YALE UNIVERSITY SUMMER SCHOOL.

Second Session July 5 to August 16, 1906.

Courses in Anatomy Art, Biology, Chemistry, Commercial Geography, Education (History and Theory), English, French, Geology, German, Greek, History, Latin, Mathematics, Methods of Teaching, Physical Education, Physics, Physiology, Psychology, Rhetoric, and School Administration.

These courses are designed for teachers and college students. Some are advanced courses and intended for specially trained students, others are introductory and presuppose no specialized preparation.

In the great majority of cases, instruction is given by members of the Yale Faculty of the rank of professor or assistant professor. A number of leading school authorities have been added to the Faculty to give courses on educational subjects.

About 100 suites of rooms in the dormitories are available for students, and will be assigned in the order of application.

EDUCATIONAL REVIEW,
St. John, N. B.

the relations of Canada and the United States, etc., all ably treated in articles which The Living Age reprints from the Spectator, Economist, Saturday Review and other organs of English opinion.

The June Delineator is a most attractive number, containing the usual array of the latest styles and literary features of great excellence. Gustav Kothé interestingly tells the story of Home, Sweet Home, and there is a variety of excellent verse. For children, there are Stories and Pastimes, among them one of Alice Brown's Gradual Fairy Tales, and for the woman of the home, many articles of house wifely interest.

In the June Atlantic there are timely and vigorous discussions on national interests; science is represented by Professor See's account of Recent Solar Research and other articles; literature has several clever and delightfully written essays including Julian Hawthorne's English Lawns and Literary Folk; and there are bright stories and poems, anticipating the lighter literature of the summer months.

The June Canadian Magazine has articles of much interest, among which are Professor Coleman's (Toronto) on Earthquakes and Volcanic Eruptions, and Frederick Dolman's on Sir John Millais' art and art methods. The stories of the June number are exceptionally good.
