluted remedy will immediately and quickly cure Catarrh, Tickling of the Throat, Cough, Asthma, and all tendency to Consumption as immediately relieved with the Allevantor. A few applications of Allevantor cures the most severe Neuralgia, the worst forms of local pain, Rheumatism, &c. The Throat when sore and inflamed is relieved at once by gargling with diluted Allevantor, and taking a swallow or two after. Lame Neck, Back, Chest, Shoulder or Limbs, cured in a short time by applying Briggs' Allevantor. Applied to a Burn or Scald it immediately allays all pain, and gives rest to the afflicted. A few applications of the ALLEVANTOR relieves all kinds of Spinal Affection, Contracted Cords and Muscles, Swellings, Sprains, Strains, Tumors, and all similar affections. Applied freely to all Skin Diseases, it affords instant relief to itching and rapidly restores the skin to a healthy condition. The Allevantor is a perfect remedy for Chilblains, Frosted Feet, Cold Hands and Feet, used freely according to directions, its power in restoring is wonderful. Many cases of Deafness are cured with the Allevantor. Sore and Weak Eyes are cured, Toothache immediately relieved, Ague in the face rapidly disappears. The wonderful and medicinal virtues of the Allevantor will never be told, for they are so varied, and as it is a bonafide remedy for such a variety of diseases, it seems incredible to name them, yet the proprietor challenges any case of Pain or Inflammation that cannot be at once relieved with Briggs' Allevantor. Price, One Dollar.
Sold by E. HARVEY & CO., Guelph, and by all respectable druggists and country merchants everywhere. DR. J. BRIGGS & CO., Proprietors, No. 6 King Street, corner of Yonge, Toronto, and 208 Broadway, New York.
