a letter to this journal, Trustee W. C. McArthur attempts an answer to a recent editorial on Kindergartens, which appeared in The Planet, saying that he is perfeetly in accord with the salaries mow paid to Kindergarten teach-

This is a marked contrast to his position, taken at the last meeting of the Board, when he agreed with some of the trustees when they said that the expense of the Chatham Kindergartens was absurd. Surely, if it is absurd, the trustees who authorized the salaries are to blame for the absurdity.

The Planet did not criticize Mr. McArthur for paying the salaries, but it did think that he should be consistent in the matter. If he com-plains of the expense now, he should not have voted for this expense dur-ing the earlier part of the year.

THE TABLES OF STONE.

Curious Calculation From the Talmud and the Bible. Did you ever figure on the proba-ble size and immense strength of Moses, basing your calculations on the dimensions of the tables of stone, as dimensions of the tables of stone, as given by the Talmudic writers? In the Talmud (folio 38, column 8) it is said that the tables of stone upon which the commandments were written were six ells long, six ells broad and three ells thick. In the Exodus xxxii, 15, we are told that "Moses went down from the mount, and the two tables of the testimony were in his hand." "Hand," mind you, not hands, though it must be admitted that it would have taken a strong pair of hands to perform the task of carrying them, even form the task of the control of the level. Now, we will put the on the level. Now, we will put the out support, my found inside of him. Evidently attracted by their glistening white appearance, this bass had swallowed three of the as they fell into the river during our encounter with that 'lunge,' or he can of the tables a stone block nine and of the tables a stone block nine and our encounter with that 'lunge,' or he can of the tables a stone block nine and our encounter with that 'lunge,' or he can of the tables a stone block nine and our encounter with that 'lunge,' or he can of the tables a stone block nine and our encounter with that 'lunge,' or he can of the tables a stone block nine and our encounter with that 'lunge,' or he can our encounter with that 'lunge,' or he can of the tables a stone block nine are the can out one-half feet thick. If common stone weighed as much to the square foot then as it does now the ta tip the beam at about twenty-eight tons! Was Moses one of the giants of these days or has some one made a mistake in calculations or in the state-ment of supposed facts?—Exchange.

SARDINES.

The Way They Are Cooked and Prepared For Market.

Sardines are caught in nets, and after being well washed the heads are cut off and the fish are sprinkled lightly with sait. After lying for a few hours they are placed on grids in rows almost perpendicular. The frames are then placed in pens containing boiling olive oil. The oil is changed as soon as it becomes too black and dirty for continuing the cooking process.

As soon as the fish are considered sufficiently cooked, they are withdrawn from the pans of oil and the grids are placed on the tables covered with zinc, the surface of the table inclining toward a groove in the center. The oil ward a groove in the center. The oil is thus carried to a vessel prepared to receive it. Round the table stand the wamen whose business it is to pack the fish closely and uniformly in boxes.

The boxes being full, the fish are continued in the standard of the standard o

The boxes being full, the fish are covered with fresh oil and the lids are then soldiered down. Thus hermetically scaled they are placed in iron baskets and immersed in boiling water. The smaller boxes are thus boiled for half an hour and the larger ones somewhat longer, in proportion to size of box. The fish are then ready for the market.

A New Fish Story.

Mr. George E. Barnes, a well known merchant of Riverdale, says The Toronto News, tells of a remarkable experience a few days ago on the Trent River: "When we got down the Trent River about half a mile I got a terrible strike," and soon saw that I had hooked an enormous 'lunge.' The sudden jerk on the line tore out three of my front teeth and loosened one in the back part of my mouth, and it also fell out later, so I dropped my oars in the boat and caught the line with both hands. After a most fearful struggle Bob and I succeeded in getting the monster alongside the boat, and finally pulled him in. When we reached Hastings, on a store scales, he tipped the beam at 263-4 pounds. But the strangest part of my sery is yet to come. In fishing again in the afternoon Bob caught a bass that weighed 41-2 pounds, and, in the evening when this bass was being cleaned and prepared for our supper, my four teeth were found inside of him.
