

ART FOR ARROWHEADSteamers Will Try to Break the Ice
Today

Held up in Every Direction—Worst of the Season Strikes Fraser Valley

A transportation question locally but somewhat for the better yesterday it is still far from being normal and the same may be said of the fuel situation, so far as the supply is concerned.
The trains reached the city yesterday at 3 o'clock, the first coming in at 3 o'clock, the second at 3 p. m., the third some 3 hours later. Passengers for the east over the Crow line were taken out this morning as usual.
The steamer Roseland reached Na-kusp last night and although the vessel was unable to lie up at the wharf, the passengers were brought to Nakusp over ice on sleighs. This morning both the Roseland and the Kootenay will head and passengers for Revelstoke east and west of that point will be in as usual. Passengers who left yesterday morning were on the Kootenay and Roseland last night, as those who left the morning before and who tried to make Arrowhead for the ice but who were compelled to turn to the steamer.

The ice breaker has not yet been received and the trip between Nakusp and Arrowhead will probably take a good deal of extra time for some days to come.
The train from Spokane arrived nearly time last evening bringing two days delayed mail.

The snowfall in the Boundary country has been unusually heavy but the trains have been kept moving nearly on time.
The freight is being moved in the Kootenay division of the C. P. R. than in any other of the center and western divisions, but one of the greatest difficulties confronted is the lack of fuel for the locomotives. The train crews have had to work long hours and in many cases a nearly worn out engine.
Yesterday afternoon and evening the weather moderated and last night was mild. A continuation of the thaw is expected today. With the heavy snowfall of late, floods are feared from many points in case of prolonged mild weather.

FRASER VALLEY STORM.

(Special to The Daily News)
Vancouver, Feb. 6.—One of the worst storms of the winter struck the Fraser valley yesterday afternoon and swept right through the Cascades, leaving a trail of snowbanks, broken telegraph wires, and disorganized train service in its wake.

Starting in the vicinity of Mission junction, where damage was done to the C. P. R. telegraph wires, the storm did not really get warmed up until it reached Hope. At Yale it commenced to loosen up, and above Spuzzan it developed into a first class howling blizzard, as it rushed through the canyon of the Fraser.

Six feet of snow on the level throughout the canyon was reached this morning.
Of course not all of that was deposited yesterday afternoon and last night, but much of it was. The depth of snow all along the line of the C. P. R. from Mission Junction to the eastern slopes of the Cascades was increased. This storm caused further delay to the trains which should have reached Vancouver from the east on Sunday and Monday and which were expected to arrive early this morning. They were held up yesterday afternoon and did not arrive till 1:30 and 2 o'clock this afternoon. The express from Montreal due to have arrived yesterday is now reported as being 41 hours late. If she does not lose any more time she should arrive about 5 o'clock tomorrow morning. The train due today is 33 hours late.

(Special to The Daily News)

Spokane, Feb. 6.—All direct railroad communication between Spokane and the Pacific coast was cut off yesterday when two washouts occurred on the Northern Pacific near Pasco, Washington.

The Great Northern has been tied up three days by snow slides between Leavenworth and the Cascade mountains, one passenger train being partly buried in the snow and three others caught between the slides.

The O. R. & N. main line has been tied up for three days by a snow slide near Portland and the branch line from Walla Walla to Pendleton by a bad washout.

Montreal, Feb. 6.—Four Canadian Pacific transcontinental trains pulled into Montreal last night within a few hours of each other. They were the first trains from the far west to reach the city since Saturday. They had been snowed up at no less than five separate points and the way across the prairies and gradually approached each other and gradually last started over forty-eight hours apart. The passengers were all well and reported no serious inconvenience on their rather long train journey.

BROCKVILLE FLOODED

Bellefonte, Ont., Feb. 6.—A serious flood has been caused by the rapid rise of the Mora river. The water is six feet above normal, the flood being caused by the ice breakdown. The water has flooded the flooded and all furnaces are drowned out. If the weather does not moderate within 48 hours the loss will be serious.
