

ter his name for any particular work, which shall then be issued, according to priority of application; but no work shall be kept in the Library more than one clear day on this account, when if not required by the person whose name shall be first down for the same, it may be issued to the next in succession, and so on; and the Librarian is carefully to mark off the name of every one to whom it may have been so issued.

XXXVI.—A Shareholder, on returning a Book, may have it re-entered to him, provided no other Shareholder shall have applied for it, in which case it cannot be admitted; and provided the work shall have been in the Library full Six Months.

XXXVII.—Any Shareholder who shall take a Book, or Pamphlet out of the Library without the knowledge of the Librarian, or without the same having been registered by that Officer, contrary to any of the Regulations herein prescribed, shall be fined Ten Shillings.

XXXVIII.—Every Shareholder shall have liberty to introduce a non-resident Stranger, to read in the Library Room, during the Hours it may be open.—The Person thus introducing a Stranger shall enter his Name, in a Book to be kept for that purpose, in manner following—

A—B—by—C—D—

And every Shareholder who may thus introduce a Stranger, shall be held responsible for his conduct, and liable for any damage which may be caused thereby.

XXXIX.—To prevent disappointment it is recommended that every Shareholder do send a List of several Works, signed by his Name, to the Librarian, in order that if the one he may first place on his List be not in the Library, he may have the next, and so on, in succession.

XL.—Every Shareholder shall pay his Subscription, as stated in the first article, within fourteen days after the day on which it has become due, to the Librarian in the Library Room, and should he fail to do so, the Librarian shall send to him a Notice that such Subscription is due, for which he shall charge an additional quarter dollar, and after this Notice, such Shareholder shall be denied any Books until the whole is paid; and every Shareholder being more than one year in arrear, and refusing or neglecting to pay such arrear, together with the Fines for such notices as may have been sent to him, his share shall be forfeited to the Society, who shall pay over such Shareholder the amount of the original Value of his share, viz: £5—after deducting such Subscriptions and fines as may be then due thereon.
