Hamilton, March 29.—(Special.)—The over-whelming defeat in the Council last night whelming defeat in the Council last night of Ald. Carscallea's Assessment Department legislation is a much-talked-of affair in the city to-day. In a really clever speech, Ald. Carscallen urged the increase of salaries to the staff selected as the only way of keeping up the Assessment Department as the first in the municipality, and for Commissioner Hall's claims for higher pay pointed to the fact that he had increased the funds of the city during the year by $20,000. The Council, however, turned down this policy by a vote of 13 to 5. It is a long time since the brilliant Carscallen was met with such a reverse on any important question. Mr. Tarte's rage against the Senate knows no bounds. La Patrie of this evening suggests that Canada should do like Brazil, which has an elective Senate, and when the Upper House throws out a ministerial measure any three members can demand a vote of the two chambers united, this vote deciding the fate of the bill in question. La Patrie's editorial writer omits, however, to tell his readers how the constitution of Canada can be made like that of Brazil. La Patrie also publishes the following Ottawa correspondence:

"To-morrow, Nebuchadnezar de Boucherville, the Valetudinarian Ross, the Wise Pierre de Blois, the learned Armand, the distinguished J. H. Bellerose and a couple of dozen other luminaries of the Same calibre will defy the popular majority of the people's representatives in the House of Commons."

boundary of the United States, It is not very far from an extensive trunk line of railway. It will not take many miles of railway. It will not take many miles of railway to be laid down in order to penetrate that Boundary Creek section. Now that the people on the southern side of the border are liable to do in respect of that Boundary country what they have almost done in respect of the Kootenay district, they are liable, by building a section of the railway into that country, to get possession of it, from a business and trade point of view. and they are liable to divert the trade away from our own country. It was less than a year ago, namely, on June 18, 1837. that the Minister of Railways laid down the foregoing policy in the House. To-day he takes quite the opposite view, and Mr. Davin, who professed to be bewildered at this contradiction of statements, asked the Minister to enlighten the week.

But Mr. Blair sat silent in his seat.

The Minister of Railways and Canals promised Mr. Quinn that the Welland and St. Lawrence Canals should be opened for navigation as soon as possible.

Franchise Bill Bebate.

The debate on the bill to abolish the Franchise Act was resumed by Mr. Bourassa (Lib., Labelle), who spoke strongly in favor of the bill, after whom the speakers were Messrs. Clancy, Casey, Rogers, Stenson and Powell. The latter moved the following amendment:

"That the bill be not now read a second time, but that it be resolved that this House, while desirous of reducing the expense of preparation of lists, as far as may be practicable, considers that no system of franchise would be satisfactory which does not preserve Federal control, both on the basis of suffrage and voters lists."
