HOCKEY.

Amateur Skerry of Joining Pros.
Efforts of the Toronto team of the professional hockey league to induce some of the outstanding stars of the Ontario Hockey Association to make the plunge into the "pro" ranks are not meeting with signal success. The speed merchants of the amateur ranks are slow to leave the amateur ranks.

Several of the best of the amateur performers have been made very flatter by the season. Goalkeeper Roach, of the Granites, took the bait, but it is said that he demanded, and got, a five year contract at $2,500. Some of the youngsters who jumped to the pro ranks are other seasons found that their salaries were reduced to such an extent that the remuneration was hardly worth while according to their own estimation of their services. Hence Roach's five-year contract.
