MUNICIPAL SCHOOL BOARD HAD VERY BUSY NIGHT

North Toronto Council Hold Inaugural Meeting—General News Items. TORONTO JUNCTION, Jan. 14.—The public school board met to-night, being the last meeting of the 1907 board. Chairman Fullerton presided, and the members were present excepting trustee C. F. Wright. The principal's annual report was given and some very interesting Toronto items were presented. During the year there had been 245 pupils registered. Of this number, 135 were boys and 109 girls. The average attendance had been 124. To look after these pupils there were 23 teachers, four of whom were first-class professionals and 19 were second-class professionals. He hoped the board would continue as they had done to the present time and never engage second-class teachers.

DOES THIS INTEREST YOU?

A prominent physician, famous for his success in the treatment of kidney and bladder diseases, attributes a great deal of his success to the following simple vegetable prescription: One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion; One ounce Compound Salsaparilla; Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Mix thoroughly, and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime. Your druggist will supply the ingredients, and the mixture can be prepared at home at very little expense, acts directly on the kidneys, assisting them to filter the poisons from the blood and excrete them in the urine at the same time restoring the kidneys to healthy, normal action. We feel that great many readers will be pleased to learn of this simple prescription, and knowing the ability of the physician whose formula it is, we do not hesitate to recommend it to any sufferer.

THE HIGHER CRITICISM VIGOROUSLY ASSAILED

Opening Session of the Bible League—Two Instructive Addresses Given. "Higher criticism" came in for unmeasured denunciation at the meeting of the Bible League last night. Scarcely any good feature could be found in it by the speakers. Dr. Luther Townsend and Rev. Dyson Hague of London, Ont., but he rejoiced that the reaction had set in and the whole school of higher criticism would soon be swept into oblivion. Rev. Dr. Sutherland took the chair and led the devotional exercises in the absence of Dr. Carman. William Phillips Hall of New York was to speak, but was delayed by messengers in his family, and prayer was offered for him in his affliction. Mrs. G. E. Alexander sang very sweetly during the offertory. Rev. Mr. Hague officiated, and the German critics did not approach the Bible with due reverence, but regarded it as a playground of their own curious theories. Matthew Arnold, who could not be regarded as a friend of the Bible, supported this view. The hypothesis, however, especially of the genus professor theologian, and most others who could not be said to have faith in the Bible, the theorists and more especially the German critics, were all censured by the speaker. The higher criticism had not followed its original intention of strengthening faith. Two or three of the higher critics had based their subjective fancies upon their own ideas, but the great majority were merely manufacturers' agents and approached the subject, moreover, from anything but a reverent or scientific point of view. It was a school of compromise. They held to the theories of the Germans, but they did not give up the Bible. Some might ask what it mattered if they did accept the German theories? Mr. Hague held that the church doctrine was that the Pentateuch was inspired by God, and given by Moses to the Jews according to their unchanged tradition and of the church. Mr. Hague gave a burlesque view of the higher critical view of the several documents which the most sober scholarship of the day regards as the foundation of the Scriptures. They could see how extraordinary would be the result if these conclusions were accepted, one of the first being that the Bible would cease to be regarded as the Word of God. It was not even reliable history, and only contained the history of God instead of being the Word of God. Jesus Christ knew that these books were pseudepigraphical records that speaker believed He would have said this was a crucial point. "He who said: 'In My Father's house are many mansions, if it were not so I would have told you,'" would have told if the book was not true. It was when He had risen in His divine glory that He said: "These are the things that are written in Moses and in the prophets concerning Me." "We want light," said Mr. Hague earnestly, "but we don't want it from rationalists and agnostics." Prof. Luther Townsend, D.D., Boston, spoke on "Defenders of the Faith." Any departure from the primitive orthodoxy was to be combated by these defenders. Christianity was indebted to the higher criticism for many suggestions, but when it was possessed of its own mind, it should be demanded. "He who had not penetrated the heart of Christianity by profound experience was unfitted to pronounce upon the question. No critic who stood outside the citadel of a devout spiritual life could be trusted. It was not surprising that a large number of Christian people were in a theological mixture so many views were ventilated. In a record of the universities and colleges of the United States, Dr. Townsend pointed out those which were opposed to the higher criticism. A resolution had recently been adopted "That the Bible, when freed from errors of translators, translators and printers, is the Word of God." (Applause.) "Destructive criticism," Dr. Townsend remarked, "had quite an early beginning and was promulgated by a personage that has had a very bad reputation for a very long time. We mean the devil." More than half of the clergymen who were sympathizers with the new theology had made no careful investigation, but had simply followed the lead of others, and being fascinated with the phrase "drift of scholarly opinion," had jumped into the stream and were floating on their destination? Nothing would ever be heard of the new theological bubble after it had been pricked by the scholarship of some of the conservative professors. The reaction in Germany was notable. The influence of Wilhelmus and Kuehnen was waning in Germany. The former had only one student at his lecture and he was cleaning his nails instead of taking notes when a visitor looked in. The conference was to be continued to-day

FRANK LAW IN COURT.

Advertisements, Not Prospectus, Now Subject of Complaint. Argument in the case against Frank Law, charging him with a violation of the Mining Companies' Act, in issuing misleading prospectuses of the Highland Mary Mining Co., and advertising same, was heard in the afternoon police court before Magistrate Kingsford. Judgment was reserved until Monday. Deputy Provincial Secretary Mulvey was on hand to explain the clauses of the act. In his opinion the complaint on behalf of the crown was not directed against the prospectus issued, but more against the advertisements. Mr. J. H. C. Macdonald, appearing for Law, said that any liability that had occurred was on the corporate body, not on the individual. He saw no evidence that the statute had been violated. The case was being watched with interest as a means to find fault with the Companies Act in regard to the prospectus of the Highland Mary, in his mind, contained everything the act demanded. All Frank Law's transactions with regard to this company were above board and appeared with regularity on the books. Law himself had said that the statute had been violated. The point made it a civil action rather than a criminal one. There was a mistake, however, when prospectus of Highland Mary Mining Co. was issued by Law & Co.; it did not comply exactly with the amendment of the Companies Act. Neither Frank Law nor the company contemplated any fraud in this respect. Crown Attorney Price went into the history of the company in detail, in an effort to show that Frank Law was a real Highland Mary Co., and its promoter. He pointed out that nearly 100 sales had been made of Highland Mary stock before the prospectus had been filed with the department.

STARVED BY ANAEMIA

Health Restored by the Rich Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Made. Thousands and thousands of young girls throughout Canada are literally passing and hopeless decline for the want of the rich red blood so abundantly supplied by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are distressingly weak, pale, and their appetites fail; they are subject to headaches, dizziness, are breathless and the heart palpitates violently at the least exertion. The doctors find all this hopeless, which is the medical name for bloodlessness. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood—they cure anaemia just as surely as they cure indigestion. Here is a bit of the strongest kind of evidence: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and nothing else saved my two daughters when they were ill with this disease. This statement is made by Mrs. Joseph Mavelle St. Oliver-street, Quebec. She adds: 'My daughters are aged respectively 22 and 23 years. For two years they suffered from the weakness and distress of anaemia, and had I learned of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills earlier, it would have saved me money, but much worry and anxiety as well. Both girls were as pale as a sheet. They suffered from headaches, poor appetite, and grew so feeble that they could hardly go about. They were under a doctor's care, but did not improve a bit. I despaired of ever seeing them in good health again, when a friend called my attention to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Soon after they began to feel better, and in a few days they were in their condition, and in less than a couple of months they were again enjoying good health, active and bright-eyed.' They are now in good health and are able to do any work they wish to do." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for my children that I strongly recommend them to every mother who has a weak child, and to every girl who is unable to do her school work.

The Royal Arcanum, Masons, Shekani and Royal Arcanum, 2500 new members were admitted to membership. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Piggott entertained some fifty guests at their home on Ontario-street. GOVERNMENT IN NO HURRY DELAYS LEMIEUX'S REPORT

Armand Lavergne Takes a Fling at Le Soleil—No Crime to Address House in English. OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—(Special.)—R. L. Borden asked when the house might expect the announcement of the postmaster-general concerning his mission to Japan. Sir Wilfrid said before the end of the week the day would be announced. Mr. Borden referred to a newspaper paragraph that the Canadian minister at Halifax would be dismissed and the position taken over by Great Britain. There is not the slightest foundation for that report, said Sir Wilfrid. Armand Lavergne, member for Montserrat, rising to a question of privilege, referred to a report from Quebec, in which it was charged that Lavergne and Mr. Robitaille had not spoken in the house in French this session, and it was stated that if the French language was to maintain its influence and prestige at Ottawa it would not be to the nationalistic wing of the party that the credit would be given. The report was entirely incorrect. Le Soleil, he said, was the biggest liar among all newspapers, but he continued, he generally spoke in the house in the language of the majority. It was no crime for a Frenchman to speak in either language. "Even if the whole report were true," said Lavergne, "it would not be correct." Explaining that he meant the reference to the matter was a way of exciting race prejudice, he claimed that he had always worked to see that the French language received the consideration it was entitled to. Mr. Robitaille (Quebec) also complained of the language used by Le Soleil, but he usually spoke in the language understood by the majority. Le Soleil had accused him of advocating measures for the benefit of his own constituents, adding "This is his (Robitaille's) idea of his mandate obtained by fraud."
