

TWO

MORRISON WING OF U. F. O. GAINS FARMERS' SUN

Pro-Drury Supporters Lose in Fight To Elect Directorate.

POLICIES ATTACKED

Considerable Bitterness Manifested At Annual Meeting of Shareholders.

TORONTO, Sept. 5.—The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Farmers' Sun, the organ of the U. F. O. party, today developed into a battle for control of the paper between the J. J. Morrison wing of the party and the pro-Drury forces, and resulted in a complete victory for the Morrison following.

The Morrison anti-broadening directorate was re-elected en bloc by a vote of 7 to 1, the single cabinet minister who was elected to office going down to defeat by a similar margin. Attacks on the policy of isolation for the U. F. O. as supported by the present management of the Sun, were without avail. The controversy was marked by considerable bitterness.

Following a preliminary skirmish over the question of admitting proxies, which was won by the Morrison force, who possessed 550 proxies to their opponents 80, a discussion arose on the question of the recent employment of a new editor, J. C. Ross, former editor of the Sun, started the pot boiling by declaring that the directorate had gone over his head to appoint a Legislature reporter antagonistic to the government, and had given instructions that the reports of the proceedings of the house were to be printed without editing.

Gordon Waldron, K.C., solicitor of the U. F. O., aroused the ire of the "broadening-out" faction by declaring that the directorate had fallen back on the use of proxies to combat an intrigue which aimed at securing control of the paper.

Col. Fraser said J. C. Ross had juggled the balance sheet for January, 31, 1922. He had a signed statement from the auditors to prove it, he said.

Gordon Waldron: "Then the manager submitted a false statement."

President J. Z. Fraser, in his official address, made bitter comment on the series of letters issued by the committee, which had tried to oust the present management. W. C. Good, M. P., one of the directors, took strong exception to this part of the president's address, and F. G. Sandy, M. L. A., remarked that if that "kind of feeling was going to be created the end of the U. F. O. movement is not far away."

The portion of the president's address which aroused Mr. Sandy read as follows:

"Farmers cannot be stampeded by disgruntled members or dismissed inefficient employees, but for downright treachery and ingratitude nothing has equalled the latter attack. The circular of August 18 teems with untruths, but the crowning act of infamy was the unsigned circular letter sent out on Aug. 29. In all classes of society, as well as in newspaperdom, the most despised man is the anonymous letter-writer, the sneak who has no courage to come out boldly, but strikes from ambush."

ESTABLISH COURT FOR CITY CHILDREN

Continued From Page One.

some, and mentioned the fact that there is no opposition to Mr. Graydon as judge. He regretted that the special committee of the city council had not conferred with the Children's Aid Society, although he understood that such was the original intention. He counseled such a consultation before final action was taken.

"We know nothing about it until we saw the paper tonight," said J. K. McDermid. "The aldermen think they can settle this thing without consultation with people who have given several years of study to it."

He asserted that the city council was anxious to have a juvenile court for London and Middlesex, with one probation officer for both districts.

Want Separate Building.

"One of the main reasons why we want the court is to proclaim the juvenile court act," continued Mr. McDermid. "The plan as outlined in this evening's Advertiser means a separate building."

He lauded this feature as overcoming the contaminating element when children are haled into police court as at present, and cited instances. Mayor Wilson questioned these instances, mentioning that in his opinion those who criticize the system have not investigated it personally.

As a comeback Mr. McDermid stated that he had investigated the present situation and knew whereof he spoke. He further alleged that delinquent children had been taken from their homes in London by constables in uniform, which action he condemned, although he wished it understood that it was not the officer's fault. He urged that the court be held at different hours than those of police court.

"This is the first time I have heard of the Children's Aid Society in connection with the juvenile court," said Alderman H. J. Childs.

"I did not know until tonight that you were head of the committee," replied Mr. McDermid.

"A separate building seemed most in the mind of the Kiwanis," explained Alderman Childs, "and Magistrate Graydon was of the opinion that it could be handled. It is not necessary to declare the juvenile delinquent act."

Lads Kiwanis Club.

"The Kiwanis Club is doing a splendid work," stated Mr. McDermid, "but the Children's Aid Society has been officially connected with that work for 25 years. Can't we get the act proclaimed and the court established?"

"That would delay action," cautioned Mayor Wilson.

"I am a Kiwanian myself," said Mr. Barbour, "but what the Children's Aid Society does is different. It has a status in Ontario and must do certain things. It handles cases where the Kiwanis Club cannot act."

Why can't we go into a deeply and thoroughly plan a credit to the city of London?"

"I think we are looking the stable after the horse is gone," said the mayor. "Juvenile courts are not stopping juvenile delinquency. When the court was discussed some time ago, names were suggested such as the Toronto court, and the mayor agreed that it would be best to support the name of Magistrate Graydon. He possesses not only a knowledge of the law, but the personality and sympathy for the children, and I believe any attempt to hold up a court at the present time is opposition to Mr. Graydon as juvenile court judge."

Probation Officers.

The mayor pointed out that automatically on establishment of a juvenile court the Children's Aid Society and Soldiers' Aid Commission representatives automatically become probation officers.

"This appears to have been a deliberate attempt to ignore the Children's Aid Society," interrupted Ald. H. B. Ashplant.

"I rise to point of order," came back Ald. Childs. "You can't put that down me."

"I believe you," replied Ald. Ashplant.

"Oh, you don't believe me," said Ald. Childs, "or you wouldn't say that."

On vote of the council being taken it was decided to establish a juvenile court in London at once, with the Children's Aid Society in consultation.

Ald. Holmes then moved that City Engineer H. A. Brazier be instructed to conduct an early survey of sanitary and storm sewers of London.

"That was done four months ago," declared Ald. Drake.

Ald. Holmes also moved that an early survey of water mains be made in London. He alleged that some water mains in the city have no pressure, and that serious consequences may ensue in case of a big fire.

The motion carried, and with it was incorporated a recommendation that No. 1 committee investigate the possibility of providing the fire department with a motor pump to raise water pressure.

DURING THE MEETING of the city council Tuesday night, a request was presented by a Chinese citizen for permission to move his laundry to another district of London.

"We turned that fellow down before, didn't we?" asked Ald. L. S. Holmes.

"No, this is a different one," explained Mayor Wilson. "The fellow we turned down was One Lung. This fellow's name is Yung Lung. The request was granted, subject to the advice of Building Inspector A. M. Piper."

GORDON BUTLER of Hamilton, the new assistant physical director of the London Y. M. C. A., took over his duties Wednesday morning.

SQUIRE STRIKES STRANGE CASE

Dominion Authorities Lay Information Against Dorchester Men.

Clover Seed Alleged to Have Contained Noxious Weed.

During the many years that he has presided in the Middlesex county police court, Squire W. H. Chittick has never encountered such a case as the one Wednesday morning, which involved as complainants the federal authorities at Ottawa, and as defendants, W. H. Shiels and Clarence Harris of Dorchester.

Both men, the former a storekeeper in Dorchester and the latter an agent for a local seed firm, were charged with having for sale, contrary to section 6 of the seed control act, a federal statute, clover seed containing noxious weeds in excess of the stipulated proportion per ounce and lacking the required label designating the same.

The defendants, after a frank explanation of the manner in which they obtained the seed were assessed merely the costs of the proceedings, while the bench and the crown representative united in the opinion that the real culprit was the firm from whom the commodity was purchased. In fact, the crown expressed surprise that the statute was so drastic in its wording, while the bench explained that in all his experience in district courts he had never encountered a parallel case.

The statutes so provide, however, that when the defendant furnishes the data of the purchase and the name of the person from whom he obtained the goods the costs of the proceedings alone will be assessed. This was done.

Shiels stated that he purchased the clover from Harris, believing it to be No. 1 quality. Harris declared that he secured the seed under similar circumstances from Young and Ferguson, seed merchants.

The crown stated that the firm in question had advanced the information that once they had discovered that the seed failed to measure up to requirements they had withdrawn the same from their sale list.

In the meanwhile the local authorities will acquit the Ottawa department of the facts of the case to date and await further action.

CIVIC SWIMMING "HOLES" REMAIN OPEN TO BATHERS

Dressing Houses Closed and Children Risk Police Interference if They Undress in Open.

While one of the city's supervised swimming "holes" on the south branch of the Thames river was closed for the season Tuesday night, members of the playgrounds committee explain that the remainder of the pools will remain open indefinitely.

In this particular instance the supervisor, a school teacher, was compelled to relinquish his duties as the schools reopened.

In any event, as E. V. Buchanan, director, points out the attendance during September will be slim and gradually lessen as the month progresses. As far as the members of the committee are concerned, he states, there will be no objection registered by them if the children frequent the pools after they are formally closed, although the bathers will have to assume all risk of interference by the police if they choose to undress on the banks. The dressing sheds will be closed.

RECIPROCATING the action of the directors of the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, who have invited Mayor Wilson and members of the London City Council to attend their fair, directors of the Western Fair Association will invite the Toronto mayor and council to visit their fair here next week. Following the request made to do so by the London aldermen.

KILLS SELF AS HUSBAND DIES.

Chamonix, France, Sept. 6.—Mme. Marcel Sembat committed suicide here today following the sudden death yesterday of her husband, the millionaire Socialist deputy and former minister of

NEWS BRIEFS

INGERSOLL.—Since Saturday more than $1,100 has been paid into the local police court in fines and costs.

CONSTANTINOPLE.—A Turkish cavalry division met disaster near Bilejik-Brusa front. Caught between two Greek forces it was totally wiped out.

KITCHENER.—More than 100 delegates are in attendance at the annual convention of the Young People's League, of the Lutheran Church, which opened here Tuesday at St. Matthews' Church.

INGERSOLL.—Ernest Mitchell, the 13-year-old son of George Mitchell, King street east, suffered a broken wrist when he attempted to crank the engine in one of the large trucks of the Wood Milling Company.

CHATHAM.—Chicken thieves, operating extensively in Dover and Chatham Townships, have stolen in the neighborhood of over 500 chickens. A special detail of county police have taken the field to bring the guilty parties to justice.

SARNIA.—Week-end holiday traffic closing this morning set a new record for the St. Clair River ferry service at this point, a total number of 2,863 cars being handled by the Northern Navigation Company and Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Company.

WOODSTOCK.—At the session of the division court here today Judge Wallace adjourned the appeals of R. E. Warren, late proprietor of a line of buses between Woodstock and Ingersoll in opposition to the street railway, until the sitting of the next court.

GALT.—The schools reopened today with a large attendance, and according to the St. Clair River ferry service at this point, a total number of 2,863 cars being handled by the Northern Navigation Company and Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Company.

WOODSTOCK.—At the session of the division court here today Judge Wallace adjourned the appeals of R. E. Warren, late proprietor of a line of buses between Woodstock and Ingersoll in opposition to the street railway, until the sitting of the next court.

GALT.—The schools reopened today with a large attendance, and according to the St. Clair River ferry service at this point, a total number of 2,863 cars being handled by the Northern Navigation Company and Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Company.

WOODSTOCK.—At the session of the division court here today Judge Wallace adjourned the appeals of R. E. Warren, late proprietor of a line of buses between Woodstock and Ingersoll in opposition to the street railway, until the sitting of the next court.

GALT.—The schools reopened today with a large attendance, and according to the St. Clair River ferry service at this point, a total number of 2,863 cars being handled by the Northern Navigation Company and Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Company.

WOODSTOCK.—At the session of the division court here today Judge Wallace adjourned the appeals of R. E. Warren, late proprietor of a line of buses between Woodstock and Ingersoll in opposition to the street railway, until the sitting of the next court.

GALT.—The schools reopened today with a large attendance, and according to the St. Clair River ferry service at this point, a total number of 2,863 cars being handled by the Northern Navigation Company and Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Company.

WOODSTOCK.—At the session of the division court here today Judge Wallace adjourned the appeals of R. E. Warren, late proprietor of a line of buses between Woodstock and Ingersoll in opposition to the street railway, until the sitting of the next court.

GALT.—The schools reopened today with a large attendance, and according to the St. Clair River ferry service at this point, a total number of 2,863 cars being handled by the Northern Navigation Company and Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Company.

WOODSTOCK.—At the session of the division court here today Judge Wallace adjourned the appeals of R. E. Warren, late proprietor of a line of buses between Woodstock and Ingersoll in opposition to the street railway, until the sitting of the next court.

GALT.—The schools reopened today with a large attendance, and according to the St. Clair River ferry service at this point, a total number of 2,863 cars being handled by the Northern Navigation Company and Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Company.

WOODSTOCK.—At the session of the division court here today Judge Wallace adjourned the appeals of R. E. Warren, late proprietor of a line of buses between Woodstock and Ingersoll in opposition to the street railway, until the sitting of the next court.

GALT.—The schools reopened today with a large attendance, and according to the St. Clair River ferry service at this point, a total number of 2,863 cars being handled by the Northern Navigation Company and Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Company.

WOODSTOCK.—At the session of the division court here today Judge Wallace adjourned the appeals of R. E. Warren, late proprietor of a line of buses between Woodstock and Ingersoll in opposition to the street railway, until the sitting of the next court.

GALT.—The schools reopened today with a large attendance, and according to the St. Clair River ferry service at this point, a total number of 2,863 cars being handled by the Northern Navigation Company and Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Company.

WOODSTOCK.—At the session of the division court here today Judge Wallace adjourned the appeals of R. E. Warren, late proprietor of a line of buses between Woodstock and Ingersoll in opposition to the street railway, until the sitting of the next court.

GALT.—The schools reopened today with a large attendance, and according to the St. Clair River ferry service at this point, a total number of 2,863 cars being handled by the Northern Navigation Company and Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Company.

WOODSTOCK.—At the session of the division court here today Judge Wallace adjourned the appeals of R. E. Warren, late proprietor of a line of buses between Woodstock and Ingersoll in opposition to the street railway, until the sitting of the next court.

GALT.—The schools reopened today with a large attendance, and according to the St. Clair River ferry service at this point, a total number of 2,863 cars being handled by the Northern Navigation Company and Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Company.

WOODSTOCK.—At the session of the division court here today Judge Wallace adjourned the appeals of R. E. Warren, late proprietor of a line of buses between Woodstock and Ingersoll in opposition to the street railway, until the sitting of the next court.

GALT.—The schools reopened today with a large attendance, and according to the St. Clair River ferry service at this point, a total number of 2,863 cars being handled by the Northern Navigation Company and Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Company.

WOODSTOCK.—At the session of the division court here today Judge Wallace adjourned the appeals of R. E. Warren, late proprietor of a line of buses between Woodstock and Ingersoll in opposition to the street railway, until the sitting of the next court.

GALT.—The schools reopened today with a large attendance, and according to the St. Clair River ferry service at this point, a total number of 2,863 cars being handled by the Northern Navigation Company and Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Company.

WOODSTOCK.—At the session of the division court here today Judge Wallace adjourned the appeals of R. E. Warren, late proprietor of a line of buses between Woodstock and Ingersoll in opposition to the street railway, until the sitting of the next court.

GALT.—The schools reopened today with a large attendance, and according to the St. Clair River ferry service at this point, a total number of 2,863 cars being handled by the Northern Navigation Company and Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Company.

WOODSTOCK.—At the session of the division court here today Judge Wallace adjourned the appeals of R. E. Warren, late proprietor of a line of buses between Woodstock and Ingersoll in opposition to the street railway, until the sitting of the next court.

GALT.—The schools reopened today with a large attendance, and according to the St. Clair River ferry service at this point, a total number of 2,863 cars being handled by the Northern Navigation Company and Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Company.

WOODSTOCK.—At the session of the division court here today Judge Wallace adjourned the appeals of R. E. Warren, late proprietor of a line of buses between Woodstock and Ingersoll in opposition to the street railway, until the sitting of the next court.

GALT.—The schools reopened today with a large attendance, and according to the St. Clair River ferry service at this point, a total number of 2,863 cars being handled by the Northern Navigation Company and Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Company.

WELCOMES HURON COLLEGE ALUMNI

Principal Waller Outlines Wonderful Future of Institution in Address to Graduates.

The continuation of the annual meeting of the Huron College Alumni is in progress Wednesday. Rev. R. Herbert of Preston, who occupied the chair, gave a brief outline of the business of the meeting.

Rev. C. C. Waller, M.A., D.D., principal of the college, welcomed the delegates and members to the meeting. The speaker referred to the fact that many of the Alumni had made wonderful progress in the past few years, which had an important bearing on the history of the college.

A very interesting paper was then given by Rev. Professor Cosgrave, M.A., the principal speaker, on "The Trend of Religious Thought in England."

In the course of his lecture, the speaker stated that in spite of the efforts of all of the learned scientists, in past ages, to discredit many of the fundamentals of religion, the pendulum seems to have swung to the opposite extreme, and today, science and religion are co-operating in their efforts to explain the origin of the universe and the spiritual life possibilities.

The program for the afternoon includes a paper by the Rev. Canon Sage, D.D., and a paper by the Rev. Professor Anderson, B.D., on "Democracy, Ancient and Modern."

After supper, service will be held in the college chapel, and an address will be given by Rev. Mr. Abhyankar of Bombay, India, "The Story of My Conversion."

Thursday morning the election of officers and election of two college graduates to the council will be held.

GRANT RADIALS HARBOR FRONT

Continued From Page 1.

Maxwell, Risk, Johnston and Beamish—S.

The agreement will have to be ratified by the Ontario legislature before it comes effective.

It provides for a fifty-year lease by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission of a six track right-of-way over property in the jurisdiction of the board of harbor commissioners of Toronto at a nominal price of one dollar a year, the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission to have control over the radial railways entering Toronto on the harbor lands.

Give Strong Opposition.

The agreement in question was strongly opposed by the Toronto Transportation Commission, which contended that it practically handed over to the provincial hydro-electric commission the right to run electric cars within the city limits to the detriment of the city's interests, as represented by the transportation commission—in short, that the provincial body could run cars and collect fares independently of the transportation commission in the latter's territory.

The Toronto board of trade and board of harbor commissioners also opposed the agreement.

They claimed that, while the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission as at present constituted, with Sir Adam Beck at its head, would not likely do anything detrimental to the interests of the city, the personnel of the hydro commission might in time be changed in such a way that it would not work in harmony with the interests of Toronto.

These two boards opposed the idea of handing over to an outside body the streets of Toronto and land on the waterfront owned by the city.

The agreement which was adopted by the Toronto City Council this morning affected directly the proposed radials from western and southwestern Ontario.

It has been freely stated by those opposed to the agreement that the legality of the pact will be tested in the courts.

5-YEAR-OLD LADDIE YOUNGEST GOLFER

Continued From Page One.

give the royal game all its due. Of course everybody is predicting for him a great future with such a fine early start, and he hasn't any grave doubts on the subject himself.

Destined To Be Golfer.

The big idea of making James Hubert a star golfer originated when the red-headed little man was still very much of an infant in arms. Daddy noticed how he lunged and drove with his strong little arms, and he proudly called attention to the fact there was a born golfer if only ever lived. Factious friends might be inclined to predict instead a pugilistic career. Mr. J. D. Grant stuck to the golfing theory, and it looked like a conspiracy of Providence when the discovery was made of the juvenile set of clubs in the Tartan bag when son was just two and a half years old.

Ever since then the small laddie, with the dignity and pride of a chieftain of his clan, has been growing up with the science of golf, though it is only during the past year that he has been giving it his five years' old serious attention.

The Amateur photographer caught him a few days ago on the greens at the Hunt Club in a characteristic pose as he was about to make what he announced to be his last "bat" of the afternoon. Other experts present called it a bit of real putting.

TO TEST RIGHT TO MAKE WINE

Continued From Page One.

There had been no infringement of the law. Police Magistrate Graydon viewed the situation as the defense presented it, and accordingly dismissed the case.

Crown officials state that they have been in receipt of a strong communication from the department of inland revenue at Ottawa, setting forth the declaration that there must be no misunderstanding on the part of the general public as to the granting of permits for this purpose. In view of this the appeal has been entered, and much information is expected to be revealed at the next session.

STATES BRITISH TRADE NOT GOOD

Continued From Page 1.

understand was that every watering place, such as Torquay and Exmouth, was filled with visitors of the middle class and others who seemed to have money, despite the unemployment. At London, conditions are about the same, as there are always a lot of people unemployed on the streets there.

Solicit Subscriptions.

"These people solicit subscriptions in a quiet way. Business conditions in England are quiet, and the storekeepers are complaining. Food and clothing if anything are cheaper than they are in Canada today."

Asked regarding the weather conditions during his trip Mr. Heaman said: "They were not very good. It was cold, and we had considerable rain, but the crops were very good."

"We also visited France and Belgium, but we did not see as many out of work in France as in England. All the hotels were filled with visitors wherever we went. It was the same in Belgium. Brussels seemed busy and the country was repairing the damage wrought by the war. I visited a great many of the battlefields, which were being rebuilt in many cases, while some were not going ahead as fast as the others."

"Will things pick up in England?" Mr. Heaman was asked.

"Everyone is anticipating that things will be better," he stated. "The demand for coal has made better business. One thing about the unemployment is the number of Socialists produced. At Hyde Park on Sunday you can find a dozen different people preaching different religions. Great Britain is the only nation in the world that will allow Socialists to parade the streets and fly the red flag.

"I heard them at Hyde Park denouncing the King and government. The police allow it so long as they do not fight. At Trafalgar Square it is the same, the Socialists calling Lloyd George awful names."

"The unemployment has not produced any marked increase in crime in England," concluded Mr. Heaman. "There is a slight increase due to unemployment. I enjoyed my trip greatly, and visited my native village in Devonshire during my holiday."

PROTESTS GUILT OF CAR THEFT IN POLICE COURT

Sidney Middleton Acknowledges Merely Hiring Stolen Property.—Gets One Year.

When Sidney Middleton was brought into police court this morning to receive sentence for the theft of a car, he protested that he had not pleaded guilty to the charge of theft, but had only acknowledged he was in possession of stolen property. The auto was the property of Harry Marshall of London.

"I said that I hired the car from a man whom I did not know in St. Thomas, and that he told me to take it to the Dominion Car Sales, on the Market Square in London. I did not plead guilty to theft," protested Middleton.

"What you say is not true," Magistrate Graydon stated. "You pleaded guilty and the story that was given released the other man who was held with you, as it was brought out that he was only a passenger. He missed the train for London at St. Thomas, and an officer saw him carrying a London license, and suggested that he get you to give him a lift. I don't think what you have said has helped you. However, it will not make the sentence more severe. One year in the common jail."

"I want a remand," continued Middleton.

"But you have been convicted," the court reminded him.

"I sent for witnesses and for a lawyer, but they were never notified," the prisoner retorted as he was led away to the cells.

TO TEST RIGHT TO MAKE WINE

Continued From Page One.

There had been no infringement of the law. Police Magistrate Graydon viewed the situation as the defense presented it, and accordingly dismissed the case.

Crown officials state that they have been in receipt of a strong communication from the department of inland revenue at Ottawa, setting forth the declaration that there must be no misunderstanding on the part of the general public as to the granting of permits for this purpose. In view of this the appeal has been entered, and much information is expected to be revealed at the next session.

STATES BRITISH TRADE NOT GOOD

Continued From Page 1.

understand was that every watering place, such as Torquay and Exmouth, was filled with visitors of the middle class and others who seemed to have money, despite the unemployment. At London, conditions are about the same, as there are always a lot of people unemployed on the streets there.

Solicit Subscriptions.

"These people solicit subscriptions in a quiet way. Business conditions in England are quiet, and the storekeepers are complaining. Food and clothing if anything are cheaper than they are in Canada today."

Asked regarding the weather conditions during his trip Mr. Heaman said: "They were not very good. It was cold, and we had considerable rain, but the crops were very good."

"We also visited France and Belgium, but we did not see as many out of work in France as in England. All the hotels were filled with visitors wherever we went. It was the same in Belgium. Brussels seemed busy and the country was repairing the damage wrought by the war. I visited a great many of the battlefields, which were being rebuilt in many cases, while some were not going ahead as fast as the others."

"Will things pick up in England?" Mr. Heaman was asked.

"Everyone is anticipating that things will be better," he stated. "The demand for coal has made better business. One thing about the unemployment is the number of Socialists produced. At Hyde Park on Sunday you can find a dozen different people preaching different religions. Great Britain is the only nation in the world that will allow Socialists to parade the streets and fly the red flag.

"I heard them at Hyde Park denouncing the King and government. The police allow it so long as they do not fight. At Trafalgar Square it is the same, the Socialists calling Lloyd George awful names."

"The unemployment has not produced any marked increase in crime in England," concluded Mr. Heaman. "There is a slight increase due to unemployment. I enjoyed my trip greatly, and visited my native village in Devonshire during my holiday."

PROTESTS GUILT OF CAR THEFT IN POLICE COURT

Sidney Middleton Acknowledges Merely Hiring Stolen Property.—Gets One Year.

When Sidney Middleton was brought into police court this morning to receive sentence for the theft of a car, he protested that he had not pleaded guilty to the charge of theft, but had only acknowledged he was in possession of stolen property. The auto was the property of Harry Marshall of London.

"