Hartley Dewart Chosen Leader of Ontario Liberals

MANY CHANGES IN LEGISLATION
URGED BY THE CONVENTION

AT TORONTO.

TORONTO, June 26.—Hartley H. Dewart, K.C., member of the Legislature for Southwest Toronto, was today, at the Ontario Liberal convention chosen permanent leader of the provincial Liberal party, succeeding William Proudfoot, K.C., who was chosen temporary leader by the Liberal members of the Legislature when Hon. N. W. Rowell resigned to enter the Union Government previous to the Dominion general election of 1917. A platform was also approved.

Mr. Dewart was elected on the second ballot, when he received 158 votes out of a total of 302.

The selection of Mr. Dewart was never in doubt during the convention and his heavy majority in the first ballot, clearly indicated his election. In a short address following the declaration of the poll Mr. Dewart thanked the delegates for his election and said that while there was a doubt as to when the election would be held there was no doubt that it would be at the moment which best suited the party in power.

HE IS GLAD.....
"I am glad we as Liberals have a platform upon which we can all stand. We will see that the statutes will mean what they say and we will see to it that the Liberal party will occupy the place it should in the coming campaign. Referring to the women delegates, he cordially welcomed them presence and concluded with the hope that when the next Parliament is elected women members will stand shoulder to shoulder with the men.

The Liberal party, he declared, was alive to the issues of the day and united to fight the unscrupulous enemy. The party would care for the interests of the farmers, the labor people and the returned soldier, and as far as the latter were concerned they would not spend $500,000 to settle 94 men at Kapuskasing but would enable them to farm in Old Ontario.

Wm. Proudfoot, K.C., affirmed that any arrangement that he might have made with the Conservatives during the war was made after a caucus of the Liberal members and their responsibility was equal with his. If they had again gone to the country after the last election there would have been fewer members in the Ontario House than there were. He was in favor of Union Government, but he had followed Sir Wilfrid Laurier all the days of his life and it had been a heart-break to leave him. Mr. Proudfoot had a son and son-in-law at the front, who were writing home, saying that more troops were necessary for the successful continuation of the war. What could he do under those circumstances?

FEDERAL LEADER HEARD.
D. D. McKenzie, M.P., the Parliamentary Liberal leader at Ottawa, was vigorously cheered as he mounted the platform.

He paid tribute to the Liberalism of Ontario and said Ontario was the home of Liberalism and all that the people needed to revive the grand old days of prosperous Liberalism was courage, conviction and tenacity.

"To this country," continued Mr. McKenzie, "we have invited many people and promised them the full heritage of British citizenship should they obey our laws and accept our institutions. But we have a Government at Ottawa who disregard all these things."

IN THE COMMONS.
"In the House this session we have endeavored to live up to Liberal principles laid down by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. We will try to live up to them if we win the trust of the people of Ontario. Men lie, but principles never. We say the present party has come into power under excellent auspices. We handed over a well-governed country to the Tories in 1911. The present leader went from one end of the country to the other proclaiming to leave well enough alone."

SIR WILFRID LAURIER.
"We have a great country, a magnificent heritage, what we most need is the unity to make us all Canadians. It was the ambition of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to bring about unity."

"No Ontario against Quebec or West against East, but one great united country of Canada."

"There will be no more Liberal-Unionists—all Liberals will be under one flag."

"What about the press?" "I believe our old friends of the press are showing signs of repentance. We hope they will come back. They have given us hard knocks and disappointment."

OVERSEAS ELECTION CHARGES.
W. T. R. Preston said in all the history of the world there was such race-hatred in the world as that which was performed in the election overseas.

He said much had been said of the War-Times Election Act, but, so far as the soldiers were concerned, it was not the act but the administration of it which was dishonest.

"There are soldiers to-day lying in Flanders fields for no other reason than that they voted for the Liberal party. I am prepared to prove that before any royal commission. Fifteen men of a forestry battalion were threatened if they did not vote for the Government they would be sent to the front line trenches. Fifteen were marched off for that."

A voice, "I don't believe it."

"You may believe it or not as you like, I have evidence. I would not have believed it unless I had evidence. A dozen cases. To this day the Government has not attempted to answer the affidavits of these men."

"Do you know that when the cry was made in Canada that there were no reinforcements in England, twenty thousand Canadian troops were rehearsing the battle of Vimy Ridge on the Surrey Hills for the benefit of a London cinematograph."

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

Discussions of various resolutions preceded the election of a leader. William Proudfoot referring to temperance legislation said whatever might be the result of the referendum the party was pledged to progressive temperance legislation.

Hartley Dewart, whose appearance was greeted with loud applause, declared for the abolition of the patronage system in Ontario and the appointment of a non-partisan purchasing committee.

Major Tolmie advocated equal pensions for equal disabilities of returned soldiers, which was also greeted with approval.

J. C. Elliott discussed making the towns and cities pay their share of road improvement in the province. Many resolutions were passed with very little discussion.

The first was moved by Z. Magneau, M.P.P., condemning the "wasteful and extravagant manner in which millions of dollars designed to open up Northern Ontario are being spent, the miles of roads built where there is no settlement and the neglect of sections where actual settlement is going on."

The resolution pledged the party to the development of the water powers of Northern Ontario, the construction of a chain of fish hatcheries, the encouragement of mining and dealing with the nickel industry in the best interests of the empire, "and prevent a recurrence of the circumstances that stained the fair name of Ontario and Canada during the first years of the war."

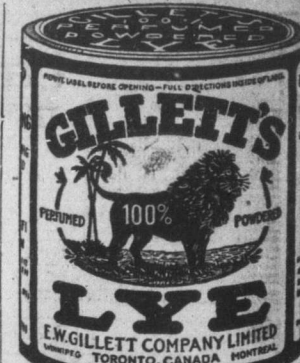

APPROVE HYDRO RADIALS.

A resolution was passed without discussion placing the convention on record that public welfare will be safeguarded by steadfast resistance to any further encroachment of private franchise holding corporations upon the public domain, and approving the hydro radial railways. The elimination of private monopoly of the telephone service and the refusal to confer franchises upon private railways were also approved.

The educational resolution, moved by Thomas Marshall, declared that the time had come for a radical change in the whole school system, and that non-essentials should be abolished from the school curriculum.

A reduction in the burden of home work for the pupils, and a larger proportion of teachers' salaries paid by the province were also approved.

The agricultural policy of the convention includes a system of rural credits to provide long term money at a low rate of interest. The establishment of agricultural schools with demonstration farm to continue the education of rural and urban boys and girls after leaving school was approved.

A spirit of co-operation between producer and consumer to cheapen the cost of production is also included.

Pensions for widows form a policy of the convention following the adoption of a resolution introduced by Mr. McVeity.

The resolution declared that widows with children should not be compelled to neglect their children in order to gain a livelihood. The resolution also declares that men in prison ought to be paid for work and the money paid over to their wives. It urged the prevention of infant mortality and the care of the feeble-minded.

That the law be amended so as to prevent men and women afflicted with hereditary diseases from marrying and propagating children, is one clause of the resolution.

TEMPERANCE RESOLUTION.

The temperance resolution introduced by Mr. Proudfoot, declared, "Be it resolved that the Liberal party of the Province of Ontario, in convention assembled, affirms its attitude in favor of progressive temperance legislation to the fullest extent of the provincial jurisdiction and pledges itself to take all necessary steps to vigorously and effectively carry into effect the will of the majority of the people so expressed by the referendum vote."

The high cost of living was dealt with in a resolution introduced by Mrs. Kelly, which condemned the Ontario Legislature for its failure to deal with the matter and its abandonment of "the investigation and prosecution of illegal combines formed to limit competition and to enhance prices." It declared for Government control of cold storages, abattoirs and stockyards and the prosecution of all combines.

RESOLUTION ON HIGHWAYS.

Mr. J. C. Elliott introduced a resolution favoring provincial grants towards the construction and maintenance of township roads and further that the provincial highway construction should not be gone on with until the route, quality and kind of road to be built are submitted to and passed by the Legislature.

Mr. Hartley Dewart introduced a resolution on patronage urging the creation of a non-partisan civil service and the purchase of all supplies for the public service on a business basis and by tender in open competition.

Mr. Proudfoot introduced a resolution favoring the placing of a law upon the statute book, "providing that the election of members to the Legislature and municipal councils be by a form of preferential voting which will result in proportional representation."

URGE INDUSTRIAL COUNCIL.

The convention passed a resolution that the government create a provincial industrial council consisting of an equal number of employees and employers, men and women, together with a chairman appointed by the Government, to consider and report on the causes of the present unrest and the steps necessary to safeguard and promote the best interests of employers and states."

The Ontario Liberals' labor proposals in detail were read to the convention by A. W. Roebuck as follows.

"A general minimum wage for both men and women to apply generally to all industry throughout the province."

"The appointment of a permanent commission to inquire continuously into the cost of living in various localities and from time to time, with power to increase the minimum wage to such a rate as will, under all conditions, provide a respectable living to all wage-earners."

"A law fixing the eight-hour day for all industrial occupations throughout the province, as applied to both men and women."

"Better inspection of factories and other industries where men or women are employed, particularly with a view to the protection of women, and more rigid enforcement of child labor regulations."

"A law prohibiting employers from compelling their employees to enter into agreements not to enter into labor unions, and a recognition of the principle of collective bargaining."

"Insurance against sickness and unemployment, based on the principles of the English law."

"Abolition of imprisonment for debt, the increase of the exemption of married men's wages from attachment from $23 to $40; the revision of the list of articles exempt from seizure for debt so as to leave the actual necessities of home life."

"And generally in dealing with protection of men and women and the improvement of social conditions, the committee recommending the following:

"Mothers' pensions to be administered by the department of labor, with power to provide medical attendance and necessities, whenever required for the proper birth and upbringing of children."

"The amendment of the Dower Act so as to ensure to a married woman a fair and adequate share of her husband's estate which he cannot will away from her."

"Better protection of deserted and ill-used wives."

The resolution was seconded by L. Bracklin and unanimously carried.

WOULD ABOLISH SENATE.

Amid a scene of wild enthusiasm the convention adopted a resolution passed by the women delegates last night advocating the abolishment of the Senate.

The resolution was not entirely unanimous, but another resolution condemning the action of the Senate in regard to the Temperance Act legislation was unanimously agreed to. No member, however, had any sense of the Senate to offer and the opposition to its abolition was confined to a motion to strike out the clause which was seconded without discussion and lost on the division.
