

SNATCHED FROM SEA

Operations of the Missequash Marsh Company.

Cutting a Canal Thirty-six Feet Wide and Fifteen Feet Deep.

An Advance of About Two Hundred Feet Made Every Twenty-four Hours—Faith in the Ultimate Success of the Scheme is Daily Increasing.

(For The Sun.)

At the head of the principal river flowing into Cumberland Basin there is more of less lake and bog, the result of the natural drainage becoming choked with the deposit from the muddy waters of the basin. There is unmistakable evidence from the composition of the soil that the bottom of the bay has had free access there at some period in the past. In the early settlement of the country the Acadians and the English alike were quick to see the advantage of reclaiming the rich lands that bordered the Tantramar, the Au Lac, the Missequash and the Lapland rivers.

It is a matter of history that La. Loutre, the governing spirit at Beauséjour from 1759 to 1765, was more interested in constructing an abattoir across the Au Lac river than in putting the fort in a proper state of defence. Dykes were first thrown up to keep out the salt water and large areas were reclaimed in this way. Later abattoirs or dams were placed across the rivers, which made drying unnecessary on the land protected by the abattoir and secured the river banks for cropping, which is the most productive. The La. Planche, Missequash and the Au Lac were drained in this way; the Tantramar never was. This probably accounts for the fact that it is on the Tantramar that the most successful bog and lake reclamation has been accomplished. The late Toler Thompson of Upper Sackville was one of the first to grasp the possibilities for improvement that lay in this wilderness of bog and water. His men of Sackville, who were boys at that time, remember well how Mr. Thompson used to visit from house to house keeping the seniors listening to his favorite theme long after the younger members of the family had been sent to bed. Like most of the pioneers of great improvements, Mr. Thompson did not add to his financial standing by his persistent efforts to induce his neighbors to embark in his new scheme.

The generation, however, that are living in that locality today are reaping the benefits of his thought and energy. Lakes that forty years ago were good trout ground, are now filled with Bay of Fundy mud, and are coming from time to time to be covered with dwarf blackberry and wild strawberry is now cutting first-class hay. It has cost but little time and money to bring this change about, but there is no difference of opinion as to its great value to the community.

The late Senator Botsford was an active promoter of the work until the very last years of his life. In fact the inception of the work was due to the time it was undertaken was very largely due to the interest taken in it by the Botsford family. The Fawcetts, the Thompsons, the Georges, the Campbells, the Smiths and almost the principal men of Sackville at one or another time have been or are still interested financially in the work.

Nearly at the same time the people of Sackville began draining and tiding on the Tantramar, this Hon. Jas. S. Morse, Esq., father of the present Judge Morse, commenced a similar work on the submerged land on the La. Planche river. The abattoir, however, across that river at the time prevented Mr. Morse from receiving any benefit. Mr. Thompson was employed to lay out a canal, and the sunken marsh that was relieved of its surplus water began almost at once to produce good crops of hay, convincing the owners that drainage was the principle thing necessary to make this water-soaked land as productive as the marsh already under cultivation.

A large area of this sunken marsh at the head of the La. Planche river came into the possession of Judge Morse of Amherst a few years since. The judge at once set to work in good earnest to develop it. A system of canals and small dykes was laid out and out to carry away the surplus water. A large lake was drained that was a favorite resort for wild fowl in the early history of the country. As soon as this land became dry enough the plow was started. Since that time the judge has had to build several times to hold his hay and grain, besides stocking large quantities, and a property that a few years ago was almost worthless any value in the market, is now worth more than thirty thousand dollars.

Soon after the judge began these improvements a movement was started to have the abattoir across the La. Planche cut out. This was successfully passed the required legislation and a bridge superceded the abattoir. The fresh water canal was then enlarged and the salt water had free run ever since as far as it would go towards the upper lakes. This canal was not made deep enough to carry away the surplus water, but of sufficient size to take up the quantity of salt water to accomplish all that was expected.

The Missequash river, which for several miles forms the boundary between Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, has 4,000 acres of this sunken marsh and lake and bog on its shores. Early in the history of the country, after the English came into possession, an abattoir was placed across this river and remained there until the year 1881. The history of its removal and the appeal to the courts by the aggrieved party is well remembered by the older residents of both Point deBute and Fort Lawrence. It was supposed at that time by those who owned property in the upper lands of the river, that as soon as the tide water was allowed free access their land would be greatly benefited. This proved to be the case. A few proprietors secured a benefit for a short time. It was soon found that the capacity of the river was wholly unequal to carry off the great volume of fresh water that must have an outlet if the bog was to be benefited by the tide. The result of this was that the tidal water as it rushed up the river was met by a strong current of fresh water going down. The meeting of these currents broke the force of both and this caused the sediment in the salt water to fall at once to the bottom of the stream. In consequence of this, the river and canals lifted up faster than the proprietors of the marsh could keep them down. It was the fact that this was to be improved by the tide began to sink for want of drainage. As time passed it became clear to those who were looking into the matter that the only way to save the land that was now producing hay, and convert the sunken bog and lake into productive land, was to offer the whole territory for sale at a price that would lead capitalists to invest in the work of developing on a large scale and with the modern machinery for excavating canals and sewers.

Soon after the abattoir across the Missequash was cut out, some capitalists empowered the late Christopher Milner to buy up as much of the bog at the head of the river as could be then purchased with the view of forming a company to do the work, very much in the same way it is being carried on now. Mr. Milner soon found that he had been forestalled by others, who had similar views in relation to the work. There was no room for the company, and the matter dropped out of sight until revived a couple of years ago by an article or two published in the Chignecto Post. W. C. Milner, who has always taken an interest in anything and everything that points to the public good in his neighborhood, looked into the matter at this time and decided to promote the work, as a short time before this Col. Blair, who was then manager of the experimental farm at Nappan, had, on the invitation of Judge Morse, been endeavoring to enlist capital in completing the reclamation of the Morse marsh on the La. Planche, about 2,000 acres in extent; and while negotiations were progressing, he joined hands with Messrs. Trueman and Milner in developing the Missequash scheme.

Col. Blair and Howard Trueman called meetings of the proprietors of the marsh and bog and succeeded in getting options on the territory, while Mr. Milner worked up the financial and engineering part of the scheme. Local capitalists did not tumble over each other to get a chance to put their money into the venture. The only local party who joined Mr. Milner was N. A. Rhodes, of Rhodes, Curry & Co., of Amherst, and these two found the balance of the cash required. Legislation was obtained in the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick houses of assembly; surveys on the lands were made by E. P. Goodwin, C. B., and borings were also made on the line of the proposed canal, which was satisfactory. The surveys made by the dominion government for the Bay Verte canal and by the Chignecto Ship Railway Co. reduced greatly the work of the engineer. The late John Page, chief engineer of the department of public works, had in one of his reports stated that the levels of the bay and lakes was such that a canal opening into them from the Bay of Fundy would inevitably lead to the filling up of these lakes with mud, and to making the marsh the same as on the Tantramar.

The first work to be done towards getting the steam shovel in operation was to build a hull or scow for its reception. This was commenced in May last and the dredge was ordered. In excavating such machines in Welland, Ontario, on the first of July work was begun with horses and scoops, and a week or two later the dredge was ready. A good deal of difficulty was experienced in first in getting everything to work smoothly, but not more than is usual in such undertakings.

The work done so far has been (1st) in straightening and enlarging the Missequash River; second, in excavating a canal from a point on that river to the direction of the upper lakes. About a mile of the river has been dredged, and slightly over a mile of the canal cut. Where the canal joins the river at Mount Wheatley, the cut was 38 feet wide, 15 feet deep, and that is the dimension of the canal, with a grade of two feet to the mile. The work is being carried on under commissioners appointed by special acts of the legislatures of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. The name of the company is the Missequash Marsh Co. W. C. Milner is president and J. S. McLennan of Boston, vice president.

The commissioners for New Brunswick are W. C. Milner, Thomas Estlin, Brockton, J. L. Goodwin, Hiram Trenholm and Howard Trueman. For Nova Scotia, Col. Wm. Blair, N. A. Rhodes, Ephraim Church, Martin Chapman and Martin Trenholm.

Col. Blair has charge of the work for the commissioners. Hiram Trenholm, C. E. of Cape Breton, is the consulting engineer, and E. P. Goodwin, resident engineer. The company's office is in Point deBute, where the president and his family at present reside. Mr. Milner has a general oversight of the work. McDonald Bros. of Pugwash have the contract for the first three and a half miles.

An advance of about 200 feet is made in 24 hours, with the help of electric light. Work will be continued during the winter as long as the condition of the ground will permit. There is a good deal that is being followed in carrying out the work, but faith in its ultimate success seems to be daily on the increase.

Advertisement in the WEEKLY SUN.

ACROSS THE WATER.

Japanese Fleet of Warships Waiting Outside Nagasaki.

It is Acting in Close Touch With the British Squadron.

A Certain Coolness Now Exists Between France and Russia.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—A special despatch from Shanghai, dated yesterday, says: "It is reported that a Japanese fleet of over twenty warships is waiting near Goto Island, outside Nagasaki, fully equipped for war and only awaiting instructions. This includes the Fuji and Yamashiro, two of the finest vessels in the Japanese navy, and the Chen Yuen, that was captured from China. The Japanese fleet, it is understood, is acting in close touch with the British squadron under Vice Admiral Sir Alexander Bulcock, commander in chief on the China station. Japan will certainly oppose a permanent Russian occupation of Port Arthur. The sudden dissolution of the Japanese diet was owing to the fact that it is expected that the Japanese fleet will attempt to prevent the landing of reinforcements from Odessa for the protection of the Russian trans-Siberian railway in Manchuria."

LONDON, Dec. 23.—A despatch to the Times from Kobe, Japan, says the dissolution of the diet has greatly angered the political parties. It is probable that the Marquis Ito, a former premier, and Count Okuma, a former foreign minister, will form a coalition ministry, with a vigorous foreign policy. Extraordinary activity prevails at the military and naval depots and warships are assembling at Nagasaki.

PARIS, Dec. 23.—Mr. Rudolph Evans, the only surviving brother of the late Dr. Thos. W. Evans, the famous American dentist who died in Paris on Nov. 14, arrived here last evening with his wife and son. It is learned from a reliable source that the original will of Dr. Evans made two wills, one for the United States and another for France, which was sworn by the translator, who demands 35,000 francs for the translation, and having found differences in the two wills, he refuses to deliver them until both are probated. The United States consul, however, insists that the wills be handed to him for verification. Rudolph Evans, who, if his brother had died intestate, would have been entitled to half the fortune of the deceased, has made two wills, one for $40,000, received only $10,000. There is a determination to fight the will.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—General Sir Charles William Adair is dead. He was born April 5, 1810, and was a Royal Artillery Light Infantry. He retired with the rank of general in 1887.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—The Constantinople correspondent of the Times says that at the last meeting of the directors of the powers, the Russian representative created surprise by proposing Prince George of Greece as governor of Crete. The proposal was coldly received.

The Paris correspondent of the Morning Post reports: "Russia has long been negotiating to raise a Chinese loan of $5,000,000 in France to pay the indemnity and secure the Japanese evacuation of Wei-Hai-Wei. The negotiations have broken down owing to France insisting that the Bank of France should issue the loan and Russia desiring that the Russo-Chinese Bank should take the lead. A certain coolness now exists between France and Russia."

The Athens correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says: "As the Greek gunboats (Tuesday) were leaving the Gulf of Ambracia they were fired on a second time by all the Preveza and Malina batteries, also fired repeated shots, though no damage was done. This action, after Turkey had apologized, is supposed to be intended to create a precedent for closing the gulf."

FROM DAWSON CITY.

There is No Danger of Starvation This Winter—Relief Unnecessary.

SEATTLE, Washington, Dec. 23.—The Alki arrived here today, bringing advice from Dawson City up to November 15. There were thirty passengers on board. All say that there will be no starvation at Dawson this winter or spring. When informed of the action being taken by the government to send out a relief expedition, they said it was unnecessary. Several thousand men have gone from Dawson to Fort Yukon, where there is an unlimited supply of provisions. No sickness is reported at Dawson, and everybody there is in much better circumstances than their friends on the outside. Nearly all those who arrived today came out to purchase their outfits for next season.

A Mackay and wife, whose home is in Tacoma, made the trip from Dawson to Dyea in twenty-five days. The Alki's passengers, however, made the trip in ten days. The vessel appeared to have been a two-masted vessel, probably a schooner, which was used for transportation to navigation, especially to transatlantic steamers bound to Boston and Portland. The vessel was captained by John A. Mackay, the wreck being directed by him.

MARY C. BERRY, Toronto, Ont.

GROOMSMAN NOT GROOM.

Rev. H. W. Stewart of Coburg street Christian church will probably be a surprised man when he learns that he was married today in Truro. He may be consoled, however, with the thought that his bride is one of the fair daughters of Truro, and that he is to enjoy a trip to Prince Edward Island. The published announcement that the wedding was to take place was due probably to the fact that Rev. Mr. Stewart had gone to Pictou, where he will assist today in the marriage of a brother preacher, Rev. G. D. Weaver, and Miss Laura Fullerton. The groom belongs to Digby, but is at present pastor of a church in Ohio. He has preached several times in St. John. The bride, too, is known in this city, where she has occasionally visited.—Tuesday's Globe.

DROVE DOWN ON THE ICE.

Frank McDonald of Wickham drove into town Wednesday, and was able to make the journey to Rothesay on the ice. He left McDonald's Point at 3.30 and arrived back at 10.30. He was with a double team loaded with produce. He crossed from the main river to the Kennebecas at Flewelling's, and drove down the latter stream to Rothesay, where he took the road. Mr. McDonald says that the ice was very hard, and that the crossing of the river was very rapid. On Sunday, the 18th, there was open water at McDonald's Point. On Wednesday following Mr. McDonald drove with two horses to Hog Island and set a load of hay. Mr. McDonald states that R. D. A. and J. T. Hendry are lumbering this winter on the McDonald property, and will get out quite a lot of logs.

SOME POINTS ON CELERY.

Its Value as a Medicine and as a Food.

Celery is popularly supposed to have special value in nervous diseases and rheumatism, though all authorities do not agree to this. Wild celery is not so common as the superior flavor of the canvas-back duck is ascribed to the fondness of the bird for this plant. The green leaves of the cultivated celery retain much of the rank flavor of the wild plant, and the blanching process has been devised to make stalks crisp and wholesome. By setting the roots in deep trenches and keeping the earth and water level, the stalks grow from sunlight by boards or straw they are bleached and lose their strong flavor.

To keep a bunch of stalks in good condition for a few days put it in a cool, dark place. Before using separate the stalks, wash thoroughly and trim off the ends. Cold water for an hour or two. A little vinegar or lemon juice in the water helps to keep the stalks from becoming limp. If, left in water for any length of time, celery will become slimy and decay.

For cooking the stalks should be cut across in short sections, to prevent stringiness. Boiled celery may be served like asparagus, on toast, or with a white sauce, or in shells with the white sauce, buttered crumbly and hot. Celery, or after boiling it can be dipped in fried batter and fried in fat. Cooked celery is a sauce to serve with poultry, or to a plain broiled stuffing for fowl.

The cream celery soup is always a favorite, and is simply a combination of stewed and strained celery pulp with cream. A variation on this is the celery tureen or celery bouillon lately popular for afternoon tea. A variation on this is the celery salad of late have combined apples and celery in various ways, with French, cooked or raw, and with a dressing of oil and vinegar. Apples hollowed out make attractive cases in which to serve a celery mayonnaise. —American Kitchen Monthly.

MARINE MATTERS.

(From Daily Sun, December 29th.)

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 23.—The S. S. arrived at Toneriffe, Canary Islands, about the 27th, having made the voyage in twenty days.

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 23.—The S. S. Santa Maria, which grounded when leaving Bermuda for Martinique, came off about noon today, and is expected to arrive at Toneriffe, Canary Islands, about the 27th, having made the voyage in twenty days.

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 23.—The S. S. Andrea, New York to Sydney, general cargo, left St. John's for Sydney, N.S., on Monday, Dec. 22, at 10 a.m. The S. S. Andrea, New York to Sydney, general cargo, left St. John's for Sydney, N.S., on Monday, Dec. 22, at 10 a.m. The S. S. Andrea, New York to Sydney, general cargo, left St. John's for Sydney, N.S., on Monday, Dec. 22, at 10 a.m.

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 23.—The S. S. Andrea, New York to Sydney, general cargo, left St. John's for Sydney, N.S., on Monday, Dec. 22, at 10 a.m. The S. S. Andrea, New York to Sydney, general cargo, left St. John's for Sydney, N.S., on Monday, Dec. 22, at 10 a.m. The S. S. Andrea, New York to Sydney, general cargo, left St. John's for Sydney, N.S., on Monday, Dec. 22, at 10 a.m.

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 23.—The S. S. Andrea, New York to Sydney, general cargo, left St. John's for Sydney, N.S., on Monday, Dec. 22, at 10 a.m. The S. S. Andrea, New York to Sydney, general cargo, left St. John's for Sydney, N.S., on Monday, Dec. 22, at 10 a.m. The S. S. Andrea, New York to Sydney, general cargo, left St. John's for Sydney, N.S., on Monday, Dec. 22, at 10 a.m.

SPORTING MATTERS.

Corbett, Through Brady, Challenges Fitzsimmons for Another Fight.

THE RING.

Daly and Everhardt Fight to a Draw. NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 23.—Jack Daly and Jack Everhardt met before the Tulane Avenue Athletic club tonight with about a thousand persons present for a percentage of the receipts. The match was originally for twenty rounds, but the mayor would not issue a permit for this. Everhardt made the training for twenty rounds and refused to go on until he secured an agreement that if both men were on their feet at the end of ten rounds, the fight would be declared a draw. Everhardt tried to make it a knockout, but Daly was clever enough to keep away from the punishment. Daly's left was weak, so that there was not much harm done until the seventh, when Daly learned to use his right arm and kept it going on the body. In the tenth round, Daly's right did a rushing business on Everhardt's body, and there was danger of a knockout. Then Everhardt clinched and wrestled and saved himself until the time was called and Referee Duffy called it a draw.

Corbett Issues a Reply to Fitzsimmons. NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Wm. A. Brady, manager of James J. Corbett, tonight sent to the Associated Press the following deal to Fitzsimmons: To Robert Fitzsimmons, champion of the world.

James J. Corbett, dissatisfied with the result of his late contest with you at Carson City, and not believing that you are an inferior either as a boxer or fighter, and being of the opinion that the majority of the American public share this belief, that he can defeat you if ever you are man enough to grant him a return battle on equal conditions, has deposited today $250 as a first deposit to bind a match for $10,000 a side, the person offering the largest inducement to have the management of the contest. As you have said that your wife has withdrawn her objection to you again entering the ring, there is no reason why the arrangement should not be speedily consummated; for you, in my presence at Carson City, have said that you will enter the ring again if you enter the ring again you would give him a fair chance. It is useless for you to attempt to deceive the public and try to boom your private interests by attempting to force a return battle on me. I am a boxer and a fighter, and I will not agree to meet a man who will not agree to meet me. He claims that the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the title of champion. He clearly proved himself a champion in your class on March 1st, and it was only by the greatest kind of a fluke that you are now titled "champion." I do not believe that you will ever be a boxer before he shall be entitled to my notice. He will not agree to meet me, Baker, the champion, but I will give you the chance he gave you, the right to win Baker the