Fifty Years Ago.

Old times are gone, old manners bland And all the mirth beside The hearty shaking of the hand
With which the heart allied
The stalwart men the women fair Which once our land did know Likewise the good old Christmas cheer
Of fifty years ago.

Gone are the greetings kind and true
When at a gathering met With us to-day remain a few Who don't forget them yet On memories tablets they are writ In love of those I greet Possessed of wit and gifted wit
Some fifty years ago.

Ah shades of those old happy days
Which once I did enjoy To-day I freely sing your praise
I loved you when a boy
My soul unknown to worldly care
My cheeks with health did glow
For all the world looked bright and fair
Some fifty years ago.

A heartful welcome then was got From all the world as well as poor
Some fifty years ago.

No pompous proud "commotry"
Was then known on our shores Most welcome, as we see to-day Are half made up of show Sincerity was holding sway
Some fifty years ago.

Our mothers robed in virtuous style To suit the soul and heart Ah me! the dress it makes me smile
Their daughters now impart
The high heel shoe, the slender waist
And cheeks with paint aglow Oh, for the style so plain and chaste
Of fifty years ago.

Our fathers, though the garb they Dressed
Was humble in its make Yet they were kind, sincere and fond And loved worth for its sake Unlike their sons, false pride did ban
No foolish airs did show For they adhered to nature's plan
Some fifty years ago.

To-day we miss the welcome cheer
When on a friend we call
No more the words "God save all here"
Are from their lips let fall
"Here's a chair, now eat your fill"
Came from the high and low All tendered with a right good will
Some fifty years ago.

Old times are gone, old scenes are now Long entombed with the past At silly fashions shrink we bow
The life we lead is fast We're in the race for riches now
We stoop to things that's low Honor courted manhood's brow
Some fifty years ago.

Wedding Bells.

HUMPHRIES-CLARKE.
At St. Thomas' Church yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Mr. Hayward Clarke of Carbonara led to the altar, Miss Eliza Humphries, only daughter of Mrs. and the late Martin Humphries of Fogo. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. A. Moulton. Mrs. William J. E. Simmonds was matron of honor, and Mr. Herbert Gosse supported the groom. The bride wore a travelling costume of navy tricot with wine color hat; and the bridesmaid a dress of navy serge with hat to match. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the home of Mr. Herbert Gosse, Plymouth Road, after which the young couple boarded the 6 o'clock train for Carbonara where they will make their future home. The presents received were numerous, among them being a handsome rocker from the staff of the Royal Stores, the bride having been employed in the dressmaking department of that firm for the past four years. The best wishes of their many friends are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Clarke for a long and pleasant life over the sea of life.—COM.

Terrible Volcanic Eruption.

Showers of rocks larger than ships were hurled from a raging volcano in Kamchatka, where a terrible and magnificent volcanic eruption occurred recently, according to Frederick McMormick, newspaper correspondent, who witnessed the eruption. In a report to the Japan Advertiser, Mr. McCormick says:

"On arriving at Hakodate, in northern Japan, I heard from a fisherman of an earthquake above Hokaido and the disappearance in the sea, September 5, of a part of the island of the Kurile group."

"The earthquake extended from Hokaido to the Aleutians and was but a prolongation of the seismic phenomena occurring in Kamchatka, where I was wrecked on the Kronotsky Peninsula. Ten days later, sixty sea miles to the south, I arrived at Semluchik, from there I saw the magnificent eruption of volcano Karninskaya."

"Above a mountain ridge which lay between we could see without the aid of glasses the expulsion of showers of rocks, many of which must have been larger than ships, as they flew through the sky in giant parabolas. Only the bowery crest of the eruption was visible to us as it played against the sky. The smoke column, tilted southward by the wind, reached upwards thousands of feet and in two days the smoke cloud extended 100 miles down the coast and out to sea."

"Then the wind shifted to the west and the ship was sprinkled with volcanic dust. There was a great roar like the sound of an artillery battle, and it was reported that the water of Kronotsky Bay had risen in temperature 5 1/2 degrees while magne-netic disturbance rendered the ship's compass unworkable. Fearing a subterranean sea wave we put out forty-five miles off the shore and September 8, recorded a violent earthquake which shook the ship.
The same was experienced at the Commandorsky Islands and Ust Kamchatka."

"There are few places where the direct and positive force of nature can be realized so intensely as in this far away land. There are about sixty volcanoes in Kamchatka, of which twenty are active; there is no historian to record their great deeds, except an astonished fisherman 1,000 or 2,000 miles away. A geographical exhibition from Sweden intends to announce next year the result of its scientific work in Kamchatka."

Xmas Presents for Men.

"Friend in Town" contributes the following to her column in the Glasgow Weekly Herald, which we are sure will interest lady readers of the Telegram at this particular season:

I suppose it is about time one started to think about Christmas presents.
I can think of presents for my friends of my own sex without much difficulty, but the trouble becomes acute when it gets to the choice of presents for the manhood of one's household. Socks and handkerchiefs which must match, walking sticks and umbrellas are, of course, the recognized channels of offering, but I did not know a lady who carefully day by day abstracted a single cigar from her husband's box until she had collected 50. Then she begged an old cigar box from a tobacco shop and proudly presented a box of 50 cigars to her husband on Christmas morning. He, going by the brand of the box, stigmatized them as rubbish with quite unmentionable adjectives, and in the end she had to confess the fraud to get him to smoke them. It's a risky thing to buy cigars for a man as it is to buy his neckties. But a box of dress-ties if the box is permanently suitable for the dressing-table, a new strip of if the old one is worn out, shaving soap, a shaving glass, a fountain pen, a Treasury note case, waistcoat buttons, a signet ring, cuff links, studs, a seal, a letter balance, or a blotting pad are

"Cupid" Arrested.

Cupid, in the form of an adult matchmaker, sought to bring a husband to Mrs. Celia Balcham, a widow, or she thought so at any rate, but when he had gone she found that her heart was robbed as well as her home. That, according to a New York correspondent, was the allegation which was made against Gabriel Washelesky, who offered his services as matchmaker to procure her a suitable husband. One evening he called at her Brooklyn home with his stepbrother, Dominick Karchinsky, as the prospective candidate for the widow's hand and heart. For several hours the widow entertained the men hospitably, but when he left the shop-for husband had not announced his intentions. The matchmaker left some time later, and, what was worse, when he had gone the widow and one of her paying guests missed some clothing.

Washelesky was afterwards arrested and charged with the theft.
