ensus of opinion for to-day's First—Blue Coat, Frank Lord, Sally Preston.

Second—Autumn Girl, Pulka, Bob R Third—Student King, Tourney, Val-halla, halls.

Fourth—Stanley Fay, Moquette, Donald MsDonald.

Fifth—Glimmer, Davies' entry, Dyment entry.

Sixth—C. W. Burt, Sai Volatile, Bellwether.

Seventh—Woolwinder, County Clerk,
Spanish Prince.
Following is the London Free Press'
expert's comment:

First race—I have one that was whispered about the the track yesterday—Frank Lord is the one. Bluecoat for that place money. Serenade with this weight will show at a nice price.

Five furlongs, two-year-olds—Pulka is the one for this event—is right on edge and ready for her best effort. Kyrat can go this distance, and is the formidable contender. Bob R. and Johnny Wisshould fight for the short end of the purse.

Short course steeplechase—Valhalla should show the way to-day. Tourney is good at this distance. Student King for the small end. The Hotel Royal handicap—I am taking Moquette for the feature event of the card. She is a veritable bear in the mud and equalled the American record at one mile and a sixteenth at her last at one mine and a sixteenth at her last start. Starley Fay is the one most to be feared, as he is as fit as hands can make him. With a little weight off he would be the one best bet. John E. Mc-Millan, another from Latonia, will easily hold the balance safe.

Canadian-bred—This one looks like the basis satur. If both of these starts.

Canadian-bred—This one looks like the Davies entry. If both of them start I would take Glimmer to win. Caper Sauce for the small end is the best I can make of a bad lot.

Three-year-olds and up—This is a hard race, and should be interesting from start to finish. C. W. Burt is the one I like, if preference can be shown. Bell-wether should show improvement to-day. Cunning and Sal Volatile should be close up. Hiacko is the best take-a-chance bet, first and third.

Three-year-old turf event — Walker should win here with Henry O. if he ever did in his life. He has practically nothing to beat. Adoration for the place. Oberon for the small end. In this way I like the card.

Police Justice Kelley overruled the motion to quash, made by the defence Saturday, and then announced that, while it was unusual for an examining court to announce reasons for holding for trial, he would do so in this case because of the state of the public mind and the vast amount of talk the case had caused on both sides.

He then proceeded to give his reasons, but before he could say more than a few words Attorney Coumans, for the defence, stepped up to the court and in a low voice requested him not to give his reasons, as he did not want anything said for fear it might create prejudice against his client. The court acquiesced.
