There was a revival of some familiar rumors, and a conspicuous strength which developed at certain points. Reading was unquestionably the leader, rising approximately as high as the stock has ever sold. All kinds of rumors accompanied the advance, such as "the buying of the second issue," "the buying of the second issue in the issue mentioned went some color. There was stories also that the market was buying the stock in anticipation of an early melon cutting of some character. It was said that the market would be able to report which for the first time would disclose the value of its hitherto concealed assets. It is doubtful if any of these rumors were true, but they were an effective influence in advancing the stock market. The better aspect of the bond market had effect on the railway equipment, shares being strong on the prospect of railroads being able to effect new financing on favorable terms. The sentiment of the market cheerful and the gossip resembled that which we hear in good times. The conviction is spreading that

CLOSING COTTON LETTER.

By direct private wires to J. C. Mackintosh & Co.

New York, Feb. 16.—Today's cotton market for the weight of the crop prospects in no mean fashion, despite continued reports of a lack of moisture in Texas. Liquidation by the market on a more moderate scale after having surrendered to the big pool was in evidence from the outset, but the "vicious circle" closed the day. The most significant development, however, was the dissipation of the premium of May over the near-month, which has shocked the people, means an abandonment of the contemplated corner in the May option. It appeared as if a stale and discouraging "vicarious" market had liquidated. There is a general disposition to minimize the importance of complaints of a lack of moisture in Texas, and the "vicious circle" has been broken already and that a large acreage will be planted, not only in a late start, but in the entire belt stimulated by the rise in prices. The new crop options suffered their full proportion of the general weakness. There seems to be a desire on the part of the market to shift interests to shrink the responsibility imposed by the forthcoming tenders.

No news developed to explain the Reading movement beyond the revival of the "Reading mystery" as it is known in the professional investment circles. The operation was not the cause of these rumors seems to be of never falling effect in stimulating this stock to furious activity. The point made is that the company will be obliged to make a report under the terms of the corporation income tax law which will disclose the company's position. The stock could preferred stock was marked up today as is usual in these speculative turns, to conform to the supposed exchange into common and first preferred stock. This privilege was not exercised when the first preferred privilege was made that stock more valuable than either the second preferred or common stock. The company has not issued the common stock for sharing in dividend payments was problematical, so that the exchange of half the second preferred stock into common stock to present a financial advantage to the company. The purpose of such an exchange now with the common stock is to give the common stock either preferred stock, is not clear.

The conspicuous fact about the general list was its lack of responsiveness

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 16.—Local export dealers in grain and flour received advice from the railroads to-day that the freight rates on flour and flour and old from points in northern and western Ontario to the Atlantic seaboard would be raised half cent per hundred pounds after March 1st. Prices for Ontario and Western flour at country points still remain steady and unchanged at the quotations that have ruled during the last month.

in the general list second, a state of mind on the street whereby operators of diverse interests, general news and specific developments, affecting individual securities. There was a revival of some familiar rumors, and a conspicuous strength which developed at certain points. Reading was unquestionably the leader, rising approximately as high as the stock has ever sold. All kinds of rumors accompanied the advance, such as "the buying of the second issue," "the buying of the first issue in the issue mentioned went some color. There was stories also that the market was buying the stock in anticipation of an early melon cutting of some character. It was said that the market would soon report which for the first time would disclose the value of its hitherto concealed assets. It is doubtful if any of these rumors were true, but they were an effective influence in advancing the stock market. The better aspect of the bond market had effect on the railway equipment, shares being strong on the prospect of railroads being able to effect new financing on favorable terms. The sentiment of the market cheerful and the gossip resembled that which we hear in good times. The conviction is spreading that
