MORE VIEWS ON WAR MEMORIAL SITE ARE HEARD

Commissioner Frink Says Market Square is Best Place. MRS. E. A. YOUNG FOR KING SQUARE PLOT There is Idea of Moving Band Stand to Give Monument Place.

Commissioner Frink said this morning that if there was any change to be made in the location of the Saint John War Memorial he was still of the opinion that the place for it was in Market Square. The triangular spot in the centre of the square would, in his opinion, make an ideal site, and would be in a place where it could be seen by every visitor to the city. He had always felt that this was the ideal location for this memorial.

HEAR STORIES AND INSPECT ANTIQUES

Children Are Well Entertained at Story Hour in Three Centres. Professor J. F. Browne, who was for some years in India, in the British Army, entertained 118 children at the armories this morning, telling of his experiences in the Far East. He had some excellent pictures of scenes in that country and these were passed around for the pleasure of the children. Six little girls led in singing during intermission. Miss Mary Gurn was in charge.

AT THE MUSEUM Forty children about nine years of age were taken to the Natural History Museum by Mrs. Margaret Lowrey this morning and shown the beautiful things in the loan exhibit. Dr. William MacIntosh explained about the antiquities shown there, and the children listened with rapt attention. The smaller children were kept at the Free Public Library where they enjoyed looking at the books in the children's room.

FAVORS PLOT IN SQUARE. The site in King square opposite the new Admiral Beatty Hotel is the plot selected for the memorial to Saint John soldiers who died in the great war, in the opinion of Mrs. E. A. Young, of West Saint John, who was president of the West Saint John Soldiers' Field Comforts Association, which contributed $200 toward the memorial. Mrs. Young said this morning that she felt that the site at the head of King street was the best for the memorial. She must first be determined where the fountain was to be placed before any estimate of the cost of removal and setting up again could be arrived at.

A suggestion has been made that if there is to be any change from the site opposite the Admiral Beatty Hotel, that the band stand be removed to some other part of the square and the memorial placed where it now stands.

AUSTRIAN DEPUTY'S DEATH MYSTIFIED

Poison Suspected in Evidence; Communist Member is Murdered. VIENNA, March 28.—It is reported from Sofia, Bulgaria, that an important member of the Government party, the Deputy Yanko Georgiev, had been suddenly in mysterious circumstances. He had been appointed ambassador at Bucharest and was shortly proceeding to that post there by a railway train. He suffered from indigestion trouble and was to undergo an operation. His doctor prescribed a certain medicine to be taken before the examination. Mr. Georgiev felt very ill, and after a short interval he died. It is said to have been the cause of the death, but so far it has not been ascertained what kind of poison was mixed with his medicine.

The other night at 6 o'clock the Communist member, Mr. Haralamb Stoyanov, was murdered. The police have arrested the alleged murderer, whose identity, however, has not been ascertained.

6 CANNIBALS SHOT

French Guiana Authorities Have Punished Them For Eating Persons. PARIS, March 28.—News of the execution of six cannibals by the authorities of French Guiana has reached here. They were shot three at a time. They fell into the hands of the authorities owing to a customs official making inquiries concerning a missing child, afterwards found terrified in a forest.
