P. MITCHELL, the People's Candidate. That the electors will so decide we have not the remotest of representative ability, and whose not think they will. whole course seems to be marked by a mere personal vanity to defeat a lows:dent, but those who use it seem to lose sight of the fact that Mr. Snowball virtually occupies a position less favorable, for if he expects to successfully prosecute his business, especially in such critical times as we are now passing through in the lumber trade, his presence in Great Britain is almost a necessity at the season when contracts are made, and our people know by experience that the season when our lumber exporters are expected on the other side is about the time when the Commons is in session. In prosecuting a large business we will not affront the intelligence of this County by saying

There are places where men of Mr. Snowball's capacity can acquire all the political education they re quire without doing injury to their constituencies—but that place is not the House of Commons.

Mr. Tilley at Carleton,

We quote a few extracts from the Sun's report of Mr. Tilley's Speech at Carleton on the 5th inst:-With reference to the charge that he had changed his principles. Mr.

Tilley said :-

I see it charged in that analysis, and you have no doubt heard it said, that Tilley had changed his principles, and from being a Liberal had become a Tory. Mr. Burpee put it so in his speech in the Institute a few days ago, and said that I had opposed at Johnstone was elected to the Moderapapers and echoed all over the country that Mr. Tilley supported all Liberal propositions in Saint John, and at Ottawa opposed them. ## The Intercolonial Railway.

Our Grit contemporary (the Toronto Globe) has a conveniently short memory. It fails to remember that there was any discussion as to the Intercolonial Railway except as to the route. There are plenty of other people, however, who remembered that our contemporary declared the building of the road - not on the North Shore route, but anywhere-madness, and that it would not earn enough to pay for grease for the wheels.
