Y.M.C.A. Man Brings Lapland Queen's Gift

Ellis Also Has 2,000,000 Rubles and Soviet Money

New York, Dec. 11.—When customs officials at Hoboken searched the baggage of W. B. Ellis, a Boston business man, on his arrival here they found a reindeer coat which had been given Mr. Ellis by "the Queen of the Laplanders," a gold sword once the property of Gen. Mikhailoff, war minister under Kerensky, a golden crucifix from the ancient monastery at Nokolomir, which had been a present from the Emperor Paul in 1797, the gold war cross of St. Stanislaus and more than 2,000,000 rubles in Russian money, including a complete series of Soviet currency.

Most of the souvenirs belong to Mr. Ellis, but the money belongs to the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Ellis was controller for the American Red Cross in North Russia, and when the Red Triangle was ordered to evacuate last September, he closed accounts and withdrew with the unexpended funds.

At Archangel, he said, three yachts were kept under steam in the harbor ready for the immediate departure of Russian officials should the Bolsheviks capture the city.

When the war work secretaries of the Y. M. C. A. left the sector, the Russian officials gave them a farewell banquet and presented to Mr. Ellis Gen. Mikhailoff's golden sword as an appreciation of his services. Gen. Miller, the Russian commander, also presented to him the gold cross of the Order of St. Stanislaus. The other souvenirs were presented to him in various parts of North Russia.

The new Soviet currency, which is said to be very hard to obtain, depicts the Russian eagle with drooped wings. Mr. Ellis went to Russia last summer. He was one of sixty "Y" secretaries who served the American and Allied forces on the North Russian front of four of whom were captured and held prisoner by the Bolsheviks and five were decorated by the Russian, French and British governments.

Mr. Ellis will remain in New York a few days before returning to his home. He expects to return to Russia again in "Y" service.
