

261. We are always happy when money is plenty.
262. Will you learn John his lesson ?
263. The book lays on the desk.
264. I or him am in the wrong.
265. Neither he nor I is in fault.
266. I remember it being done.
267. You were the cause of me being dismissed.
268. If it rains to-morrow I shall remain at home.
269. He only punished the smallest of the three.
270.* This is the epoch of one of the most singular discoveries that has been made among men.
271. If I shall come my sister will accompany me.
272. The officers are requested to meet at 9 a.m. to-morrow morning.
273. She sat her pitcher down upon the ground.
274. The cars have as good a right to be stopped as carriages.
275. I am very fond of those sort of apples.
276. If I am well to-morrow you may call.
277. These two boys are both brothers.
278. Can you tell me where I'd be liable to get some beans.
279. This is the warmest day I ever experienced.
280. If you please to look into the matter you would see the miserable condition that some of us are in.
281. He loaned me as much as a thousand dollars.
282. They are united together.
283. He knows little or nothing of book-keeping.
284. If one's honesty were impeached what would a person do.
285. I found an old acquaintance which I had not seen for some time.
286. The whole school was rambling about the common all the afternoon.
287. Suppose a person was to lose his way in the woods.
288. I intended to have called on him last night.
289. There were a thousand in the French army. who could have done it as well as him.
290. If he had have come according to appointment things would now be all right.