

GOVERNMENT—Continued.

Page.

This rule not generally enforced	131
Inspection of prisons—how provided for	131
The evils of political influence further considered	132

SECTION FIFTH.

DISCIPLINE	134-184
Rules and regulations substantially the same in all state prisons	134
Abstract of the rules in the Massachusetts state prison	134
Daily routine of duty in same	135
Abstract of rules in the Ohio state prison	137
do Wisconsin state prison	138
do New York state prisons	138
The usage as to the place for taking meals varies in different prisons—some- times in cells, sometimes in separate mess-rooms	139
Mode of receiving prisoners illustrated—
1. In the practice at Sing Sing	140
2. do eastern penitentiary	140
Rules generally printed on cards and hung up in cells	140
Chaplains not required to converse with prisoners on their entrance, but a considerable number do it	141
Too little pains taken, on the entrance of a prisoner, to give his mind a right direction	142
An important work to be done just then, and what it is	142
Charlestown prison preëminent in this	142
The duty suggested should be required of chaplains	143
Convicts generally put immediately to work on their entrance	143
Great progress made in prison reform within a hundred years	143
Description of prisons prior to Howard's time	143
Horrors and cruelties practised in them	143
A wonderful change wrought since then	144
The law of force giving way to the law of love	144
Best prison officers agree that the humane system is most effective in securing good discipline	145
Testimony of Mr. Haynes	145
do of Mr. Cordier	145
do of Mr. Miller	146
A useful lesson to be learned here from God's moral government	147
Reformation through kindness His method	147
Howard's opinion on this subject	147
Mr. Hubbell's practice in this regard, as warden of Sing Sing	147
Remarkable tribute to him in verse, by a convict	148
Kindness should find expression in a comprehensive system of rewards	149
Hope a necessary element in reformation	150
No well considered or wisely adjusted scheme of rewards established in our American prisons	150
Some prison officers oppose such a system	150
The wisest favor it	151
Hope the fundamental principle of the Irish system	151
The same true of Capt. Macdonochie's mark system	151
Wonderful results of that system on Norfolk Island	152
The principle of hope little availed of in American prisons	152
Our commutation law an excellent foundation for an effective system of rewards	153
The principle of this law founded in reason and its policy wise	153
Testimonies of prison officers in its favor	154
The law fully explained to convicts on their entrance	155