CHURCH DROWSINESS.

The Cause of Sleep During Sermons Explained in a New Way.

I have a scientific explanation of the mnolence which overtakes people in church. I used to think that it was dullness of the sermon which provoked the sleep of the congregation. remembers the actor who gave a private reading of his play to his Reserve. ends, and when he was done asked Contingent Fund their opinion. At last when one began speak, the playwright interrupted: "Ah." replied the critic, "do you not know that sleep is an opinion?" nd sleep is certainly an opinion, and But it may not mean that the ser-mon is really dull. I have seen people en in church under all circumstances, and in the hearing of the most admirable preachers, preaching the most elo quent sermons. I saw a man sleep when Mr. Spurgeon preached. Mr. Moody has more than once called out to have a window opened to wake a somnolent member of his audience.
Canon Knox-Little is accounted a preacher of more than usual earnestess and power, yet I remember once in Vorcester seeing a minister, clad in surplice and stole, and seated in the chancel, go straight to sleep while the canon reached, disregarding the eyes of the congregation. And once when Mr. Gore ered a sermon in that great abbey in my neighborhood went to sleep in

No; my theory is that most times when the congregation sleep during the sermon they are simply hypnotized, For, consider the situation. Most of the conditions which the hypnotist desires dued light in the room; the atmosphere is somewhat close, the temperature is high; somewhere behind the speaker, n a position which compels the eyes of the congregation, is a jet of gas or sharp gleam of electricity, into which they look as the sermon proceeds, and the preacher goes on and on, in a gentle and monotonous voice, and down and up like a mother's lullaby; and behold our eyelids are pressed down against our will by soft, invisible fingers, and everything is deliciously vague and far away, and suddenly people stand up with an awakening sound about us, and the preacher is pronouncing the ascription at the end of his sermon, during whose wise and eloquent paragraphs we have humiliatingly slept. This is hypnotic sleep. And it is the fault, not only of the preacher, but of the whole construction of our ill-ventilated and

CURE FOR STIFF JOINTS.

A New Form of an Old Remedy Placed in Operation in London.

The application of heat is one of the universal remedies for the various forms of rheumatism. Almost every modern city has its Turkish or Rus bath, and innumerable uncivilized tribes erjoy the same luxury in cruder shape. Travelers in the Navajo country will often find close to the trail which leads to the neighborhood of water miniature imitation of Indian tenees. These are the "sweat huts" of the Navajos. When one of that intelligent and thrifty tribe rheumatic pains he goes to a secluded spot, close to the water and builds a little conicial but of sticks. The bottom ends of the sticks may be possibly two feet apart, and the upper ends are lashed together in a point. The interstices of this rough edifice are carefully chinked up, and the inside is covered with a layer of mud, which makes it absolutely air-tight. Then, building fire, the Indian places stones on the When the stones begin to crack with the heat, they are cast inside The Indian creep in, closes the nar-row entrance chamber ,and remains in the steaming atmosphere until he this crude therapuy is used in a London without saving; she is deeply imbued hospital. It consists of a copper cylinder about three feet long and eighteen status of woman, and the influence she inches in diameter, which will hold an who is suffering from sprains, or gout, or rheumatic affections, is placed in an arm chair, the limb is introduced into the cylinder and the joint made air-tight by a rubber band. The inside temperamoisture escapes. The effects are greatly increased local circulation, profuse perspiration, and relief from pain.

McIntyre & Wardwell (John J. Dixon eceived the following despatch from chwartz, Dupee & Co., Chicago: Wheat early was very strong, getting almost 2c over yesterday's closing. The close showed part of this lost. Cables higher, but neither the seaboard nor the foreign ers let the buying. There were had reports from the west and southwest, but ports from the west and southwest, but favorable reports from the spring wheat country. Rye was up 5c a bushel. There was a general expectation that the Government report Monday will be bullish. Seaboard clearances small; less than 100,000 bushels. Receipts were less than last year. The local cash demand was poor, the total being the smallest in a considerable time. The market is likely to be very uncertain until after the Government report. The winter wheat condition last year was 83.2, the spring delivered more Lake SimWe have also delivered more Lake SimWe have also delivered more Lake SimGovernment report.

Provisions ruled higher, but most of the advance, was lost at the closing. Pork was bid up sharply at the opening and then broke quickly under selling by local holders, there being but little buying demand. Ribs were steadied by the purchase of a good line by an English house. No improvement was reported in the cash demand and packers were moderate sellers of futures.
