OCTOBER 19, 1912

of the historian of the English people, and himself the bearer of an honorable reputation in the same field. " Does the Government," it was asked, " still think we have no fire-arms in Belfast ?" A strange question for men of "order and peace !" A strange question surely, if we failed to recollect the history of Orange domination in Ulster or elsewhere.

One of the most affecting monument to the "zeal" of the Scottish Reformers is the beautiful ruin of Balmerino Abbey, to the history of which attention has recently been drawn by a well-known writer. It occupies a commanding situstion overlooking the valley of the Tay. the estuary, the famous Carse of Gowrie, and, in the distance, the Grampian Hills. Little now remains of the once splendid foundation, but that little speaks eloquently of the glories of pre-Reformation Scotland. The monastery belonged to the Cistercian Order, and its foundation dates back to 1229, when Ermengarde, widow of William the Lion. and mother of Alexander 11., set apart this tract as a place of "prayer and reparation forever." This pious intention was not destined to be fulfilled for a longer period than three centuries, for with the dawn of the 'Reformation" cam the sacking and demolition by the rabble crew that followed the Lords of the Congregation from St. Andrews in 1559. The ruin of the stately edifice was complete. A portion of the refectory and a few pillars alone remain. Of the church there is scarcely a trace. But meagre as they are they speak across the centuries alike of the glories that once were, and of the future. possibly, that is to be.

WHATEVER BE the future of the Church in Scotland (and she certainly bears upon her now a note of hope and promise) it is consoling to reflect upon the continued prosperity of the Benedictine Order in Scotland and England, and of the extension of its work to Canada. The Cistercians of Balmerino followed in their day the rule of St. Benedict; the monastery of Fort Augustus, which continues to thrive, observes the same venerable rule in ours. To the new North West of Canada, so instinct with hope for the future, these same Benedictine monks come now to take up the same works-prayer, reparation, education-and to carry on the traditions of the Order. The Bishop of Regins has entrusted to them the foundation of a secondary college at Calgary, and also the establishment of missions wherever the need presents itself. The Abbot of Ampleforth, who visited Calgary last year, and appraised the situation, has enthusiastically accepted the chargeand is sending out as first Superior Dom Clarkson, who has been filling the post of Rector of St. Mary's, Brownredge, Preston. He will come to Canada immediately, and undertake without delay the erection of the college. Missionary work will follow, and in due time other Fathers will join him, and prosecute the work in the age-long spirit of their Founder. It augurs well for the future of Alberta that the sons of St. Benedict are to have a part in the moulding of its destinies.

are on the down grade. Yet its votarie shut their eyes to the realities and con tinue to squander their resources upon phantoms such as "Italian missions and the like. Inability to profit by experience has become with them a deominational characteristic.

A QUEBEC EDITOR AND HOME RULE

Quebec, Oct., 5, 1912. To the Editor CATHOLIC RECORD,

London, Ont.: Dear Sir—The acompanying letter was biassed anti-Home Rule editorial which speared in the Quebec Chronicle of the 23rd ult. As you will see by the letter is was addressed to the Daily Telegraph it was addressed to the Daily Telegraph of this city, a paper generally recognized by the Irish people of Quebec as favor-able to the cause. For reasons best known to the management of that paper the letter was first gladly accepted with a promise to publish, and, on further consideration was refused that privilege. tions, his marshalling in arms, his "solemn covenant" (which by the way, has an ominous seventeenth century sound) will be as barren of results as far as the passing of the Home Rule Bill is concerned, as was that sorry exconsideration was refused that privilege. As the CATHOLIC RECORD has a very large circulation in the city of Quebec I would be very much pleased if you could extend the courtesy hibition of impotence prior to the 8th of February. Sir Edward Carson is leading a forlorn of your columns to the enclosed letter, together with this, which will hope. His scitation is assilly as it is oriminal. That poor deluded Lord George Gordon, who in 1780 fomented letter, together with this, which will afford an opportunity for the Irish people of this city to appreciate the policy which seems to dominate the Daily Telegraph. Yours very truly afford an the anti-popery rising, which hears his name, was not more ignoble in the motives which inspired him, nor did he present a more pitiable spectacle, than hls knightly imitator of the present day. To the Editor of the Daily Telegraph Sir: In Monday's issue of the Chron-tole, that paper takes what it is pleased to call the "Asquith Churchill Ministry But the "agitation in Ulster" But the "agitation in Dister is such an oft-recurring one, that, to thinking people, it no longer causes alarm. It has quite a venerable respectability as it dates from 1600, with spasmodic recruto task for a contemplated striking off the name of Sir Edward Carson from the list of Privy Councillors. The writer of this letter is not given descences (as the doctors might say) from time to time, of varying degrees of malignity and threatened violence. It divides, honors with Halley's comet, whose visitations recur at long intervals, and whose advent is heralded by many dire predictions—yet this earth remains interv newspaper controversy. But when an article, so obviously unfair and biassed as that of Monday is flaunted biassed as that of Monday is naunted in the faces of the Chronicle's Irish Catholic readers, who, I believe, are no inconsiderable proportion of the whole, one is constrained to take issue with it and to place before the public through the medium of the Telegraph some phases of the Irish quantity. "Ulster will fight and Ulster will be es of the Irish question I am not aware that the government every conceivable provocation, great or small. But when will Ulster be "right?" Ulster fought in a very proposes to deprive Sir Edward Carson of his Privy Councillorship. This may be but newspaper rumor. But if it have any basis in fact, there would seem to be "right?" Uister fought in a very valiant fashion in 1829, sgainst the granting of Catholic Emancipation— but she was not "right" on that occasion. Uister was quite as formidable in her threats and her war-like spirit as she is 'right?" any basis in fact, there would seem to be abundant justification on the part of the government in exercising the preroga-tive. And should this example in re-buke be administered, it would not be for the reason the Chronicle states, "beto-day in the few months preceding 1869, when Mr. Gladstone disestablished the Irish Church-but again, Ulster wa cause he has the courage of his own con-victions, etc., etc."

STRECRIBER.

And as one who has seen considerable Rather would it be for the very And as one who has seen considerable of what is regarded as manly fighting, both in a physical and moral sense, let me add that I have yet to see on the part of Ulster a manifestation of any rather would it be for its very material reason that this Sir Edward Carson has, for some time, been, and is presently engaged, in inciding the Pro-testants of Uister to sedition. One does not need to have the rank of Privy action to merit the name of "fighting." Fiery is speeches, sanguinary threas, rumors of provisional (but largely "visional") governments do not consti-tute fighting. They do not even effect what they are primarily intended to effect—the intimidation of the govern-ment into a modification of the Bill, by which United merid her placed here action to merit the name of "fighting Councillor to appreciate to the full the possible consequences of Sir Edward Carson's seditious oratory. But the offence is the more flagrant in one who offence is the more flagrant in one who has been honored by his Sovereiga and from whose intelligence a more consti-tutional course might be expected. "To have the courage of one's convic-tions" (a very much over-worked ex-pression) is a landable attribute in any man but it can be effect by the court which Ulster would be place the scope of its operation. I enclose my card, Mr. Editor, and thanking you for the space, beg to sub-thanking you for the space. which Ulster would be placed beyond man, but it can be offset by the equally hackneyed expression, "discretion is the better part of valor." Sir Edward scribe myself. IR Quebec, 26th Sept., 1912. Carson's fiery valor seems to have entirely overwhelmed his discretion, an ARE CATHOLICS INTOLERANT ?

not at the moment, a traitor to the British crown, it is because the beneficent laws of his country do not harply define where sedition onde end treason begins. You. Mr. Editor, cannot be unfamilia You, Mr. Ealtor, cannot be unhammar with the history of Ireland, during the last half century. In the early 80's we read daily of the outrages under the Coercion and Crimes Acts. We saw how Mr. Parnell and his followers were ast into prison for advising their people to resist cruel and unjust laws, inflicted the direst misery on the Irish people. Indeed, Sir Henry W. Lucy, that brilliant parliamentary writer, tells of the time when practically every ermit me, I might improvise a term entering into the spirit of those times permit me, I might improvise a term which must appeal to that ultra-British heart of the Ohronicle man. They have played the game "Britishly." Home Rule has been to the fore during at least two sessions of parliament. There has been no Star Chamber work in presenting that legislation to parliament, and every provision of the bill has been scrutin-ized and criticized by its opponents. "Sneaking round by a hidden pathway" cannot be said to characterize the course of Winston Churchill on the 8th of February last, when, after publicly with their different ideas, harsner methods, and particular circumstances. Catholics hold no brief for Queen Mary or the French and Spanish monarchs or do they wish to maintain that their nor do they wish to maintain that their measures were right. Nor is it fair to the Catholic Church to pick out the blackest acts of some of her members, and then call Catholicism a religion of tyranny. Suppose you picked out all the fatal mistakes of doctors, and then called their profession one of murder, that mould be as inst crying out about course of Winston Churchill on the Sch of February last, when, after publicly announcing his intention weeks before, he went to the city of Belfast to explain to the people of Uister the Home Rule Bill. And this in the face of malicious that would be as just crying out about "the fires of Smithfield" and "the massa-

THE CATHOLIC RECORD

is such at

ing the Catholi and intolerant. ROTESTANT AND CATHOLIC PERSECUTIONS COMPAREL

But Protestants should be the very last to speak about religious intolerance. Protestant victims of religious persecu-tion are few in number compared with Catholic victims. Suppose we compare them. During Queen Mary's reign about two hundred were put to death Who advised their execution ? Certainly not the Catholic Caurch. The Protest ant Bishop Burnet writes that "Car-dinal Pole, the Papal Legate, never set on the clergy to persecute heretics, but to reform themselves" : and that "he advised that no open persecution should be raised sgainst the Protestants."

Nor was it Queen Mary. Although many of the two hundred has aimed at many of the two hundred has aimed as stirring up a rebellion and dethroning her. Queen Mary continually advised her council to act "with moderation" and "without rashness." When we remember how Mary had seen the Catholic Bishops confined for years in dungeons, how the Protestant reformers wrote and preached against her in the filthiest terms, and how terribly she suffered from ill health, the wonder is that Mary pleaded for and obtained the release of as many as she did. Her biographer shows that ces (as the doctors might say) the Queen was not present at the council when Cranmer's case was dealt with. In any case, Queen Mary was not the instigator of the persecution in her It was the work of ber ministers reign. It was the work of her ministers and her council, and almost every one of them had conformed to Protestantism Edward's reign. This shows that right," we were told by Lord Randolph Churchill. Yes, Ulster will fight. Ulster has a disposition to fight on they were men of no religious principle, who simply acted from motives of politiwho simply soted from motives of politi-cal expediency. Cranmer, Ridley and Latimer were fanatics who would again kill and destroy the moment they had the power, therefore (so they argued) they had better be put out of the way.

FOXE'S BOOK OF LIES

But compare two hundred put to death in Mary's reign with more than seventy thousand who were executed under Henry VIII. And poor "Bloody" Mary had no such blot on her memory as has "good Queen Bess," who kept Mary Queen of Scots shut up in prison for nineteen years and then had her be-headed. In contrast with the policy of Cardinal Pole, the Protestant Archbishop away." Parker urged the "taking of her away." The Protestant tradition about "Blood" Mary is no doubt mainly due "Block of Lies." Dr. Littledale, a bitter opponent of "Romanism," though one of the first to introduce "Roman" dotrines and practices into the Church of England, described Foxe as "that un-mitigated liar" in the Church Times, when he was the editor of that High Anglican paper. However, Foxe and many another "unmitigated liar" helped to create the Protestant tradition when, for nearly three centuries, no 'one was allowed to write or speak on the other oreign lands.

IN THE DAYS OF "GOOD QUEEN BESS" AN ASSUMPTION THAT IS SHAT-"Good Queen Bess" had her Catholic victims tortured before their death. The rack," says the historian Hallam, seldom stood idle in the tower for all the latter part of Elizabeth's reign." Many forms of torture were introduced in her reign, one of the most horrible Feb. 22nd appeared an account of the death of the Samoan High Chief Mataafa. being "the dungeon of rats" into which water flowed at high tide. Queen Eliz-abeth established the reformed religion He is described as a "noble figure-per haps the greatest Samoan that has ever lived." The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph wrote : "Mataafa died, as in England by making the profession of the Catholic religion a crime by law, and by enforcing that law with the most he had lived for many years, a devout

hearers that they come out shouting "to hell with the Pope," and almost ready to eat their unoffending Catholic neigh-bound to put to death the Queen, along taught : "To give any toleration to Papists is a grievous sin." The Hugueburied some alive. Was it ever enacted in any Catholic country that everyone who refused to attend Mass should be heavily fined? Was it ever enacted in any ountry that no Protestant should keep horse worth more than £5, and if did so. Catholics might take it from him? And that no Protestant children could inherit lands until they conformed to the Catholic Faith? Was it ever nacted in any Catholic country that a Protestant should be racked ten time for his Protestantism a punishment which was inflicted upon Father Southwell; or that a Protestant woman should pressed to death between stones for harboring a Protestant clergyman, a punishment which was inflicted upon Margaret Clitherce ? But enough of Everyone knows the reality his. these horrors, though for three hundred years they have been omitted from Protestant histories.

THE LAST MESSAGE

DER DOYLE WAS ON CONVER-SION OF AMERICA TO TRUE FAITH OF JESUS CHRIST

His zeal, truly apostolic, was Catho-lic, too. It could not be otherwise, for e loved the Church, not only for his the Master. From the first announcement of the national seminary for foreign missions, Father Doyle gave the idea his his bright little monthly, The Missionary, he wrote what has proved to be his last message on this important topic, and we quote from it for the benefit of our readers, the following passages :

one of the surest incentives to priest-liness of spirit I could set before the pupils of my seminary, is the recital of deeds and trials of missionaries in The Field Afar is the organ of the Catholic Foreign Mission Soc iety, nov established in its permanent home at Maryknoll, Ossining, P. O., New York Send for a sample copy, and discover fo yourself its attractive qualities.

JOURNALISTIC IGNORANCE

"The appalling ignorance of the major ity of English journalists in conne with the matters of Catholic doctrine, discipline and belief," says the Irish Catholic, "is strikingly illustrated by a Catholic, "is strikingly liustrated by a reference in a recent issue of the Pall Mail Gazette to the action of Queen Elena of Italy, who in the absence of a priest, gave absolution to a dying work-man." It would be hard to beat this, but no doubt most of the Protestant readers of the Pall Mail accept it as gaged truth." gospel truth."

The description of a woman confessor is ludicrous enough but the Irish Catho-lics ought to be glad that the Pail Mall lics ought to be glad that the Fall Mall Gazette stopped with the mere uarra-tion of the supposed fact. If some of our American papers had published the sweet, pretty story, there would have been a picture of the Queen in the act of giving absolution, and very likely clothed in surplice and stole. For many of our journals display as much ignor ance as the Pall Mall Gazette, when dealing with Catholic theology and Catholic practice. Nowadays one does not read the strange things which used to come from the pen of the young non-Catholic reporter when writing up some ecclesias tical function. We no longer meet the priest who enters the sanctuary carry-ing an acolyte in each hand, nor the one who is clad in a gold thurifer. Let us be thankful that those days of ignorant, even if unintentional, caricature are

The wonder is that any editor even llowed a reporter to do things of which his ignorance was illimitable. There would be as much sense in our trying to describe the gowns at a social function and candidiv we admit that we do not know the difference between crepe di chene and cheese cloth.

Some reporters, however, know every thing. And even to day their blunders about Catholic things are egregious Not considering the matter of Catholic theology, where some of them are guilty of a distinct heresy in every line, it is in the matter of Catholic terminology that they work havoc. It is quite com-mon now to read of the priest who "performs" Mass or "performs the Sacrament," or who sometimes "per-forms an appropriate Mass."

At the back of the great shop-window Again there is the priest who "says the Benediction of the Sacrament," or "chants the Rosary." Not long since we read in one of the suburban papers that the local Church celebrated " the pane Was a cross with a Figure crucified. She took no heed of the driving rain, An' them that would turn to look again,

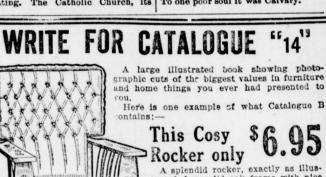

In the street.

them immediately.

there,

She took no heed of the noisy street, But knelt down there at her Saviour's feet What matter at all what the place might tentional. But the humor becomes be, irritating. The Catholic Church, its To one poor soul it was Calvary."

5

doctrines, its practices, the commo

ordinary phraseology used in describ-ing them are open to every one who can read. The number of books containing the necessary information is unlimited. But in spite of the tit But in spite of that it might be worth but in spite of that it might be worth while for some Catholic journalist to get ont a little book entitled "Don'ts for Reporters Who Write of Catholic Affairs."-Pilot.

MAILING OF CATHOLIC LITERATURE

The Catholic Truth Society of Canada have been sending for some time through the kindly offices of their members and their friends copies of Catholic newspapers weekly to the addresses of poor and neglected Catho-lic families throughout Canada, who through carlessness or poverty do not subscribe for such. They have invited the co-operation of the pristhood throughout Ontario, Eastern and Western Canada and Newfoundland. The work has attained such dimensions we find it necessary to make an appeal to all Catholics to assist in this effort. Many thousands of families in Canada are receiving Catholic papers, which after being read are unfortunately con-signed to the waste-paper basket, where-after being read are unfortunately con-signed to the waste-paper basket, where-as they could be made useful adjuncts to the work of the Church by being remailed to some of the families in question. On the other hand it is possible that some who read this letter may feel that they prefer not to the their memory and to have a trust to their memory, and to have a newspaper sent direct from the office of newspaper sent direct from the onice of publication. For these I beg to say that special arrangements have been made with the CATHOLIC RECORD, and papers for this purpose may be for-warded direct from the CATHOLIC RECORD office. In either case the Catholic Truth Seniety would be very glad to have the Society would be very glad to have the co-operation of all subscribers to Catho-lic Journals, and if any one should feel sufficiently interested, if they will kindly drop a line to the Remailing Committee, Catholic Truth Society, P. O., Box 383, Toronto, Canada, stating how many papers they can or will mail weekly, corresponding addresses will be sent to

In The Street

In the dirty street, An' she took no heed of her tattered

Rich and poor that would stand an'

she took no heed of the people

'I've seen a woman kneeling down

gown, Or the broken boots on her feet :

At a woman kneeling in prayer

For the thing that she'd spied

Projestant." If only Protestants could Projestant. If only Projestants could learn the true facts about the beginnings of their various religions, they would not for very shame talk any more about "Bloody Mary" or "those bigoted Cath-olics." The Catholics of to day do not want to show any bitterness for what they have suffered in the past, but to live on friendly terms with their Protest-ant citizens. My work in the Anglesn Church burgen on the cast cide of Church began on the east side o Ballarat, where Irish Catholics are in an overwhelming majority. From Elaine to Ballarat, from Wallace to Pootilla, I to paintrat, from waitage to rooting, it knew almost every Protestant family and they always spoke in the highest terms of the good will and kindness of their Catholic neighbors. I remember an exciting State election there, when ore of the Huguenots," and then brand-ing the Catholic Church as persecuting an exciting state election there, when the seat was contested by a Methodist and a Catholic and the Methodist, won essily. My late father often said that he had always been treated with the greatest respect by Catholics. In the south of Ireland, where Catho-lice greatest, outputs Parts anter anter the south of Ireland, where Catho-

In the south of Ireland, where Catho-lics greatly outnumber Protes ants, in some parts by 100 to I, a Protestant Mayor is quite common; and in the morth, where Protestants are in the majority, Catholics and Protestants live side by side on the best of terms until the 12th of July comes when Orange preachers by their wild and whirling talk, so work upon the feeling of their hearers that they come out shouting "to

The record of Protestantism is the record of persecution. Luther advocat-ed persecution. Calvin burnt Servetus, John Kuox taught: "The people are with all her priests." Cranmer, Ridley and Latimer revelled in blood-shedding. The Protestant Archbishop Usher

note butchered thousands of priests and

OF THE LATE FATHER ALEXAN.

The missionary heart of the late Rev.

stablishment in this country of a enthusiastic approval, taking advantage of every occasion to impress his own sentiments upon all whom he could now in the Orient, and for this reason least day of the Forty Hours." There is a humorous side to it, for men are funniest when their wit is unin

Alexander Doyle was dominated by a great idea, the conversion of America to the true faith of Jesus Christ.

country's sake, but, and above all, be-cause she is the world-wide Church of reach. In one of the most recent numbers of bill. And this in the face of malifolus and even sanguinary threats loud enough and blatant enough, to intimidate many as man of stout heart. But Mr. Church-hill knew his men. He was not deterred from his purpose and the heavens did not fall ! In like manner, I venture the predic-tion that Sir Edward Carson's exhorta-

Port Huron to protect young and innocent girls from being dragged into infamy by white slavers, comes none too soon. Immigration officers at that point have reported an appalling increase in this infernal traffic from Canada within the past few years, and it is high time organized effort was made to put an end to it. The subject has been much discussed of late years, but while philanthropic societies have been listening to declamations, and "resoluting" valiantly against it the traffic has gone on unchecked. Now Washington has set an able and experienced official, in the person of Major-General Wagner, to put a check upon it. In this laudable campaign he will have the support of every good citizen on either side of the line.

THE ACTION of the United States Government in appointing a special officer at

As INDICATED by press reports of the Methodist Missionary conference at Brantford, the good people are still in the throes of anxiety as to their prospects. One of the cries which we hear from them most frequently is the " success" of their proselytizing efforts among foreign Catholics in Canada. They have plenty of money for unsavory work of that kind, but when they come to take an inventory, the cry of despair which has just emanated from Brantford becomes the predominant note. Their receipts for missions last year fell $26,000 short of their expenditures, and they find themselves in the position of being "unable to furnish a single additional man " for the year to come. One delegate, a former editor of the Christian Guardian, was particularly pessimistic, and, notwithstanding indignant protests, his resolution to retrench carried. Notwithstanding the progress tells of the time when practically every Irish M. P. at Westminster, when addressing the House would begin his speech "Mr. Speaker, when I was in jail-"

Let us, for one moment, contrast the conduct of Parnell and his followers of that day, with that of Sir Edward Car-son and his friends of to day. It is true that Parnell resisted laws which were actually on the statute books, but he resisted them in the name of the he resisted them in the hade of the vast mass of the Irish people. And why? Need I ask why? Not in fear of a pending evolution in government, not in affected misgiving or alarm that their condition would be worse under prospective legislation-that could not prospective legislation—that could hot well be—but in face of very real suffer-ing, starvation and sorrow. Not a mere handful of people, bear in mind, sub-jected to the coercive legislation of a great majority, but a great majority endeavouring to eke out a bare existence

-and not even succeeding in this - at the behest of a mere handful. The Chronicle mentions "British Fair Play." Somewhere I have heard that expression before. If the British people had exercised their much vaunted sense of fair play to Ireland in those days, there would not rankle in the breasts of true Irishmen, that irradicable con-tempt for the British governments under which Ireland suffered.

under which Ireland suffered. But Sir Edward Carson and his co-horts, now that Home Rule seems to be in sight, advises the people of Ulster to resist. Resist what? If his words, and the language of that solemn covenant to be signed next Saturday, mean anything, they mean that the Home Rule Bill, once it becomes law, will be esisted even to the extent of armed rebellion. True, the people are not ex-horted to revoit against the law, but against prospective law — a law, sout for and welcomed by seven-eighths of the people, though detested by the one-eighth of whom Sir Edward Carson is the recognized leader. It is rather unfortunate for the force of his argument, that the Chronicle man and development of Canada, Methodism certainly (if we may judge from its own utterances) is going backward. Its financial position, not improved with the liberalizition is theology. Both Oatholic, but, though a Catholic all his life and a regular attendant at the church, he was ever tolerant in his manner." Here we have the quiet assumption that Catholics, as a rule, are intelement and that it Catholic, but, though a Cat and quartered.

assumption that Catholics, as a Full, and intolerant, and that it is an exception to the general rule to find one who is not intolerant. This is the ordinary Frotestant notion. How many times have I heard the re-mark : "If they (the Catholics) get the How many times into interval to the part of the same as they used to be, and perse-cute us Protestants." And then some reference is made about "Bloody Mary," or "The horrors of the Spanish Inquisi-tion," or, perhaps, "The Massacre of St. Bartholomew" is given as a proof that "Rev. Mr. Smith and his nice young curate and Miss Jones, who sings in the choir, and our family would all be wiped out." It is very curious that Protest-ants sh-uld be under this strange delu-sion when, as a matter of fact, history shows that the boot is on the other foot. The plain truth is that the Catholic Church never has claimed—and never

TERED BY HISTORY

W. J. Geer, A. M .- until recently Anglican Cur

in All Saints, Woollhahra

In the Sydney morning papers

Telegraph wrote :

The plain truth is that the Catholic Church never has claimed—and never will claim—the right to compel people by force to become Catholics. Her only methods are those of persuasion, instrucmethods are those of persuasion, instruc-tion and example. It is true that a few Catholic sovereigns have allowed per-secutions, as did Queen Mary of Eng-land, or have ever been persecutors, as was Louis XIV. of France in his measures against the Huguenots—likewise some Spanish Kings—for the Spanish Inquisition was the creation of the government, and dealt in most cases with political offenders. It was not the creation of the Church to deal with heretics. Indeed, the Popes tried to induce the inquisitors to mitigate the extreme penalties.

THE PAST, VIEWED FROM OUR AGE

THE PAST, VIEWED FROM OUR AGE We live in an age of toleration, and it is hard for us to understand the fierce persecutions of days gone by. Cato, when at the age of eighty-six he was accused of certain offences of his past life, he said : "It is difficult to render an account of one's conduct to men belonging to an age different from men belonging to an age different from that in which one has lived." So, both barbarous penalties. All the Catholic Bishops save one were deprived of their The Catholic Church is the Univer-sal Church, and it must not be identified anywhere in the world with any one sees, and took refuge on the contin-ent, and every Catholic priest who was caught was tortured, drawn, hanged nationality to the exclusion of others so as to make it appear that it is a national church. This is particularly HOW IRISH CATHOLICS WERE TORTURED The story of the sufferings of Irish the case with the nations which have not yet been converted to Christianity. Catholics is well known. English Pro-testants for more than two hundred years starved, robbed and slaughtered They know little beyond what they see in their own environment. They have not that outlook over the world that helpless Irish Catholics. It is estimated that two millions of the Irish died for will furnish them with a broad view of affairs, and, therefore, Christianity must their Faith. Cromwell butchered siz hundred thousand men, women and children, and sold twenty thousand as come to them tinged not with any nationality, lest perchance they may think that the Catholic Church is slaves to the planters of the West Indies. The sole crime of the Irish was their allegiance to the old Faith, and French, or German, or of any other dis-French, or German, or of any other uns-tinctive nationality. If, perchance, it must come presented by some special type of priest, the type must either be varied, or for the time being be the type that they love the best. the history of the world has no parallel for such savage and such long con-tinued persecutions. The sufferings of the early Christians under Nero were not so terrible as the sufferings of the AMERICA FAVORED IN THE EAST Irish Catholic Bishops, priest and people America is one of the favoured nations

inder Protestant rule. AND IN SCOTLAND

there should be Americans to bear the banners of Christianity. This reason alone should create the American Ronald Stewart, a Scotchman, has written of "the long-drawn-out agony" of Scotch Catholics. He says: "The endurance of the survivors of the old foreign Missionary Seminary. There is very great need in China and else-where in the East to persuade the Catholic Church of Scotland through those slow-dragging ages of slavery and where in the East to persuade the people that everything American is not Protestant; that the Catholic Church flourishes in the United States, beyond persecution can never be sufficiently honored. And what can be said of the heroism of the little band of priests. all other churches, and to be an Ameri-can and a Catholic at the same time is heroism of the little band of priests. To comfort and security they said good-bye for ever. Tracked by spics, hidden in rocks and hillsides, or concesled in the house of some Catholic family ex-posed, shelterless, to the rigors of the northern winters; or, again, suffering in filthy and over crowded prisons, the priests of the Scottish mission never faltered from their duty. They were deemed to witness every day some new no anomaly. Herein lies a second vital reason for the existence of a foreign seminary that will prepare Americans for the foreign field. for the foreign field. Then, again, our faith has come to us from the nations of Europe. Only to a small extent has it been an American growth and, therefore, in gratitude for what we have received from others we doomed to witness every day some new exercise of oppression and persecution on their sorely tired and impoverished hould be ready to extend the blessing of the faith of the nations who are with people, to see frequently some noble Scottish family, renowned for its fidel-ity to the ancient Faith, sink into begout it. WE NEED THE FOREIGN MISSION SPIRIT gary under the confiscations of the dom inant enemies of the Church; and they had to console the afflicted and encour

CATHOLIC CHURCH NOT NATIONAL

1 2 da astend

The Geo. H. King Co., Limited Woodstock, Ont.

t at our expense. If you $16.00 fecide to keep it, the $16.00 price to you is only - - -

The GEO. H. KING CO. LTD. WOODSTOCK, ONT.

 Gentlemen.—Please send me a King Edward Vacuum Cleaner on ten days' free trial, without obligation to me.
Name

Manufacturers of Hand, Electric, Wate Motor and Gasoline Power Vacuum Cleaners

It is one of the anomalies of the world-the more we give of our own faith the more vigorous it becomes and the more inexhaustible are its reage them to persevere, despite their misfortunes, and not to purchase esseand security as the price of apostasy." I think Cardinal Newman said : "To be deep in bistory is to cease to be a