· DYING BY THE HUNDREDS.

People are dying by the hundreds every week in this city of Montreal, and but little public surprise seems to be expressed thereat. The only body to complain, ontside of to the editor, Mr. H. J. LORD DERBY has forwarded a despatch to the Australian Governments, stating that the Imperial Government deprecates the proposed muexation of the Pacific Islands to the Austalian colonics. The tone of the despatch is mild. It is probable that the colonial authorities will persist in their policy of annexation and disregard the expressed wishes of the Home Government. This would bring about a rupture which would go a long way to wipe out a connection that opposes the national aspirations of the people

RELIGIOUS PROFESSION. On the 12th inst., at the Convent of Yille Marie was witnessed the beautiful ceremony of the reception and profession of twenty-six young ladies to the service of God. The ceremony took piace in the beautiful chapel attached to the convent. His Lordship Bishop Fabre presided, assisted by Rev. M. Levesque, of St. Sulpice. The sermon of the occasion was delivered by the Rev. Father O'Donnell, et St. Denis, Richelieu. The Bey. He exhorted them to hear their cross, promising to such eternal happiness. After the conclusion of the sermon, the young ladies took the solemn vows which separates them forever from the world. The following are the names in religion of the young ladies professed, together with the family name of the English speaking ladies: —Bisters St. Edward (Miss Mary Josephine Noonan, daughter of the late Donald Noonan, of Quebeo), St. Mary Elizabeth (Miss Mary Ann McQuaid, of Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island), St. Margaret of Scotland (Miss Rose Mary O'Neill, of Kingston), St. Emelia (Miss Ellen Foley, of Peterborough, Ont.), St. Marie Sulpice, St. Paul of the Cross, St. Domitrie, St. Thomas, St. Honoret, St. Mecaire, St. Ulair of the Cross, St. Thaddens,

Anne, went ashore on the downward trip a little below the Falls of Montmorenci. The steamer Laurentide, which was lashed to her with a party of pligrims, also touched ground, but got off without damage. There was great excitement among the passengers, but no one is reported materially burt. Much difficulty was experienced in getting the women ashore and numbers had to be carried on the backs of their male fellow passengers, who waded through the surf. Bateaux and small boats were also brought into regulation. The pilgrims subsequently got back to town in the steamer Laurentides, which made two trips for them. Some, however, came home by land almost immediately after striking. The James is reported to have filled with water and subsequently canted over on her side. O'DONNELL IN MILBANK JAIL

London, Sept. 18 .- O'Donnell landed at Southampton at 9 o'clock this morning, and was placed on board a train for London, where he was met by a large force of police. He was driven to Milbank jail.

THE LANDING AT SOUTHAMPTON. O'Donnell was taken from the steamer three miles off Southampton by the police tug and brought to the eattle sheds at the end of the quay. The detectives kept his movements so secret that few persons were aware of his landing, and, excepting the police, not a dozen were present. The quey was closed to the public, and the local police guarded the gangway. A large detachment of London police surrounded O'Donnell, and a police inspector and detectives had personal charge of the prisoner, who was not handouffed, and

When his baggage was landed the prisoner was conducted to the rear of the shede, where a locomotive and two cars were waiting. O'Donnell took bis seat in a first class carriage, policemen filling the remaining seats. The train was rapidly driven along the dock sidings until it reached the depot, where it was learned there would be a delay of half an hour. The train was run on a siding some distanceslong the main line to avoid the public, where it awaited the departure of the mail train for London. O'Donnell was cheerful, and talked freely without referring to the crime. O'Donnell after shooting Carey said :-

" FRAKE HANDS, MRS. CAREY; I HAD TO DO IT," Not "I did not do it," as at first reported. It is stated the Crown has engaged the services of Mr. Poland, who has already appeared in the Itleh State trials, to prosecute O'Donnell.
