A booth from which valentines were sold was presided over by the little Misses Audrey Jones and Greta Burden, who were dressed as fairies. The young lady receiving the largest number of valentines, Miss Muriel Smith, received a prize box of chocolates, and the gentleman who was too modest to allow his name to be mentioned, allowed his prize, a box of cigars to go under the auctioneer's hammer. It was knocked down to Mr. George Dent for the sum of six dollars. All cakes left over after the refreshments were sold at auction by Mr. Bridge and brought big prices. Splendid music was furnished by Bridge's orchestra. For those who did not care to dance, bridge tables were furnished. About four hundred and seventy-five dollars were cleared.
