

HARRISTON v. GALT.

THE MUTUALS CHICAGOED.

Over 400 people assembled on the ball grounds of the Galt club on the 27th of July, to witness the game between the Mutuals of that place and the Browns of Harriston. Game was called at 8:10, with the Mutuals at the bat. Emalie's pitching proved too effective for Galt, they failing to make more than one base hit. The Browns played a fine game throughout, making but one error in the whole game. Both teams were whitewashed the first three innings. The Browns scored one run in the 4th innings, four in the 6th, two in the 7th, and two in the eighth, while the Mutuals failed to score in the nine innings. The playing of Mountjoy at third was greatly admired. Wagner's fine line catch and a beautiful double play by Patton and Cushman were the events of the day. Subjoined is the score:

TOWN AND COUNTRY has now secured a good footing throughout the Dominion, but the country is large and with no paper of a similar character as a competitor, there is no reason why its circulation should not rapidly advance. As an inducement for some one in every town to take hold for us, we offer the following

For $10 we will send five copies of Town and Country for one year, which will be a reduction of 50 cents on each subscription. In all cases the money must accompany the order, and no club of less than five will be accepted.
