Petrel Robertson Ltd. is a privately owned Canadian company whose principle business is petroleum exploration management and consulting. The present company results from the 1987 acquisition of Robertson Research Canada Ltd. by Petrel Consultants Ltd. Petrel had been founded in Calgary in 1978 and was wholly Canadian owned. Robertson Research had been a wholly owned subsidiary of the Robertson Group (U.K.) one of the world's largest natural resource consultancy firms. Following a 1993 buy-out of Simon-Robertson, the company has become wholly Canadian owned and managed.

Almost since its inception, Petrel has been active in a variety of international assignments, including projects on all four continents. The company has concluded that it has the technology and the infrastructure to make it a success in the field of international consulting. Petrel has built a foundation of technology and experience, it has developed an extensive petroleum exploration training program and it has worked closely with many of the major Canadian petroleum firms that are working outside of Canada.

The specifics of its current business plan have been formulated with a view to creating a larger Canadian presence in the international petroleum consulting business.
