OUR IRISH LETTER

Dunta, Nov. 13 "The topic of the week is Mr. Healy's explusion from the Executive of the Irish National League of Great Britain. For some time past there have been all sorts of contradictory rumours alloat regarding the starting of a new daily papor by Mr. Healy. At first we were told his weekly journal, The Irish Catholic, would be made a daily; noxt he was going to make an untirely new departure and he-l offered the editorship to a leading Irishman on the English press; last but not least he and his funnciers had decided to buy up all The Freeman shares, make a clean sweep of the present staff, and run the old shop on Princo's street on the most advanced Healytic lines. Wars and rumours of wars, is about the most dofinite information that can be supplied to present regarding the split in the Irish Parlianentary Party. I believe I am correct in saying that Mr. Healy numbers about cloven M. P.a amongst his brothers, cousins, and connection in law, so that he will at least be able to marshal as numerous a following as Mr. John Redmond. and of the two I should be inclined to say he is very much the more influential man with the farming and business classes. All the English papers are treating the formation of a third Irish party as a lung joke; and many of them want to know how it is that the Irish, who are such a clover people, show so luttle discrimination in the such had so much of this sort of this piero lately, that we have become quite lines of the present and the course upper which Messrs. Dillon and Mr. Healy, no which side the office on their representatives. The split has caused much more excited in a such a clover people, show so luttle discrimination in the society of the present and the course upper winch Messrs. Dillon and Mr. Healy, end which side the office will an end it would be a wise man could tell on which side the office will at the him all he now to wip out Mr. Healy. Even people who detest "Tim" looking on line as it little short of an outrago of Individual confidence, still it will take h

November is always ushored in with two announcements in Dublin; the opening of the football season and the holding of chrysauthenum shows both public and private. The cultivation of these blooms has rached an extraordinary pitch of popularity within the last half dozon yeers. You see them everywhere. In the slums a fow meagre bedraggled blossoms struggle for life in sosp-boxes on the window sills of tenoment houses. In the Botanic Gardons a voluptuous, riant bank of flower reaches from the floor to the glass roof of the chrysauthenum house. Ardent horticulturists whose conservatories have turned out a success, write to the papers to say that any one who wishes to inspect their collection of blooms will be slown over their grounds. Plants are sent from all part of county Dublin to the various shows held at Balisbridge. Dalkey der, and the privated house of the sent from all part of county Dublin to the various shows held at Balisbridge. Dalkey der, and the privated house of the sent from all part of county but the various shows held at Balisbridge. Dalkey der, and the privated house of the part of the sent from all shop with the streets, they are used lavishly for table decerations, and every second man you meet wears one in his button-hole. Allegether a glowing chrysanthenum craze sweeps over the city as regularly as the November fogs. It climitars is privated to the papers announcing that his collection has reached its full glory. Any one wishing to get a bird's cyo view of the city population, could find no bottor field for observation than the Gardons on the following Stuaday. There could be no more startling example of how completely public opinion is swayed by the Press than this commission return the daily papers, of an interminable concourse representing overy gradient in the classes and the masses. There is very little gilded leisure over amongst the upper-crust of Dublin society. Our city arrived the concourse opinions is very little gilded for the concourse for processing overy gradient in the continu

To be ansused becomes daily a more serious matter. We have grown so critical that we must be told all about the reason why before we can allow ourselves to laugh. Is it a sign of the times that the only plays that can fill publin thratters are of the class which treat the marriage problem either as a tragedy or a bring-sup. While we pride ourselves on being quite the most virtuous eity in the Empire, we are up-to-date enough to regard the intricacies of divorce as the, and to laugh, even when the cap fits, as the broadest jokes at marriage a failure. No wonder we would when men so goodly protess their admiration of hereines whose carefort, if they prove enything at all, go the whole length.

Bazaar at Nosbonsing Village

Dran Sin:—The Catholic Registor readors will probably hear with agreeable surprise that the people of this parish are presently getting up a bazear for Christmas week in aid of our poor church. This is a now departure for our little village; but we are most energetically determined to make a few stops towards progressiveness. We expect also to be soon in a position to tell the public and all our friends at large that was present of the procession of the properties of the properties of the properties of the properties of the procession was well as the procession of the procession of our bazaar. Yours, HENRI MARTEL, P.P.

It is of the nature of vanity and arrogance, if unchecked, to become cruel and self-justifying. There are fierce beasts within.—George Eliot.

FAGGE OUT.—None but those who have become fagged out, know what a depressed, miserable feeling it is. All strongth is gone, and despendency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though thore is nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure-one box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strongth. Mandrake and Dandelion are two of the articles entering into the composition of Parlemee's Pills.

The Divine mind is as visible in it full energy of operation on every level bank and mouldering stone, as in the lifting of the pillars of Heaven, that setting the foundations of the carth.—Ruskin.

It may be only a trifling cold, but neglect it and it will fasten its fauge in your lungs, and you will soon be carried to an untimely grave. In this country we have sudden changes and must expect to have coughs and colds. We cannot avoid them, but we can offect a cure by using Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that has never been known to fail in curing coughs, colds, brenchitis and all affections of the threat, lungs and chest.

Write your name by kindness, love, and mercy, on the hearts of the people you come in contact with year after year, and you will never be forgetten.
