League Council Considers Mosul Question at a Secret Session

Turkey Claims No Basis of Settlement Submitted—France Will Not Agree to Elimination of Submarine—Wahabi Tribesmen Capture Medina

MOSUL DISCUSSED AT SECRET SESSION.

GENEVA, Dec. 13. The Mosul question in which Turkey and Great Britain are at odds was today the subject of a secret session of the League of Nations Council, and a statement followed that the League would persist until all efforts failed to mediate. The indications are that the Council will be forced next week to deliver its arbitral sentence, as Turkey shows no disposition to submit a basis for mediation. Tewfik Rashed Bey, the Turkish delegate to the League, was today in Paris discussing the matter with the French Cabinet.

TURKS NOT ASKED, SAYS ISMET.

ANGORA, Dec. 13. Premier Ismet, addressing the Turkish assembly today, declared that the reports that the Turks at Geneva were obstructing blocking a settlement of the Mosul dispute, necessitated him making the statement that up to the present no serious offer of mediation has been received nor any proposal brought forward offering a basis for an understanding.

WAHABIS CAPTURE MEDINA.

BOMBAY, Dec. 11. Medina the "Prophet City" of Hedjaz, fell into the hands of Wahabi tribesmen, according to despatches, today.

DUTY ON IRON AND STEEL WOULD AFFECT CANADA.

OTTAWA, Dec. 13. With the British Government taking no steps towards the imposition of the Industries Act duties, the situation of Canadian steel industries remains unchanged, whereas should such a duty be imposed as suggested therein, the effect on Canadian steel would depend upon whether Britain gave the overseas Dominion preference. Canada's steel export to the United Kingdom of iron and steel products, during the first five months of the present fiscal year, approximated 100,000 tons.

FRANCE OPPOSED TO ELIMINATION OF SUBMARINES.

PARIS, Dec. 13. France will oppose any proposition for the elimination of submarines from modern warfare, according to a declaration in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday by Minister of Marine M. Leygues, who said he regarded the submarine as a perfectly loyal war weapon and was altogether in favor of their maintenance.

OPERATIONS AGAINST RIFTS RESUMED.

RABAT, French Morocco, Dec. 13. French operations against the Rifian tribesmen, aided by improved weather conditions, were resumed during the past few days with marked success.

GREATEST HOCKEY GOAL KEEPER OF PAST DECADE WILL NEVER PLAY AGAIN.

Georges Vezina has retired from hockey, owing to ill-health, so it was definitely announced today by the management of the Montreal Canadiens Club. He has retired to his home at Chicoutimi in an effort to recuperate, and it is expected will go to his camp at St. Margaret's which is 5,000 feet above the sea-level. Manager Leo Dandurand made the following statement to the Star, paying a glowing tribute to the peerless goaler: "While it was not until today that his team mates knew Vezina was through, the management knew it last night, and the fact that the news was kept from the other players was Vezina's last act of devotion to the club he loved so well. Perhaps they will play better if they think I am coming on. When I'm not on they will soon forget about me in the excitement of the play."

"While Vezina thus left without bidding farewell to his team mates, there was a touching scene when Dr. Dube and he broke the news to me. The doctors ordered him home immediately. I had known from the first that Vezina was not the Vezina of old. He did not look well when he reported, but assured me he would improve. That too was typical of him. But he lost weight in an alarming fashion, and it was not by accident that we signed Lacroix. I saw Vezina was nearly done, and though he insisted on going through his last game with a temperature of 102 degrees, and even then gave a good account of himself, he never recovered. Perhaps his insistence on playing that game spelled his doom. He was taken to bed that night, played there for a week, and when doctors examined him, it was found he had lost 35 pounds since coming to the city. Further examination revealed that his lungs were in bad shape. Poor Georges has the battle of Christy Mathewson to fight. Vezina reported at the usual hour at the dressing room yesterday morning, and sat down in his usual corner in the outer room."

Quietly Wept.

I glanced at him as he sat there, and saw tears rolling down his cheeks. He was looking at his old pads and skates that Eddie Dufour had arranged in Georges' corner, thinking that probably Vezina would don them that night. Then he asked for one little favor—the sweater he wore in the last world series. Then he went. I doubt if hockey will ever know his like again. He has been a credit to professional sport, a great athlete, and a gentleman. Quiet to tactfulness, he let his deeds speak for him. He was discovered 18 years ago by Joe Cattarinich, when Joe was playing goals for Canadians in an exhibition game at Chicoutimi. He made good from the start, and his coolness under fire, his immovability, were known wherever hockey is played. His history in hockey is the history of the pro end of the sport since its inception. He saw eighteen years of professional hockey service, all with our club. Our dealings were always of the most harmonious nature and, personally, Vezina and I were close friends. While quiet, he was observant and a great lover of nature. Some of my happiest hours I spent shooting and fishing with him in the woods near Chicoutimi. The hockey public will undoubtedly mourn the loss of such a great player; we mourn the loss of a friend, a man. Personally, he was as lovable as he was athletic, and I cannot say more than that."

By a strange coincidence the New York Hockey Club, probably through its energetic manager, Torrey Gorman, sent out the following to-day:—New York, Dec. 4.—When "Les Canadiens" come to New York to open the local professional hockey season against the "Americans," the "Daddy" of all goal-tenders will be in the visitors' line-up, Georges Vezina, 44-year old goalie of the Montreal professionals, is the father of 17 children.

The above is a bit misleading. Vezina had 22 children, but all except two had died at a tender age.

PRESIDENT CALDER EXPRESSES HIS APPRECIATION OF VEZINA.

This is President Frank Calder's fine appreciation of Georges Vezina as a hockey player and a man: "Georges Vezina's withdrawal from active hockey under the order of his doctor comes as a grave shock to the whole family of the National Hockey League and to the hockey world at large."

He stood out, even to the last when he must have been playing under the severest handicap, as a model for all players in the position he so efficiently filled.

In his retirement the game as a whole sustains a very severe loss. Quiet, unassuming and little given to talking of himself and his own exploits, Georges Vezina was one of the most lovable characters it has been my fortune to meet in all my experience. He knew what his duties were and he did them.

I well remember his first appearance before the net for the Canadiens. That was eighteen years ago. In the old Jubilee Rink, when he replaced Joe Cattarinich as custodian for the club. Changes, many of them, have taken place in the Canadian organization since that time—only Georges Vezina remained unchanged.

Unequaled Record.

"His record for length of service, so far as I know, has never been approached, much less equalled. He is a dates in senior hockey, any of the goal keepers or players in any other position of to-day, by many years, and to all appearances had several years ahead of him. That he remained in the game so long is the striking exemplification of the charm which hockey has for its devotees."

"Of late years Vezina need not have played professional hockey for what there was in it for him, for he was well established in Chicoutimi, his native place. Nevertheless, year after year, he was one of the first to report for duty.

"The whole hockey world will, I am sure, sympathize with him in his enforced retirement. In the game, he gave all he had, and better than that, I believe, cannot be said of any man."

ROCKY KANSAS CHAMPION.

BUFFALO, Dec. 8.—The veteran Rocky Kansas "Rocco Torze," (132 lbs.), of Buffalo, to-day is the new lightweight champion of the world. He won the judges' decision in a thrilling fifteen round bout with Jimmy Goodrich (134 lbs.), also of Buffalo, last night, while nearly 12,000 spectators alternately cheered and gasped their admiration of the stamina and skill of the man whom many regarded as a "has been."

Kansas has had a hard hill to climb in his quest for championship honors. Three times he met the great Benny Leonard and tried to wrest the championship from him and three times he failed. When Leonard retired and through a series of elimination contests, Goodrich was chosen in his place, the rugged Kansas again saw victory of winning the coveted title.

He made good last night. Spectators witnessed his youthful attack in the first half of the battle with a feeling that he could not keep it up, that he must weaken and falter. But Kansas refused to weaken. Although the young stalwart Goodrich opened up a furious and desperate attack in the closing rounds, the challenger refused to take the defensive. Repeatedly he slid his wicked lefts through Goodrich's defence to open up big cuts about the eyes.

Blinded by blood and furious as he saw his title slipping from his grasp, Goodrich battled furiously at the body of the veteran challenger, Kansas, fought back to the end.

The judges, who deliberated the new round by round rule of the State Boxing Commission in effect, ruled that the challenger had won the most rounds. Rocky Kansas conceded two pounds to Goodrich. In addition the challenger was three inches smaller in stature and five years older. He is now 30 years of age. These handicaps meant little to the rugged veteran, however, and his fighting heart and rugged strength carried him to victory.

WRESTLING.

Lewis Bests Munn. Denver, Col., Dec. 9.—Ed. "Strangler" Lewis, claimant to the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, defeated Wayne "Big" Munn here last night. Lewis took the first fall, Munn the second after a lively session, during which he tossed Lewis out of the ring. Lewis took the third and final fall after applying a series of crushing headlocks.

Joe Stetcher Wins Out.

Cleveland, Dec. 9.—Joe Stetcher, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, last night defeated Gus Nelson, of Sweden, in a straight fall.
