

BRITISH COMMENT ON PLAN OF LEAGUE

Destined to Modify the Whole Course of Future History. A DIFFICULT QUESTION Safer to Have Germany in Society of Nations Than Outside.

London, Feb. 16.—The Evening Standard commenting on the league of nations covenant, says: "M. Clemenceau once told his fellow delegates that every morning he said to himself: 'Georges Clemenceau, thou believe in a league of nations.' The text of the covenant published today will go far to destroy a lack of faith more stubborn than the French premier's.

"The covenant is a document of highly business-like character approved by the representatives of fourteen nations and destined to modify the whole course of future history." The Westminster Gazette, in an article under the caption, 'The United States of the World,' says: "Some even of the warmest supporters of the league of nations will admit that their expectations were too low, in the face of the momentous document published with America, Britain and France going hand-in-hand and imposing their influence on the world to produce a scheme which is clear and bold in outline and which, if adopted in anything like its platform, will put all international politics on a new basis and give us the beginnings of the United States, not of Europe only, but of the world."

"There remains the difficult, but supremely important, question of the admission of the nations which are now our enemies. The allied governments are aware that no scheme will be complete which leaves Germany or Russia outside. We shall come to the conclusion unless there is a military counter-revolution in Germany, that it is safer to have her in the league than outside, and that it is an advantage to have this question, sooner rather than later."

The Pall Mall Gazette, writes: "We infer from the terms of the covenant that a nation like Germany will not be admitted until it has given sufficiently concrete and prolonged proofs of having renounced its policy of paper morality and in the meantime, the restrictions of armaments, at which the league aims internally, must be limited by regard to the conduct of the nations beyond its borders."

Impulse of Democracy. "The greatest strength of the league is that it undoubtedly represents the deep-seated impulse in the democracy of today. If that impulse endures, the barriers to another great war may be permanently insuperable."

The Globe says: "The allied governments have found some satisfaction over the result of his efforts, which necessarily take shape rather as the spring of a single mind, however able. Credit unmistakably is due in very large measure for the diplomacy with which M. Clemenceau directed the negotiations through the channels, and thru the rocky channels, which under less skillful leadership, might well have brought them to grief."

BANQUET PLANS ARE COMPLETED

Sixteen Hundred Veterans Arranged for—America Asks for Information.

Toronto's fame for war service and devotion to its soldiers is apparently spreading again. Communications have been received by General Gunn from several points, including two American cities, asking for information regarding the plans now under way to lighten the care of the returned man and the prospects are that if the first dinner on Thursday night at the armories is a success the plan will be the first classed by cities anxious to pay public tribute to its fighters from overseas.

Meanwhile the various committees in charge have about completed arrangements. In all there will be 1,662 guests. Of this number 1,480 will be returned men, while the remainder will be invited by cities throughout the province. The dinner will be held at the armories on Thursday night at 7.30, and everything will be run off with military precision, the intention being to complete the program shortly after 10 o'clock.

Invitations to the 1480 guests of honor will be mailed today and any of the returned men who find at the last minute that they will be unable to attend, are asked to give their cards to a returned comrade. Those who find it necessary to hand in their cards will be cared for later. The invitations will include a card for admission of a lady to the galleries and of plans for the care of these guests have also been carefully laid.

Guests are requested to be in their seats at 7.15. The dinner starts at 7.30, and everything will be run off with military precision, the intention being to complete the program shortly after 10 o'clock.
