Mrs. Isaac Durling is spending a week at Springfield and Bridgewater.
Edward Daniels, Wolfville, spent the holidays at the home of his mother.

HAMPTON.
Rev. Mr. Carpenter has recently paid a visit to Port Lorne and Hampton and occupied our pulpit on Sunday morning last, preaching a very excellent sermon from the words, "As I live ye shall live also." The reverend gentleman is a fluent speaker and was listened to with great attention.
The Women's Aid Society held an Easter concert on Sunday evening. A very excellent program on foreign missions was well carried out, consisting of readings, recitations and extensive Scripture quotations, with vocal and instrumental music. A collection at the close amounted to seven dollars.
On Friday evening Miss Flora Farnsworth had a birthday party somewhat in the form of a surprise. The young lady was the recipient of presents valued at forty-five dollars, in token of the esteem in which she is held by her young friends. The evening was spent in social intercourse and games, with refreshments of ice cream and other good things. The young lady, who is a deaf mute, and all others present seemed well pleased with their evening's entertainment.
The funeral of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Foster was held on Thursday last, the Rev. Mr. Warren, of Bridgetown, conducting the service. Mr. and Mrs. Foster wish to tender their thanks to their many friends for kindness received during their affliction.

CURED OF RHEUMATISM.
Mr. Wm. Henry of Chatham, N. S., had rheumatism in his left arm. "The strength seemed to have gone out of the muscles so that it was useless for work," he says. "I applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm and wrapped the arm in flannel at night, and to my relief I found that the pain gradually left me and the strength returned." In three weeks the rheumatism had disappeared and has not since returned. "I am certain to be pleased with the relief which it affords. For sale by W. A. Warren, Pharm. B.

GRANVILLE FERRY.
Easter tide did not pass unobserved. Services were held in the church of Holy Trinity on Easter Sunday at 8 a. m., Sabbath school at 2 p. m., and service again at 7 p. m. The services in the Methodist church were at 11 a. m., S. S. at 2 p. m., and Easter service at 7 p. m., at which the children took an active part.
S. W. W. Pickup, M. P., spent Easter holidays with his family. Mrs. Pickup's health is not very good at present.
Mrs. S. Groves and daughters, Jean and Grace, returned home on Saturday, having spent the winter in Boston and vicinity.
Quite a number of our citizens took advantage of excursion rates and went to Port Wade on Friday last.

PARADISE.
J. C. Moore spent Easter with his sister, Mrs. J. M. Gilliat, of Granville Ferry.
Miss Fanny Buggles, of Acadia Seminary, was at home during the Easter holidays.
Charles J. Durling of the Union Bank, Bear River, has been at home for a few days.
Gifford Oakes, of Kington, has been visiting friends in this place.
A party of young people drove to Lunenburg on Friday evening, where they were entertained at the home of Miss Clara Daniels.
An interesting program was given by the ladies of the Aid Society on Sunday evening in the Baptist church at PORT WADE.

Charlie Massack has arrived home from Lynn on a three week's vacation, and is calling among his many friends here.
Mrs. Daniel Cronin went to Granville Centre Friday for a short visit with her parents and other friends.
"Our Train" was well patronized Friday, quite a large number coming on the excursion from different points along the line. The general inquiry is, "when will the Boston boat connect here?"
Fred Parker has finished his log surveying on the Hollow Road and is again looking after the interests of his farm.
Rev. T. J. Kinlay, a student at Acadia, and brother of our pastor, preached here on Sunday afternoon to quite a large audience. Mr. Kinlay had some previous acquaintance with our people by teaching school, we understand, at the Island.
Spring advice: "Keep your trees rid of holes, into your scotch room."
"I live by the sea, keep in, sometime," said the clam invitingly.
A traveller out west noticed that all the train men had lost their fore or index finger. Inquiring the cause of the deformity he was told by the conductor that these men had worn off their forefinger pointing out to travellers the beauties of the country through which the trains passed. The same calamity seems liable to occur to train men in the near future on this road of ours.

Why Bulls Hate a Red Flag.
In the first place, says an English writer, red is a color to which cattle are unaccustomed, so that they may naturally be supposed to be startled by its very novelty. Scientists show the same unaccustomed to be the complement of that of green, being induced by exactly opposite affections of the retina. If the eyes of cattle are constructed on a similar principle to our own the continual contemplation of green, as in trees and herbage, must produce a state of retinal fatigue, predisposing a violent excitement of the retina immediately a red substance is presented to view.

Our Grandmothers had great faith in Flaxseed Tea.
Always had a potent handy during the winter for coughs and colds. It was not pleasant but it cured the cough.
Simson's Flaxseed Emulsion contains all the virtues of the flaxseed tea but it is pleasant to take. Large bottles 25c. All Druggists.

The Causes and Symptoms of Urta Acid in the Blood.
Rheumatism, so called, is probably as common as any ailment one ever hears of, and yet if one were to analyze carefully the average case of rheumatism the result would doubtless show that the disease was something very different indeed from the real thing. Almost everybody who suffers from a slight stiffness of a joint or a muscular soreness promptly makes a diagnosis of rheumatism when in reality the case is nothing more than what in technical language is known as lithaemia, sometimes called American gout.

The real disease of rheumatism is the result of an accumulation in the blood of imperfectly converted food, principally uric acid. This accumulation is due to intemperance in eating and drinking and insouciant active exertion.
Hereditarily in some cases seems to play an important part. In the great majority the symptoms follow a regular order, beginning with a feeling of throbbing headache, nervous irritability and vertigo, muscular pains which may be confined to one or more muscles or skip about from one to another. Lastly, and in most cases the most troublesome of all symptoms, is depression of spirits, the patient imagining that he has all sorts of ailments. Persons suffering from mental disorder as a result of this disease have been known to commit suicide. Fortunately these cases are not common, but it should be remembered that they are among the possibilities.—A Doctor in New York World.

An Incident of the Boyhood Days of William McKinley.
One does not readily associate our martyred president, William McKinley, with an ambition to become an actor, but in a grouping of eminent persons who have concurred at one time or another in their lives a passion to tread the boards we find the subjoined account:

"It was while holding the humble position of clerk at a hat store in Cincinnati that Mr. McKinley became stagestruck and once confessed that he did not outgrow his desire to become an actor for many years afterward. The desire arose through witnessing the Shakespearean plays as presented by the great tragedian, Edwin Forrest, for whom Mr. McKinley conceived a great admiration. "Imagine my feelings," the president said on one occasion when relating his boyish ambitions, "when Forrest walked into our store one day to make a purchase. I rushed to the front in order to serve my ideal hero of the theater. The sale, however, was made by an older clerk, but I was given the privilege of pressing and stretching the hat. The great actor stood near me, observing my work, and the smile of appreciation which he gave me was one of the events of my youth."

Growth of Rocks.
Rocks do not grow in the sense that a plant grows. They may increase by accretion, and they may undergo chemical change. The old sea bed, being lifted up, becomes sandstone and limestone. The volcanic ash and lava thrown over the plains become tuff, hard enough for building stone. The pebbly shore of a river becomes conglomerate. The simple mineral does grow, however, when it takes a crystal form. The sparkling prism of quartz increases from an atom to a crystal as large as a forearm by a process of addition and assimilation, wonderfully slow but beautifully regular, exactly as crystals of ice form on the window pane.

Bismarck's Love of Authority.
At 9 p. m. we took tea with the king. I was seated opposite him when a footman came and whispered in my ear that Bismarck desired to see me. Great embarrassment! Puckler having told me I might leave the table, I did so. The king inquired what was the matter and permitted me to go. Bismarck had nothing of particular importance to tell me, and I suspect that he only wanted to show that he had the right to send for his employees even when they were with the king.

Strictly Business.
"The graviest man I ever knew," said Uncle Jerry Peabbles, "was an old chap named Snoopins. Somebody told him once that when he breathed he took in oxygen and gave out carbon. He spent a whole day trying to find out which of them two gases cost the most if you have to buy 'em. He wanted to know whether he was making or losing money when he breathed."
