

- damental contrast in, 276 f.; involves more than feeling 176
- End, category of, . . . f.
- Endophasia, 239
- Epistemology, and psychology, 1, 17 f., 26 f., 29-34, 144, 190 fin., 212, 217, 293, 297, 315, 316
- ERDMANN, B., referred to, 46, 83
- Erlebnis*, 57 n., 59
- Evaluation, 389
- Evolution, influence of the theory of, 20; evolution and involution of ideas, 96 n., 97, 100, 199; implies stability and progression, 415
- Expectation, 209, 210
- Experience, 2, 11, 14, 16, 17, 21, 180; 'form' of, 24 f.; 'irreducible minimum' of, 29, 66; ultimate analysis of, 40 f.; and time, 210; a differentiated unity, 31, 410
- Extensity, 78 f., 116 f., 145 ff., 161 n.; influence of drugs on, 116 n.; of smells, 117; of auditory sensations, 127; and ubiquity, 149
- 'Extra-regarding,' 369, 396
- Eye, 'the Cyclopean,' 158
- Facility, 180 f., 181 f., 415, 425
- Faith, 358 f., 469
- Familiarity, 143 fin., 180, 415, 425
- FECHNER, G. T., on the threshold of consciousness, 91 f., 95 n.; on after-images, 175 n.; on aesthetic principles, 259 n. 2
- Feeling, its uniqueness, 19, 41, 42, 45; various meanings of the term, 41; its supposed priority examined, 41-5; its causes, 43 fin., 44, ch. x; fundamental contrast in, 245, 262; its effects, 54 f., ch. xi; fundamental contrast in, 276 f.; not a presentation, 57 fin., 58, 245; and intensity of presentations, 247, 248; and quality of presentations, 247, 249-53; organic, 249 f.; and the lower and higher senses, 250-3; and duration and frequency of presentations, 254; neutral F. and excitement, 414 n.
- Feelings, 245; sensory, 247-55; lower aesthetic, 247, 255 ff.; intellectual, 257 f.; higher aesthetic, 258 ff.; egoistic and altruistic, 260 f.
- Feeling-tone, 45, 249, 250, 251, 439
- FERRIER, J. F., quoted, 58 fin.
- FOSTER, SIR M., quoted, 53, 271
- FOUILLÉE, A., 433 n., 437 n., 453 n.
- Freedom, 404-7; spontaneous and voluntary, 404; 'internal' as self-determination, 405 ff.
- Function and structure, 180 f., 412, 414, 425 fin., 426
- GALTON, SIR F., his Hereditary Genius referred to, 427 n., 449 n., 450 n.
- GEDDES AND THOMSON's Evolution of Sex quoted, 34
- Genius, 449-52; 'religious geniuses,' 468
- GERARD, A., on genius, 450
- Good, the, as clue to psychical development, 410
- GRANT, SIR A., quoted, 269 n.
- GROTE, J., his Exploratio philosophica referred to, 86 n.
- Habit, 98, 180; law of, 457 n.
- Hallucinations, 171, 174, 177
- HAMILTON, SIR W., on mind and matter, 14 n.; on external perception, 32; on psychological analysis, 40; definition of sensation, 48; on consciousness, 61 n. 2; on degrees of attention, 64 f.; his 'law of limitation,' 65; his 'law of variety,' 84; on inverse relation of sensation and perception, 250 n.; on comparison, 314, 325
- HARTLEY, D., on secondarily automatic action, 52
- HARTMANN, E. von, quoted, 279
- Hedonism, its relation to value, 388 n. 2; overlooks the duality of subject and object, 392 n. 2
- HEGEL, his 'general mind,' 75 n.; on intellection, 304; on heterogeneity of ends, 391 n.; on animality and spirituality, 462 f., 464, 467
- HENLE, J., 175, 270, 436, 437
- HERBART, his 'absolute becoming,' 30; his psychical mechanics, 56, 70 f., 96 n.; his 'apperception-mass,' 96, 97; his use of Keihe and Gewebe, 199 n.; his doctrine of apperception, 308 f.; on number, 324 n.; on self-consciousness, referred to, 379 n.
- Heredity and 'the psychological individual,' 74; and the concrete individual, 420-9; the psychological problem of, 422 ff.; biological and psychological heredity compared, 423; the mnemonic theory of, 426 n.; heredity and genius, 450-2
- Heterogeneity of Ends, 268 n.
- HÖFFDING, H., on Kant's synthesizing principle, 69 n. 3; on 'tied ideas,' 184 n., 185 n.; his Bekanntheitsqualität, 185 n.; symbolized by γ , 182 ff.; on motivation, 400 fin.
- HORWICZ, A., on the primacy of feeling, 42 n.
- HUME, DAV., on Berkeley, 27; his use of idea, 46, 169; aware of the subconscious, 96 n.; on liminal intensity, 115; on the difference between impressions and ideas, 169 ff.; on superior 'liveliness' of impressions, 170; on memory, 206, and the continuity of time, 220; on thought and language, 298; his sensationalism, 317; on relations, 318; on