The employees of the locomotive department of the late Toronto, Grey and Bruce railway shops at the Queen's wharf on Saturday day presented their respected foreman, John Kyle, a valuable gold watch and chain with an address expressive of their appreciation of him during the last seven years under his control. The address was beautifully illuminated.

Victoria Park re-opens on Saturday.

The weather conditions for the week have varied considerably from those of last week. There was great cloudiness and excessive humidity with, in some districts, much rain. The general character of disease have not greatly changed, though the total prevalence seems to have become rather less. Pneumonia amongst respiratory diseases remains still very prevalent, though bronchitis has not increased.

A boat every hour to Victoria Park on Saturday next, commencing at 9 a.m.

Read the advertisement of Petley & Co. and see what goods can be bought for a dollar. You will be surprised at the purchasing power that 100 cents has in this popular mart, whether in dry goods, men's clothing or house furnishings.

Not a dynamiter. When Thomas Drew was arraigned in the police court yesterday morning on a charge of being found in the parliament grounds early Saturday morning, there was no evidence of any kind against him, and he was discharged.

Rev. Mr. Brown. Last week The World copied an article from the London Advertiser about the Rev. Mr. Brown. The Advertiser of May 14 publishes the following explanation: Rev. A. Brown has returned to the city and effectually cleared away any stain that might have rested upon him by the publication of a story of his departure, in which he was represented as an absconding debtor. Taking up the points in the story categorically, he effectually disposes of each and every allegation. In the first place, he made no secret of his intended departure, and he left his New York address and friends in this city, in addition to which he announced to Bishop Baldwin and other friends his intention to return by the end of May. His furniture and effects he left at a place in London where they were to be sent by the steamer to Toronto. In regard to Priddis Bros., he has received a letter from the firm, in which he is notified that the whole affair shown to have been the result of a misunderstanding. In respect to the rent, he paid it by a draft from New York on the 10th of May, the day following the publication of the story, and three days before the charge of wrongdoing was made. Mr. Brown declares that it is utterly untrue, and has not the slightest foundation in fact. In regard to Petrick & McDonald, M. McLeod of Little Mountain has fallen what looks remarkably well. This is the third season in which Mr. McLeod has had fall wheat winter without damage. Extensive building operations will be proceeded with at Clover city at once if lumber can be procured. The buildings will include a church, telegraph office, and land office.

A specimen of what appears to be the unmineralized quartz, has been left at this office. It has been identified as a specimen of felspar containing mica.

Now that minerals are all the rage it might not be out of place to remark that an excellent griststone quarry exists on the bank of a creek on the Fignon lake trail not more than twenty miles from Edmonton.

The Indians of this district are getting an increase of rations during next time so they will have no excuse for not putting in their crops. The rations are 1 lb. of flour and 1 lb. of bacon per head. Plenty of ammunition is also to be issued to them so that they will be in a position to kill game when they have an opportunity.

Every effort made to accommodate the public at Victoria Park next Saturday.

The reason why "Nonsex Washing Compound" should be used in preference to all other washing preparations. First, it is perfectly harmless. Second, it saves more than half the labor. Third, it is the cheapest in the market. Many more could be given but this should be sufficient. For sale by all grocers. Lowden & Co., Wholesale Agents for Toronto.

Modern Surgery.

From the Philadelphia Record.

There was an operation performed in this city two weeks ago which will in time attract great attention. A lady was brought to the Jefferson college hospital suffering from a tumor in the throat. She could not swallow, and unless relief was obtained the woman would of course starve to death. But there was a surgeon equal to the emergency. He made an incision into the stomach and inserted a tube about the thickness of a lead pencil, so fine at the point as to be almost needle-like. Through this hole food specially prepared is introduced, and the woman is kept alive. In the meantime the surgeon operates upon the throat. Of course it cannot be told whether the lady will ever recover, but she has existed for nearly three weeks.

No liquor and no fighting at Victoria Park. Take the blue-ribbon steamer Gipsy for the park next Saturday, the opening day.

A Royal Pauper at the Altar. From the London World.

An incident which occurred at a royal marriage in this country not many years ago, where also the bridegroom was a German prince, seems apropos of the late duke of Albany's wedding. Only members of the royal family were present at the ceremony. When the bridegroom came to repeat the words "with all my gods I thee endow" an indignant exclamation was heard from the royal circle, "Good God, the very shoes the fellow wears are not his!" It was the old duke of Cambridge who had blurted out this awkward truth in one of his fits of abstraction.

Good Night. Good night, beloved! the tender night is falling on the weary world, and through the light. That fades the veins of my heart are calling Good night! O love, to thee a fond good night.

Good night, beloved! My angels here are flying With dreams far brighter than the day's lost And may thy waking be to smiles, not weeping.

Good night, O truest friend, and best—good night.

Good night, beloved! though weary miles are lying Between thy heart and mine, yet with the wind My thoughts on wings of love are flying To bid thee, even as a prayer, good night.

Good night, beloved! my heart that great eye undimmed I leave to thee, my stars are shining bright O love, my God have us in his keeping Until we meet again, O love! Good night!
