We should esteem it a favor if subscribers in the city would immediately report to us any irregularity or incivility on the part of carriers.

THE AGRICULTURE AND ARTS ASSOCIATION will ask the legislature to amend its charter so that the directors will be allowed to devote their entire private list to agricultural objects, thus omitting the industrial and manufactures, which now form such a heavy drain upon the resources of the association.

THE CITY OF LONDON IS THE NEXT APPLICANT

for connection with the Credit Valley. They all want to be on this favorite line. People used to say that the C.V. had no reason for existence, that it was one of George Laidlaw's bonus schemes. In many respects it is the most important road in the province.

NO FEWER THAN FIVE "ENTERPRISING SHOVENS" have visited Cleveland in the hopes of purchasing the federal car which conveyed the remains of President Garfield, and have offered very large prices for it—$50,000, it is said, in one case. The persons in authority have refused even to listen to such offers. The car is to be enclosed in a handsome case constructed in large part of plate glass and preserved in the cemetery.

MR. LIVINGSTONE, "WHO SO BASELY BETRAYED THE NATIONAL CURRENCY CAUSE," at the "West Toronto election last year," had better look after the Detroit National, which says the granting of 2,000,000 acres of land to the "Northwest temperance colonization society," with which he is connected, is the reward for the above-mentioned betrayal.

ANOTHER RAILWAY.

We hear talk of still another railway, to be built without government assistance but toward which the municipalities to be benefited will be asked to give a bonus. It is to run a railway from Hamilton to Kingston, to go right into all the towns and villages along the shore. One great fault of the Western and Trunk is that many of their stations are from a mile to two miles from the town or village they serve. The new scheme is mentioned in connection with the Credit Valley, and fast and frequent trains are to be prominent features of it.

AN HEROIC SPECTACLE.

It has been said that a good man struggling with adversity is a spectacle for the gods. The same may surely be said of the spectacle of the greatest man in England struggling with the demon of discontent in Ireland. Grandeur than anything pictured of the Homeric heroes, whose deeds and characters Mr. Gladstone has so artistically analyzed, is the spectacle of the grand old man, the greatest statesman that England ever had, trying to do justice to Ireland in spite of herself. No, let us not say that, either, not in spite of herself—but in spite of revolutionary leaders who are enraged at the bare prospect of the people taking kindly to the new land law. Ten years ago, three years ago, any man would have been counted "cracked" had he said that so liberal a scheme as the new Irish land law would be actually in operation. But now, when far more than was expected has been gained, the agitators turn round and say they will have none of it. They spurn as if it were dirt such a law of tenant right as English and Scotch farmers would think it something marvellous to obtain. Suppose there had been no new land law passed for Ireland, or even proposed in parliament, would the agitators have been any more enraged and irremediable than they are now? They could not, surely, in fact it seems as if the passage of a law does more to rouse them to fury than if all reform of the law had been peremptorily refused. But we are looking at the truly heroic spectacle of the great statesman, now in the closing years of his life, spending as it were his last breath in the gigantic and apparently thankless task to which he has set himself. Thinkless, that is, as far as the irreconcilables are concerned, but not as regards the nation. Every patriot, every lover of his country—the three kingdoms—must wish success to the hero-statesman in the fight. We shall surely hear that public opinion is declaring itself in full force on his side, and giving the agitators to understand that they are not to rule the country. It is cheering to observe that Mr. Gladstone himself speaks boldly, and holds not the language of fear by any means, at present.

He has done the very best for Ireland that any British premier could do; nay, no other living man can be named of whom it can be pretended even that he could have carried the half of what Mr. Gladstone has carried for Ireland. In this fight the hero and the statesman will surely win.

CANADA'S WHEAT CROP 1881.

The World recently published Bradstreet's estimate of the surplus wheat crop of the United States for 1881. On Saturday last Bradstreet's supplemental that report by an estimate of the Canadian wheat crop for 1881. Their returns embrace 80 per cent of the wheat growing counties in Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba. The surplus of Canadian wheat for this year and the three years preceding are approximately as follows:

Table with columns: Year, No. bushels, No. bushels. Rows: 1878, 1879, 1880, 1881.

The returns from Manitoba point to a wheat acreage there of 100,000 acres, yielding, on an average, 15 bushels per acre. This amount, added to the yield of Quebec and Ontario, gives 28,000,000 bushels as the wheat crop for the Canadian Dominion for 1881.

It also appears that spring wheat has not been extensively sown this year, and that fall wheat was very generally substituted for it. Generalizing, nearly one-half of the reports place winter wheat above an average crop, while only 5 per cent of the returns make it under the average. Regarding spring wheat, the small amount sown shows a field averaging a harvest of one bushel gathered under favorable conditions. Altogether, the present wheat crop of Canada has been surpassed in quality or quantity. The good harvest is apparently not due to extended planting, as the acreages in the two sections have not been materially increased.

A WIFE FOR A DOLLAR.

The good old days when a wife could be bought in a market place for a few shillings or pounds belong to the historic past. In these degenerate days women have ceased to be valued so highly; the average man is selfish and conceited enough to imagine a man in the west who had sold his wife for a dollar and a-half. Everybody laughed, and a Mr. Jansen who was present turned to his friend, and said, "I will give you fifty cents for your wife." "That is too little—make it a dollar," was the reply. Mrs. Jansen, in a pretty little burst of indignation at the insignificance of the sum at which she was valued by her spouse, broke in, "I want to see if you are man enough to sell me for a dollar," and forthwith brought pen and paper to have the transaction completed in due form. The buyer paid his dollar, and the following documents were signed:—

MOUNT VERNON, June 3, 1881. I, Mary Lanten, of this place, heretofore the wife of Edward A. Lanten, do hereby sell to F. Jansen for the consideration of $1 legal money, the person known as Mrs. E. A. Lanten.

Received of F. Jansen the consideration money for which I transfer all my rights to said Mrs. E. A. Lanten. Witness my hand and seal this 3rd day of June, 1881.

And the merry company laughed. The happy Lanten laughed too, for he congratulated himself that his good wife, who had lived with him faithfully for twenty-three years and had borne him several fine sons and daughters, would not desert him now, while he was besides a dollar in pocket. She determined to take him at his word, however, and went off with Jansen, to whom she was apparently not unacceptable, and lived with him as his wife for some days. Lanten now sorely repented him of his joke, and pursued his wayward wife. In order to avoid a public scandal, he agreed to take her back; but he was not the same to her as before; and her heart turned lovingly towards Jansen, whom she told her husband she had learned to love dearly, and could not give up. Obedient to the promptings of affection, she returned to her newly-found love and went with him to New York.

The result of the whole affair is that an action for divorce, brought by the now sorrowing Lanten, is pending in the New York courts.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

Roast Beef for England—The Raid on Mexico—Irishmen in New York—The Office They Hold—Torontoians Abroad.

New York, Oct. 15.—I was down on the North river the other day. At one of the piers the steamship Devonia was taking in a cargo of cotton, tobacco, breadstuffs, and general merchandises. A number of stevedores were handling a lot of boxes, marked "Gotham American roast beef company." I asked one of them what the boxes contained. "Roast beef for England," he answered. "Do you ship lots of it?" I asked. "I should smile," he said, as he jabbed his hook into one of the boxes. "Tons of it, sir," said he, "and the roast beef of hold Hingland will have to take a back seat." This is the poor British farmer undone. Here is a company which can make profit out of roasting meat and shipping it to the proverbial land of roast beef. How can foreign labor compete against this. The miles of docks which I passed presenting a busy scene. Hundreds of ships were taking in cotton, sugar, rice, tobacco, flour, lumber, sacked pork, cured fish, pig iron, and many other commodities. No, it might not be the worst half if a conservative government had not been so conservative as to give Maine to the Americans and rob Canada of her only sea front worth speaking of. But one never hears Canada spoken of down here. They all look upon it as an inhospitable country. For this reason, Montreal is only twelve or fourteen hours ride from here, and, as many Americans go there in the winter and experience the rigorous climate of that part of the province, they return with very unfavorable opinions of it. They can't be convinced that Toronto and London way are the best.

They hold the same opinion as Voltaire when he spoke of Canada as a barren waste. Their whole attention is at present directed towards Mexico, the rich trade of which they intend to wrest from the German and English houses now trading there by way of the Gulf of Mexico. Every year before railways owned and operated by Americans will penetrate all parts of that country. They will follow American ideas, the Americans.

IRISHMEN IN NEW YORK.

There is consternation here among "the press" as to the result of the meeting of John Devoy will send another telegram threatening to shoot Foster and Gladstone. The circle here is not a very important one, but they laugh among themselves when they think of the scare they give the English government. Donovan Rosser, the American statesman, is in the line of Philadelphia. His office is in Beekman street, where he publishes a paper which no one pays any attention to. When the infernal machine he has made is ready, he will be put on all English steamships, and the infernal machine he has made is ready, he will be put on all English steamships, and the infernal machine he has made is ready, he will be put on all English steamships.

On a pleasant Sunday afternoon in June last, Mr. Edward A. Lanten, his wife, and a few of their mutual friends, were sitting together in the shade of his garden at Mount Vernon, near Washington, enjoying a free-and-easy chat. In the course of the conversation Mr. Lanten told a little yarn of a man in the west who had sold his wife for a dollar and a-half. Everybody laughed, and a Mr. Jansen who was present turned to his friend, and said, "I will give you fifty cents for your wife." "That is too little—make it a dollar," was the reply. THE CITY DRAINAGE.

To the Editor of The Toronto World. How long has the question city to remain in the hands of different classes of men, who, on the strength of advancing the sanitary condition of the city, have had no money matters, and whose character as men, but men who are independent in worth sustaining. Let us have more such men as the one who so worthily fills the mayor's chair. Now for my ideas: We, first of all, want a house-hoarding canvass to ascertain how many are drained and how many are not; then to force every owner of a house to have it properly drained at once. The idea of allowing a city the size of Toronto to become a huge pest-house, for the sake of a few dollars. Who'll be the guinea? Why, every one. HEALTH.

THE KNIGHT CHAMPION OF BRITANNIA.

To the Editor of The Toronto World. Sir,—The noble and protegenously firm in the position in which Sir Francis Hincks found himself the other day, in his capacity to attack the author of a letter which he attended to. In the meantime the foul of the wrong man. In his usual haste to attack those who differ from himself on a matter of public interest, he saw the name; and now he says: "The signature of Mr. Sydney Smith, O.C., should not have been attached to each article, but an explanation." But the O.C. was not attacked, therefore the explanation was not necessary. And now Sir Francis is rampant because he allowed himself in an unguarded moment to be tempted down from his exalted position to breast a lance with the humble citizen without a single acquired appendage to his name. How shocking. But in this we have an illustration, even in this democratic age, of the old man's scorn and the proud man's contumely. But with us such men are happily few. It is, I think, excessively tantalizing to one of our city fathers to maintain a temperance society to be compelled to witness the rapid growth of that national sentiment which will ere long sweep across Canada, and lift her into that higher position among nations which she is both worthy and entitled to maintain. Sir Francis Hincks says so long as Sir John Macdonald and the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie change not their political opinions, he will not vote for them. He has spoken for your columns? It is true all the same, let certain papers protest and scold as they may. Indeed the Globe itself has not let your columns a dot, for it holds very sensibly that a people no more than an individual can reasonably be called to sacrifice its wellbeing for a mere sentiment. It says "it pays" for Canada to continue connected with Britain, and if the time should come when it would not pay even in dollars and cents, you will find many papers of all stripes ready to whistle loyalty and sentiment "down the wind."

PUBLIC OPINION.

Peterboro Times: It is not very easy to say when a man is in error. New York World: Paraph was arrested for striving for land reform, but for preaching socialism and anarchy. New York Herald: By the death of Dr. J. G. Holland we have lost perhaps the most popular of our novelists, essayists, and poets.

Kingston Whig: All we ask is that Canadian trade should be made as free as possible, consistently with our revenue requirements. Kingston Whig: A large tract of land exclusively settled by total abstainers would be the principle of prohibition the best kind of temperance.

Kingston Whig: Kingstonians probably never felt more hopeful of the future of the city, save when the seat of government rested here, than now. London Advertiser: We support the action of the collector. He may or may not be entirely right in his estimate of particular works, but his motive was proper and in the public interest.

London Advertiser: Some might ask if the young men were any good, they reach their majority. He desired to call attention to a class of young men the Y.M.C.A. had apparently but little attempted to reach. This was a dull class composed of thinking, intelligent young men, who in a few years would become the leaders of the nation. Were they not continually coming in contact with men of this sort? But what were they doing for them? Large numbers of them were wading through the Lethal waters of the scepticism and doubt; their studies brought them in contact with the natural and popular sciences tinged with scepticism, and the rationalistic literature which everywhere abounded, and the result was they soon fell into a line of thinking and reasoning, which proved dangerous to their best interests.
