Kingston Maple Leaf cricket club defeated Ganoquo in three straight games Saturday, 1st, 4th, 5th and 27th.

Ross Macdonald and Ted Smith ran a 100-yard race at the Rosedale grounds on Tuesday night, the banker beating the railway magazine by the length of a hoe handle.

All the arrangements for the great three-mile sculling race between Wallace Ross and Charles E. Courtney, to be rowed at Oak Point, N.Y., to-morrow have been completed. The race is for a purse of $2500, offered by James Pilkington and J. Nagle.

In the game of cricket at Birmingham Monday, between the Australian team and the Midlands team, the first innings resulted in a score of 82 for the latter and 76 for the former. In the second innings the Midlands scored 26 runs. The Australians won, with four wickets to spare.

The races at Pictou Saturday were well attended. The following is the result: In the three mile race Blue Bell won three straight heats, Fanning's mare 2d, and Ketchum's mare 3d. In the 2.38 class Ray George, last dayman, won 2d, Midgley 3d. In the free for all Lockout won the first heat, and Fuller took the following three heats.

Sullivan Visits Mitchell.

From the New York Sun of Tuesday. John L. Sullivan, his manager, Al Smith, and his combination arrived in town yesterday morning, and went to the Ashland house, where Sullivan met Mitchell at the clerk's desk. Sullivan slapped the Englishman heartily on the shoulder, and they shook hands warmly.

Which included Sullivan, Mitchell, Pete Duryea, Al Smith, Steve Taylor, Mike Donovan and others, then adjourned to Mitchell's room, which is the one John Morrissey occupied, and talked matters over for almost four hours.

Sullivan said, "Mitchell, I see you have got somewhat bigger than when I met you."

"Yes," said Mitchell, "and I would like to have a go with you again."

"Well, I will spar you at any time, and I will take all the results."

"No," said Sullivan, "but I will agree if the money is divided equally."

"No," said Sullivan, "I will not spar that way. I will go for the whole receipt, and if you can beat me in four rounds you can make a nice little fortune. Or I will spar three of the best men here on Monday, one on Wednesday, and one on Friday; or I will spar two of them in one night."

Mitchell said something about fighting with bare knuckles.

Sullivan said, "I will fight just once more, and I will bet $1000 to $5000."

Knock you out. I will like to make it ten or more rounds, and under any rules."

No match was made, and Sullivan left on the 4 p.m. train for Boston.

Al Smith says the combination in their eight months' trip made a clear profit of $100,000. He offered to bet $100,000 that Sullivan can beat any man in the world with gloves or bare knuckles, Marquis of Queensberry or London ring rules. There is little doubt that a match will soon be made between Sullivan and Mitchell, as both men are eager.

BOUND TO HAVE HIGHER.

A Young Lady Pursues Her Fickle Swain and Makes a Captive.

LUNAY, Va., May 28.—Miss Jellie Storm and Mr. Randolph Clayley got on the Shenandoah Valley train at Patterson. The girl is a pretty brunette, aged 25, and Clayley is a red-headed and not handsome young man of 21. They got aboard the train early, bound for this place to get married, as the passengers were not slow in finding out.

Shortly after the train started the young man suddenly left the side of his expectant bride and took a passenger into a corner of the coach and proceeded to inform him that he had arrived at the conclusion that he did not want to get married. He asked the passenger if he could suggest some way by which he could get out of the dilemma. The gentleman advised him to get on the south-bound train where the two passed each other at Marksville, and in that way get out of the reach of that young lady. The passenger promised to give the deserted girl enough money to return to her home.

Clayley, acting upon the suggestion, stole away undetected, and got upon the down train and was ten miles away before the young lady discovered his desertion, and at the next station she left the train, refusing indignantly the offer of the escort and money for her return. She then proceeded to walk down the track in the direction her recalcitrant lover had taken, and reached Patterson after walking twenty-seven miles. She went at once to the store in which Clayley clerked and asked him pleasantly to step outside. The result of the conversation for the purpose of the world has yet to produce the man with temerity enough to tackle the guide-books and compute how many Lovel's loops there are in this country.

THE COIN-BANGLE CRAZE.

Girls on a Cruise among Their Gentlemen Friends.

From the New York Journal.

"Isn't this too sweet?" exclaimed a pretty girl as she holds up for the admiring gaze of a young man a slender, silver bangle bracelet, from which depends a few five and ten-cent pieces, with a monogram engraved on each one.

"This is my five-cent piece," and don't his initials 'C. M. B.' Charles Montague Brown, look lovely? Don't you want to give me your monogram?" she says with a bewitching smile, and the young man assents gladly.

So the next morning he lies himself to the jeweler, and not to be done by "Charles Montague Brown" he takes from his pocket a bright, new quarter and pays $1 to have it polished, his full name engraved and the date put in the corner.

Coin bangles are now the craze among the maidens of this city and Brooklyn. The fashion was started some time ago, but did not gain favor as the girls wear the most modest to ask gentlemen friends for dimes and nickels. But the desire to possess these jingling, tinkling wristlets became so strong and the few girls who did manage to get them were such objects of envy that at last secret clubs were formed, and a "bangle ring" was the result.

Bangles of the finest gold, set with precious stones are no longer held in esteem and plain band bracelets are looked upon with scorn. The silver dimes with their row of single coins is now the dearest ornament, and girls who do not possess them are obliged on all occasions to retire to the shade, whereas a girl who has two of them is the belle of the neighborhood.

Suppose you have a good many orders to engrave monograms on silver pieces," said a Journal reporter to a popular jeweler.

"Yes, indeed," he replied, laughing. "At present I have only sixty to cut pieces in my store waiting to be cut and half as many nickels. One young man who left a dime here a week ago came in every morning and evening to see if it is finished. He says he dare not go to see his girl without it, and he is awfully afraid she'll fancy some other man who gave her two nickels with his monogram on one and the Lord's prayer on the other. But then he wants such a lot of stuff on his dime-four or five quotations and an original poem that it will be another week before it is done. He has grown quite thin and pale during the week, and I feel sorry for him, but what can I do?"

"How much does it cost to have the monogram cut?" questioned the reporter.

"Oh, from 10 to 15 cents a letter, and if the name is engraved the cost is 5 cents for small letters and 10 for capitals. I had a young man come here and have 82 worth of engraving put on a 3-cent piece, but they generally want the monogram and nothing more."

"Do you ever cut names on gold coin?"

"Well, I did a few times, gold dollars, you know, but that is not usual, as sensible girls wouldn't take them from men. Old and rare coins are the most fashionable, and it seems a shame to polish them off and engrave them. Then, white eagle pennies are in great favor. Just here a young man came in breathless and put two dimes on the counter. 'I want the monogram 'K. C. B.' put on these right off, and I'm willing to pay for them,' the reporter heard him say, and then he left to interview a pretty girl up the avenue."

"Have you a coin bangle?" he asked, as she came into the parlor, followed by her little pug.

"Why of course I have!" she exclaimed. "Two of them, and they are lovely. Here they are," and she held out her right arm to display two silver bangles hung with dimes, nickels, three-cent pieces, white pennies and other coin. "I have fifty-two bangles on these two," she continued, "and I had more fun cutting them than I have in any other way. Some of them you see have quotations and verses on them and other names. You know I found out they cost $38.45, both of them, and I felt rather guilty, but they didn't amount to much. I've made up my mind if you don't care much for you, and I think bangles a grand institution."

"I do not approve of coin bangles," said an East Side belle. "I have one, but most of the money is gone. You see I went out walking the other day with a number of girls, and all wanted ice cream and chocolates so much that I had to use up five of my dimes. I'm having a bangle made of little hearts, rings, frogs, pens, pencils, barrels, monkeys, etc., depending from it, and I think it will set me a new fashion."

One of the only two remaining Roman monuments in Great Britain is in Causton street, London, the other being in Causton,holm in Northumberland. There is a Roman work about the tower of London. Until quite recently an old Roman tower was standing within a hundred yards of Ludgate hill station, and in Cripplegate may yet be seen a splendid specimen of the original Roman wall.

By leaving out a single comma the engraving clerk of the New Jersey assembly changed the meaning of the corporation tax law so that a feature was enacted which the legislators labored intelligently to avoid. The governor has signed the bill and the law will have to be done over. The error was detected by a newspaper reporter.

At Monte Carlo it is the custom to fill the pockets of snitches with bank notes, so that it may be seen that they did not kill themselves on account of losses. They tried this trick on a presumably deaf Irishman as a short time ago, but he was not dead at all and skipped off with the money in the most lively style.

In London the other day there was exhibited a sturgeon, measuring nineteen feet long and four feet six inches girth. Its weight was 315 pounds. The fish was taken in the North Sea, in the deep sea travel out of one of the Crimsky smacks.

Ambitious statisticians and mathematicians, says the Richmond Dispatch, have burned oceans of midnight oil making different kinds of calculations, but the world has yet to produce the man with temerity enough to tackle the guide-books and compute how many Lovel's loops there are in this country.

His Seventy-Two Children.

From the London Truth.

I referred lately to a case of triplets in Scotland. But this is nothing in comparison with the prodigies of a Russian, according to the following extract from the Scots Magazine, March, 1775: "There was lately presented to the empress of Russia a laboring man who has had two wives, the first of whom brought him four 'tined' children, a birth, seven times three, and ten times two. The second wife has had in seven times; the first time brought forth three children and the other six times two. The whole number of children by the two wives amounts to seventy-two."

"Hello!" we heard one man say to another, the other day, "I didn't know you at first, why I you look ten years younger than you did when I saw you last. 'I feel ten years younger,' was the reply. 'You know I used to be under the weather all the time and gave up expecting to be any better. The doctor told me to take a little rest and a good deal of exercise. I was terribly weak, had night-sweats, cough, no appetite, and lost flesh. I took Dr. Clark's Golden Medical Discovery' advertised, and thought it would do no harm if it did no good. It has cured me. I am a new man because I am a well man."

An Illinois man hanged himself six hours after marriage. With him it was a short step from the altar to the halter.

Within the past ten years not a dog has been lost in purchasing lots in Toronto or its suburbs. On the contrary, every dollar so invested has doubled itself. In fact, some in three. West Toronto Junction is the rising suburb of the city and a few dollars invested in a lot there will soon double itself. Geo. Clarke of the Le-Queur Tea Co. is offering a few terms that are acceptable to all: an entrance fee of $10, and $2 a week for 122 weeks, including interest and taxes.

Marriages in Germany are rapidly diminishing in number. Increasing luxury in ways of living, the increasing ill-health of women are said to be the chief reasons.

The "Weekly Review" says:

"While we were not enthusiastically partial to religious novels, yet we admit that from the high tone and the practical truths which are taught in all that we have read of Mr. Warboise's tales, our objections to this description of literature are greatly modified. Indeed, they contain all the qualities of modern literature, without their evil features."
