

Was Guest of The Canadian Club

"The Need of Armaments in Peace Times" Subject of Capt. Henry G. H. Adams.

The members of the Canadian Club were privileged yesterday to hear one of the officers of His Majesty's Canadian Navy speak on the subject of "The Need of Armaments in Peace Times," and all who were present agreed that the speaker made out a good case.

The British Empire was a vast one and Canada, in common with the other portions of it, must understand the many problems affecting all portions. Each section had its domestic troubles which did not much affect the fabric as a whole, but on the other hand there were some problems which, while they directly affected only one portion, had an indirect effect on the whole Empire, and it was the latter kind we, as Canadians, should be watchful of.

The conference of Premiers had been a splendid thing, and had brought all portions of the Empire closer together and given new insight into the troubles of the other fellow. While the proceedings were private some idea of what took place could be gleaned by remarks made after it was over.

Premier Massey had expressed his belief that war was not at an end and that New Zealand felt a strong navy was a matter of life and death to that part of the Empire, and Premier Hughes had expressed himself along similar lines. It was generally recognized, the speaker said, that the navy insured the freedom of the sea, nations which comprised the British Empire, and none could live without it, and Premier Meighen had stated the Canadian position on the matter when he said that Canada, if she shared the benefits must also bear a part of the cost, and the five ships now in port were the beginning of the carrying out of that pledge.

Secretary Denby, of the United States had said a navy was a form of insurance, and Canada had that kind of insurance for her foreign trade. At the close of the address the chairman tendered the thanks of the club to Capt. Adams for his excellent talk.

Goodwin, secretary of the evangelical and social service work of the Methodist church, who is assisting the New Brunswick Temperance Alliance in organizing the province for the vote on the referendum, was in the city yesterday and reports meeting with great encouragement wherever he has gone and states that judging from the spirit shown, there would be a larger majority in favor of temperance than at the last election.

Painful Diarrhoea. GRAMES IN STOMACH.

Mr. Fred Peniston, Oak, Sask. writes: "I was afflicted with a sudden attack of diarrhoea which completely laid me out, and in a few hours I had to quit work. The grames in my stomach were dreadful, the heads of perspiration would stand out on my face at times. I was in such great distress. At last I got a chance to send for a sample of bottles of Dr. Rowley's Tablets of W.M. Strawberry. I used according to the way I felt and soon obtained a great change for the better. The diarrhoea was very thankful. I don't know what the cause of my sickness was except the extremely hot weather and the active work of working the wheat.

Gibbons Must Prove He's Star

Public Demands St. Paul Boxer Meet Some One Except Set-ups.

Plans are on to convince the fans that Tommy Gibbons will furnish real opposition when it comes to Georges Carpentier. Tex Rickard, who keeps his hands pretty well on the public, has detected a feeling that Gibbons has made his recent big reputation at the expense of second-raters or worse. The great promoter, however, has looked to be and will class up with the best.

Must Convince Public.

And so the idea is now to convince the general public that Tommy Gibbons is the real sinner pure goods, all wool and a yard wide. Gibbons is willing enough, it is reported, and it can be best fruit because he is picky as the man for Gibbons to beat. If this is true, and he should succeed in knocking out Bill, Tommy Gibbons would not only be set for Carpentier, but for Dempsey himself.

Kilbane's Hands In Fine Shape

X-Ray Shows That Old Breaks No Longer Bother the Featherweight.

No other champion of the prize ring ever had smaller or more brittle hands than the boss of the featherweight, Johnny Kilbane. But an X-ray test proves they're in fine shape. The only injury visible to say it a constant source of worry to him. He has banged up his mitts in almost every battle and on two occasions registered complete knockouts. The only injury occurred in a bout with Johnny Albanese. Later the hands and elbows of Harry Donahue, Eddie O'Keefe and John Mahoney put the champion's smackers out of commission for varying periods.

Back in 1916 Johnny broke his right hand in a match with the Canadian featherweight champion, John O'Leary, and then came back with an injury in a give and take affair with Johnny Mealy, two years ago. So badly was his hand broken in that fight that he had to keep it in a crueted ice for hours at a time to reduce the swelling and allay the pain.

His last noise with Freddie Jacks, a couple of months ago, was a repetition of cold applications. Kilbane is not taking any chances with his coming scrap with Frush. We refer you to X-ray photos that have just been made. These were taken to ease Johnny's own frame of mind and to satisfy him, in cold facts, that there is nothing serious. The only injury visible to say it in plain English consists of an old wound at the apex of the hand—wound that he had to keep it in a crueted ice for hours at a time to reduce the swelling and allay the pain.

Notwithstanding the dredden china quality of Kilbane's hands, they have endured the strain of 136 battles in the ring and have been the means of his earning nearly a quarter of a million dollars.

The largest telescope in the world was good with yet no tidings of Fred Harris, 64, Harrison street, reported missing since September 19th.

Virginia Rappe Was Hilarious From Effects of Liquor

"Movie Villain" Gives His View of Arbutuckle Party Which He Attended.

New York, Sept. 22.—Virginia Rappe was hilarious from the effects of liquor at Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle's party before the incidents in Arbuckle's bedroom, which led to her death, according to Lowell Sherman, "movie villain" who told the story of the drinking party to District Attorney Swann here Thursday.

"The refreshments," he said, "consisted of very fine quality of Scotch whiskey and an equally fine quality of gin which were partaken of very freely by everyone present. Arbuckle's guests began arriving at noon, and by one o'clock about a dozen were present. I went out to telephone and when I returned was introduced to Miss Rappe. I noticed the young lady was rather hilarious, evidently from the effects of the liquor. Next I heard was when I came from my room and Arbuckle said to me the young lady was ill. His exact words were that 'Rappe got sick.' She was then in Arbuckle's room."

"I went into Arbuckle's bedroom and looked in the door, and saw the young lady on one of the beds, leaning off clothes, clutching at her stomach and evidently in pain, groaning. I realized she had had something to drink and said, 'Geese the little girl has a bun on and has indigestion.'"

"The women in the party," Sherman said, "took off with Miss Rappe's clothes were left on her and put her in a bath tub. When the girl failed to revive, he continued, the house physician was called and Arbuckle rented another room for the girl alone in the bedroom. Sherman told the District Attorney, Arbuckle came to him and said, 'The party is getting rough, and we had better see what we can do to get them out of here. They are not coming up to see me and they had better get out.'"

Arbuckle never told him what happened when he and Miss Rappe were alone in the bedroom, he said, and he never asked him.

Sherman said the police had informed him he could go wherever he pleased, and they returned to Los Angeles with Arbuckle the next day.

Arbuckle never told him what happened when he and Miss Rappe were alone in the bedroom, he said, and he never asked him.

Correspondence On Cattle Shipments

A. D. MacTier Advises C. P. R. Would Have to Be Assured Enough Business.

In connection with the shipment of cattle from this port Commissioner Bullock has had some correspondence with A. D. MacTier, of the C. P. R. regarding facilities. Mr. MacTier advises that it would cost a considerable amount of money to fit up for handling live cattle and his railway would have to be assured of enough business to warrant the outlay before the would undertake the expenditure.

The Commissioner is now taking another line, and has called the attention of Mr. MacTier to the "tri-party agreement," and suggests that under the agreement the city and the railway put it up to the Federal Government to assist the necessary facilities as they are promised to do when the three parties entered into it.
