FOOD THIEVES BUSY.

Brockville Cellars Looted and Po-lice Are Powerless,

Brockville, Aug. 14 .- (Special.) -In various parts of the town during the past month cellars have been burglarized, and everything in the way of provisions stolen. The police are apparently powerless to cope with the situation, and the men in plain clothes are doing extra duty in addition to the regular blue coats, the perpetrators are still at large. One section of the town, known as Schofield's Hill, is the particular mark for the law-breakers. Every night of the past week a robbery was reported from there and the residents are terror-stricken. Last night a suspiare terror-stricken. Last night a suspi-cious character was seen prowling around the yards and an outcry was made by an excited woman. Two men on hearing the disturbance rushed out. One armed with a rifle, shot after the fieeing burglar, who disappeared in a corn field. He dropped an armful of loot, which was taken from an adjoin-ing cellar. The business part of the ing cellar. The business part of the community is in a state of unrest, too, owing to a successful attempt at break-ing into the big dry goods store of Robert Wright & Co. Only about $7 in cash was taken, and it is not known

Mr. Hodgson offered his fine Arabian carriage mare, for which he has refused $250 on various occasions. This animal is one of the finest in the country, having good clean limbs, good action and well broken: she is cheap at $500, but was not sold. "Mr. Baird's broncos did not sell well, many of them being withdrawn from sale. It was quite evident that there were few buyers for this class of horses.

Mr. Hodgson makes a splendid auctioneer. He told his audience that this was his first attempt at selling, and we put it moderate when we say he did well.

W. W. Hodgson announced another sale of horses to take place on Wednesday, Aug. 26, of which further notice will be given. He also stated that the managers of the Urion Stock Yards had determined to establish a weekly horse sale.
