SALAD FOR CHRISTMAS DINNER. In an article of Saturday's Mail, Principal Grant has a few words to say on love of country.

Our advice to Canadians is to get abroad if they wish to become inspired with a love for their own country. The life of nationality consists in that generous rivalry which springs up between nations.

There is something more potent than either to raise up a burst of the strongest patriotic enthusiasm and national sentiment. Nor will Canadian patriotism and love of country ever begin to bloom out in its true nobility until that something is supplied.

Not at all. We are an American, not an European nation. We live under the north star and in a western climate. Ours is not a military, imperial or aristocratic nationality.

Canada has a distant nationality from that of England, and many characteristics which it is proud to assert are antagonistic to those of the country south of the border.

Let us have a symbol to designate this individuality. That individuality will prove the fountain of all our patriotic sentiments. Let her ships that sail over the waters of the globe be known as Canadian.

A CURIOUS SPECIMEN OF CHRISTMAS LITERATURE. A few days or weeks ago the Globe joined the World in calling for a public monument to the late Wm. Lyon Mackenzie.

than this glorification over an act which England admitted to be wrong. For the rest, there is much in the story that is unwholesome. A very astonishing account is given of the battle of Gallow's Hill.

Other instances of like inaccuracy might be pointed out, but this is not our object. We desire to do it to protest against the tone and manner in which a reform journal speaks of a man, whatever his faults, probably did more to advance the cause of reform in Canada than anyone else.

Considerable discussion has been provoked by the sudden refusal of a well-known actress to submit to an extra regulation kiss in a stage performance, and her subsequent retirement from the company.

Canada reply cards, to be used in correspondence with the United Kingdom, will also be supplied at an early date, and when post cards of this description originating in the United Kingdom and bearing the impressed postage stamp thereon, will also be received here by mail.

Quick, complete cure, all annoying kidney, bladder and urinary diseases. $1. The Highlanders and the Egyptians. A Cairo newspaper says: "The Bedouins were greatly puzzled by the garb of the Highlanders, who they came to the conclusion were not soldiers, but the wives of the soldiers."

THE COMING ELECTION OF MAYOR AND ALDERMEN. Sir: The civic elections for 1883 are on, and during that very important question will come up before the council for settlement. The council have great power of expenditure of public monies and the tax-payers should be watchful in the election of properly qualified persons.

Not to elect persons who go into the council for private sinister objects of their own, in other words to grind some axe of their own, to carry through some land speculation, or further a personal hobby antagonistic to the public interests.

THE RATOYERS OUGHT TO ASK THEMSELVES about the cutting out and burning of the Caroline, a vessel in the service of the rebels plying between the American shore and New Island, we get a bit of news. The name, incorrectly spelled, of a Canadian officer who is said to have killed an American sailor on the Caroline is given.

Torontonians vote for him. This election should not be one of politics, but earnest endeavor should be made to select a good council of responsible men, and next a mayor who can be relied on as opposed to all kinds of jobbery, and one who is determined never to let the taxes exceed those of 1882, and if possible to diminish them.

THE IGNORANT IRISHMAN. (To the Editor of The World.) Sir: The Rev. Mr. Lewis attributes the troubles of Grace church to many ignorant Irishmen in the parish. Now I don't happen to be an Irishman, but I see a poor ignorant Englishman and sympathize with the ignorant Irishman of the ward of St. John's in their opposition to the ritualistic innovations of Mr. Lewis.

Don't fail to bring the young people to see Santa Claus at the Grand opera house Xmas matinee. Reply Post Cards. From the St. Thomas Times. For the convenience of correspondence by post card within the dominion, a double post card has been prepared and is now ready for issue, which will afford to the original sender of this form of card the means of sending with his communication, a blank prepaid post card to be used in reply.

THE RAWBONE GUN AND MANUFACTURING CO. LIMITED. TORONTO, ONT. REASONS FOR PREFERRED THE AETNA LIFE INSURANCE CO. AETNA is a strong stock company. It has $750,000 capital stock fully paid up in cash. This is the best possible assurance that the interests of the policy-holders will be carefully protected, since the stockholders would forfeit every dollar of this fund before any policy-holder could lose a farthing, and therefore the directors will not permit any injudicious investments or extravagant expenditures, but the management is conservative and safe. Its policy-holders cannot be assessed for any losses, debts, or contingencies of the company; nor do they assume any of the obligations, liabilities, or risks which fall upon those who name in mutual companies and assessment societies. On the other hand, policy-holders can secure under their participating plan all the surplus profits of their policies applied in cash to the reduction of their annual premiums, thereby obtaining all the advantages of the Mutual System with none of its disadvantages and dangers.

CHRISTMAS CHEER. Furnished by the Best Authors and Best Poets. Numerous, indeed, are the hearts which Christmas brings a brief season of happiness and enjoyment. How many recollections, and how many dormant sympathies does Christmas time awaken? We write these words now, many miles distant from the spot at which, year after year, we met on that day a merry and joyous coterie. Many of the hearts that throbbled so gently have ceased to beat; many of the hearts that have shown so brightly have grown cold; the eyes we sought have hid their lustre in the grave; and yet the old room, the merry voices and smiles, the jest, the laugh, the most minute and trifling circumstances connected with those happy meetings crowd upon our mind at each recurrence of the season, as if last assembly had been the very last. Happy, happy Christmas, that wins the heart to the delusion of our childish days; can recall to the old man the pleasures of his youth; that can inspire the wanderer with the thousand miles away back to his own fireside and his quiet life.—Charles Dickens.

This is the season when the world is best and gladdest—not that external nature is brighter, but that the very atmosphere is breathing to us on its wings grand old messages that unto all the world is born. Oh, wondrous message, that can so enthral the ages! I acknowledge power. I salute thy source, for a good must have been begotten of good, strain that has preserved its purity through centuries of time, and been glory and inspiration of humanity. dynasties and generations have crumbled, nothing has more than reason's power. The bird sings in its heart, the eagle and biglyr slink mute. How poor and mean must that soul be cannot expand beyond the narrow restrictions of this mortal life. Happy Christmas, I pity all such souls. To you, season brings little grace, I fear, and children's waiting on their love be childless and disappointment must see only the cruel stone that whelms the reach of this mortal life through the sacred Christmas sky rolls a cloud down.—Signor Max.

"Lighten thy hills, Jerusalem! The Savior now is born And bright on Bethlehem's joyous plain Breaks the first Christmas morn."—E. L. Loring. "With gentle deeds and kindly thought And loving words, with Welcome the merry Christmas in, And bear a brother's cheer."—E. L. Loring. "Christmas comes but once a year, The poor will many a care forget, The laborer thinks of his day's work, But as they each enjoy their cheer, With his Christmas all the year."—Thomas. "Immortal Babe, who this dear day Didst change thy throne, Heav'n for our sake, And didst with us, Thy goodly babe, Eternal Son of God, all hail."—Duke.

"The birth of all Christendom For us alone, The unborn song Of peace on earth, good will to men."—W. H. Long. "But that which shines in Bethlehem Shines still, and all that good and true And all that's best in all the world, Of glory and of love."—A. L. Loring. "This happy day, 'till we rise on earth, Shall see not the night sternly; This holy day, when Christ was born, Took on our own humanity."—P. B. P. "This day Shall change all griefs and sorrows, And all the world shall be as one, For this dear day, when Christ was born, He came to us, our God and Son, To be our brother, our friend, and our King."—Duke.
