New York, Dec. 28—In the socialist convention to-day the New York section was censured for not holding a sympathy meeting on account of Garfield. Platform adopted demands revision of the constitution so that a number of citizens may propose laws to be referred to the popular vote, and that all bills before congress be subject to general vote if so demanded by a specified number of citizens; also demands political equality without regard to creed, race or sex; the establishment of national department of labor; that government issue all money; that eight hours be a legal working day; entire restriction from children under 14 years; universal compulsory education; that election day be legal holiday, that all ballots be printed by the government, and the ballots of all candidates for office be sent to voters two days before elections. Resolutions were adopted, favoring the foundation of national and international trade and labor unions, and pledging the socialistic labor party of the next two years will not affiliate with any political party not endorsing its platform; also sympathizing with Russian inhilists and pronouncing all expressions of sympathy from this republican government to Russia as shameful and cowardly; approving the anti-rent agitation in Ireland; denouncing England and glorifying in the success of socialists in the German elections. More Expert Testimony—The Prisoner's Blas WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Guiteau this morning was rather paler than usual. He complained that he had not slept well last wening. A man was placed in a cell pear his who was suffering from mania, and durthe whole night his shricks rang brough the jail. Guiteau was much and oyed, and asked the keeper what was the ccasion for such a riot. The keeper replied. "We've got a crazy man on our hands to-night. "Well," said Guiteau, Why don't you choke him and make him keep quiet, and not let respectable people be disturbed this way by a miser-able lunatic."

Dr. McDonald again took the stand and Dr. McDonald again took the stand and was cross examined by Scoville.
Witness was asked if in his practice he had not met an instance of temporary insanity. He replied: "Yes sir, I knew of a man who was insane 24 hours.

Dr. Randolph Barksdale, superintendent of an asylum near Richmond, testified that he visited prisoner at jail, 30th Nov., when Drs. Loring and Hamilton examined him. He had also closely observed him in court, and from personal examination and observation he was of the opinion that he was sane. Witness also testified that he believed Guiteau had been feigning in court. presentatives.

The regular biennial session of the national convention of the socialist labor party began on Monday morning in Steuben hall, with about a hundred delegates present. It was called to order by Philip Van Patten, secretary of the national committee. The contary of the national committee. tary of the national committee. called to order by Philip Van Patten, secreters testified that he believed Guiteau had been feigning in court.

Dr. J. H. Callander, superintendent of the Tennessee state asylum thought the prisoner was perfectly sane.

Scoville produced a plaster cast of Guiteau's head taken by Clark Mills. It was examined by the experts, reporters and others, and created quite a stir.

Scoville then put the hypothetical question which embraced the clause: "Suppose the prisoner believed himself to be a partner with Jesus Christ."

Porter protested against the question as blasphemous. It would be a disgrace to a court of justice and a christian nation to allow it to be entertained for a moment.

Scoville replied that if no allusion could be made as to what the prisoner claimed to be his actuating motive or influences that led to the act, the whole defence would be wiped away by a single stroke.

Porter insisted upon his view in a most impressive manner, and declared that the time had come when in the name of the American people and on behalf of the government in the federal court he felt it his impressive manner, and declared that the time had come when in the name of the American neople and on behalf of the government in the federal court he felt it his duty to demand that the prisoner be remanded to the dock.

Guiteau (spitefully), "Oh you do, you big mouthed Porier." The officers sitting behind the prisoner attempted to quiet him. He whirled around and snarled at one of them: "Will you mind your business or I'll slap you in the mouth you fool you."

Porter continued his remarks and Guiteau shouted, "Well you had better mind your business." Porter, "That's my business here to-day, and I now insist upon my motion of Saturday that the prisoner be remanded to the dock.

Reed denied the prisoner's sanity as established. He thought an admonition to prisoner from the court would he suffice.

Corkhill insisted on the removal of the prisoner to the dock.

Guiteau trembling with anger, on apprehension shouted: "You want to shoot me do yeu, Corkhill. You can't convict me, so you want to get me shot, you might as well hang me up outside and tell the mob to shoot at me. I tell you (raising his voice almost to shriek) God almighty would curse you sir if I was put in that dock, you miserable wretch you."

Judge Cox stated that no certain measure to silence prisoner could have been taken without abridging his John Aspenwell, a timekeeper on the King and Sherbourne streets railway routes, left his boarding house, 76 Eastern-avenue, at 5 o'clock Monday morning, since he has not been heard of. His friends state that for two weeks he has been very despondent and has been drinking hard. Aspenwell is the son of a clergyman in the Southern States, is 29 years old, and unmarried. A short time ago he was presented with a watch and chain by his fellow-employees, being well liked by them.

Judge Cox stated that no certain measure to silence prisoner could have been taken without abridging his constitutional rights, whereas it been deemed, and he thought rightly, that the prisoner's behavior and utterances would prove the best means of determining his mental condition. Cox then ordered the prisoner to be removed to the dock Hon. Mr. Forster, secretary for Ireland, replying to the recommendation of a meeting of English liberals to release the land

THE WATERWORKS. What has Been Done during the Past Year-

A Comparison with 1880—Quantity of Wat Supplied—Coal, Revenue, &c. As the year is about closing a little information about the work done by the water works committee and the department may be of interest to our readers. During the year the amount of water pumped was nine-teen hundred millions of gallons as against eighteen in 1880. The cost of this addition-al hundred millions would at the estimated rate of 12 cents a thousand gallons be $12, 000, but the addition to the revenue has been $16,000. The increase in the amount of $16,000. The increase in the amount of coal used on account of the extra pumping was only 177 tons. There has also been a great saving in the price of the coal. The sum estimated for the year for the 6500 tons was $39,000, the price being put at $6 per ton; but owing to the breaking up of the coal ring the price was reduced to $4.70 per ton, making the total amount $30,550. The amount of coal actually used, however, was only 6024 tons, and the committee have a surplus in hand of 476 tons 000, or a mill and a quarter on the donar. The revenue for next year is estimated at $150.000. If the expenditure is estimated at $206,000, which is nearly $4,000 more than last year, the balance necessary to be raised by assessment will be only $56,000 or about a mill on the dollar. or about a mill on the dollar.

During the last year there have been 18,746 inspections, and 1,000 leakages have been discovered. The number of houses rated and re-rated was 4,500. Two miles and 800 feet of new mains have been lail, making a total of 113 miles 312 feet. There were laid 2,720 new services, making a total of 12,302.

The putting in of a large number of new meters has worked in two ways, by decreasing waste and increasing the revenue. This increase will be still further shown when the returns for the next quarter come
