Automobile dealers in the domin-ion lost $659,809.22 when the Federal Government repealed its luxury tax two years ago and left them with a large number of cars on their hands on which they had already paid the tax and for which they were unable to collect it from their prospects. This loss was one that was com mon all over the country and Lon-don dealers were losers to the extent of some $25,000 in this way. J. advisory committee in Ottawa who sonomic conference on reparation was in London last night addressing a meeting of the local retail automotive dealers, explained the position of the automotive section of the Retail Merchants' Association, and rebate of this tax from the federal government. Mr. Dixon is preparing a statement of the claims of the quarrel with that, and raised dealers from coast to coast showing what their losses have been how they have, in many cases, been forc-ed into liquidation by the cancella-tion of the tax in the way that was done, and how the association is ful-ly determined to see the matter through to a conclusion and to pre-sent the real facts of the case to the minister of finance when the time
