WHY NOT ALL?

A gentleman visiting in the city said that he noticed a great fear on the part of men here to take off their hats when the national anthem was being played at the close of the band concerts in King Square. He said he was much pleased to see a gentleman with gray hair and a younger man beside him stand with their hats in their hands on Thursday evening while the City Cornet played "God Save the King." There was another who lifted his cap. He was a small boy, very grimy, but imbued apparently with the spirit of loyalty, the gentleman said. Tourists, who have passed through St. John have expressed the opinion that not enough had been told in other places about the advantages of the New Brunswick climate, by the people of the province. One lady said that she had concluded that, having such equable weather in the summer time, it was not valued by the people here. This feature of the many charms of New Brunswick was spoken of by Edward Sears, from Chicago, son of Ex-Mayor Edward Sears and Mrs. Sears, who is visiting in the city. The special over the Valley line came from Fredericton direct as two specials, one from Woodstock and one from Moncton, were run into Fredericton and then the train for St. John was made up there. There were no special trains over the C. P. R., but extra cars were added to all incoming local trains to handle the extra traffic.
