TWELFTH YEAR.

OTTAWA'S ANNUAL PAGEANT

A DAYLIGHT NOCTURNE IN THE SENATE CHAMBERS.

The busy and bald little chief of the Black Rods goes through the usual genuflections, the Cannon Boon from Nepesin Point and Stanley Talks to the Unbrilled Hosts of the People's Representatives.

OTTAWA, Feb. 25.—Yes, said Col. Tyrwhitt to Dr. Landecker as the western contingent drove up the Pullman car to the Russell in the early morning. "It is a beautiful day. It is a very good day. Whereat everybody laughed. The weather of the morning, frosty yet kindly," continued Tyrwhitt, "and the consequence was there was a grand turning out of the legs to see His Excellency open Parliament."

Ottawa people seem never to weary of the annual pageant. They look forward to it with all the eagerness of children for their first proposal, and when the occasion at length comes it finds her flinching, trembling, but radiant.

The scene in the Senate after months of neglect comes to the front with a rush in the people's affections. The plebeian Commons was treated with contempt to-day, while the doors of the Senate were besieged by a wriggling, pushing, pushing multitude with tickets of admission to the various galleries. And when they got there they presented to their gaze a sort of daydream, and in the paradox may be permitted—a study in lady's loveliness.

The atmosphere of the chamber was decidedly hot, but the whispering, fluttering crowd in the gallery endured the temperature with unflinching fortitude. His Excellency arrived, his coming foreboding for 15 minutes previously by the boom of cannon from Nepesin Point.

Then began the mystic work of that wonderful personage, the Usher of the Black Rod, (not the Black Rod of the House of Commons, but the Usher of the Senate, who is a more reverent western heathen called him).

After a series of bows and genuflections timed by brass bands, the busy and bald little gentleman departed for the chamber to inform the Commons that His Excellency is in the matter.

He was not long in returning with Speaker White in his train and the unbrilled hosts of the people's representatives. When the Speaker had rested his front against the brazen bar, looking as if he tried to enter the Senate chamber, His Excellency communicated the following facts to him and such others as might be interested in the matter:

HONORABLE GENTLEMEN OF THE SENATE, GENTLEMEN OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.—It affords me much gratification to see the commencement of the Parliamentary session and to be able to congratulate you upon the important matters which are before you and upon the abundant harvest with which Providence has blessed all parts of the country.

The lamented death of His Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence, a fellow subject and a profound sorrow. The sympathy with His Majesty and His Royal Highness, which has prevailed in the Dominion, is a tribute to the affection which binds us together as a people, and it is a source of pride to me to see that the same sympathy has been extended to the Duke of Clarence, and from many other representative bodies.

The negotiations in respect to seal fishing in Behring Sea have been continued with a view to the adjustment of the difficulties which have arisen between the United States and Great Britain, and the United States have been appointed by both Governments to investigate the circumstances of the case in Behring Sea, to report thereon, and to suggest the measures, if any, which they may deem proper to report thereon, and to suggest the measures, if any, which they may deem proper to report thereon.

The morning session was a quiet one, and ended in the appointment of a committee to prepare before the Drainage Commission a paper, a detailed description of the "Gettogen Waterworks," by Mr. James Warren of Kincardine, Mr. A. L. McCulloch of London, Ontario, and Mr. J. B. Speight, O. J. K. C. F. Aylesworth, H. J. Bousman, A. H. Bowman, J. L. Morris, J. Robertson and J. McArthur; three can be elected.

The afternoon session was of a rather odd and uninteresting character, and a number of committee reports being received. Nominations for offices were made, and Mr. W. J. Mackenzie was elected as a member of the Boundary Commission, and Mr. E. J. Butler was elected as a member of the Drainage Commission.

DR. SPOHN'S POST MORTEM.

HIS POLITICAL DIAGNOSIS OF EAST SIMCOE WAS WRONG.

The film main film he prescribed in Liberal Doses Did Not Agree with the Patients, Consequently They Failed to Carry Out Instructions and the Result Was of Course What Might Have Been Expected.

ONTARIO, Feb. 25.—The bye-election in East Simcoe to-day for the Commons resulted in the return of Mr. Bennett (Conservative) by a margin of 25 over the unseated Liberal member, Dr. Spohn. This is the first time a Conservative has represented the constituency since created by the Redistribution Act of 1882. H. H. Cook (Liberal) was elected in 1882 and 1887, and Dr. Spohn (Liberal) in 1891.
