"FOR IN MY YOUTH"

What a pity it is, to be sure, that young people cannot have the experience which those on the point of death by old age have stored up in the chambers of their brains. We say it seriously. "Tis true, 'tis pity; pity 'tis, 'tis true! Just take an instance, which occurs hardly at this time of the year, that of the freshman. How fortunate for him could he only feel at home in his new surroundings with somewhat less noise! Of course, there are all sorts of freshmen, and some are fresh who never were freshmen, but one type has greatly endeared himself to the imagination of the theatre-goer, the citizen, and the undergrad. Briefly, his accomplishments are these. He has an ineffectual desire to be fast; he thinks a lot of off-color things are smart, and it appeals to his notion of what is gentlemanly to get drunk. We are sorry to have to say this, but the fact remains, and is doubtless due to too great contemplation of the genius chorus girl and absorption of the drug-cheap novel. Of course, he gets cured in time, but often before that happens he has acquired ineradicable traces of the "cheap sport" in character and in face. It is curious on what a foundation the sportiness of the gay college youth is built. Often it is the labor of a grey-headed old man back on a bleak Canadian rim a man of steady purpose. A finishing will and courage to plod sick the daily path of unremitting toil. There is the mother of the house, the busiest woman in the world—farm assistant, cook, housemaid, dressmaker and sometimes teacher all in one. She

Princess Skin Food

It is not "made from a recipe of Cleopatra's," or any beauty long deceased, and "purchased at an immense cost," but is compounded by Canada's leading dermatologists, and contains the most and most beneficial ingredients for the skin. PRINCESS SKIN FOOD won't benefit any skin affection, but it will restore, cleanse and nourish a faded, wrinkled and neglected skin. A pure, creamy, unguent of velvety consistency, it is exquisitely fine and delightfully refreshing. In use over 15 years—$1.00 postpaid. The largest jar of skin food made at the price. OUR FREE BOOKLET suggests an abundance of toilet luxuries with prices, and describes our method of permanent removing SUPERFLUOUS HAIR, MOLES, etc., by ELECTROLYSIS, in which we guarantee satisfaction.

World Fattern Department

5679-A Practical Work Apron. The busy housewife or the woman who has little duties to perform about the house well knows the advantage of a protective apron, such as the one here pictured. The making is a very simple matter, as will be seen at a glance and can be easily and quickly accomplished. Generous pockets are attached to the skirt, and the full length sleeves are wide enough to accommodate the dress sleeves worn underneath. White and black dotted percale is shown in the illustration, but linen, gingham, Holland and the like are all appropriate. The medium size will require 4-1/2 yards of 35-inch material. Ladies' apron, No. 5679. Sizes for small, medium and large. The above illustration will be mailed to any address upon receipt of ten cents silver.

Queen Quality BOOTS

$4.00, $4.50, $5.00. You want quality. You want variety and newness. You want them at a fair price. It is instinctive in women to want all these. And all these she gets when she buys "Queen Quality" shoes. Every day we hear, "Your new styles are stunning." And so you'll say when you see them.

W.C.T.U. IS FLOURISHING THIRTEEN NEW UNIONS

Thirtieth Annual Convention Opened at Cornwall With One Hundred Delegates Present.

CORNWALL, Nov. 5.—(Special.)—The 30th annual convention of the Ontario W.C.T.U. was opened here this morning at 9.30 by Mrs. McKee of Barrie, the provincial president. Over 100 delegates are present from all points in the province. The formal opening was preceded by a consecration service conducted by Miss M. Jamieson of Rochester, N. Y. The morning session was largely devoted to the discussion of various reports. These showed the union to be in a flourishing condition, with 13 new unions and an active membership of 5008 in 175 unions, besides 717 honorary members. The Band of Hope have 495 members. The total amount received during the year was $13,724.18, an increase of $34.18 over last year.

The Twentieth Century Loaf, "Tomlin's Tea Loaf"

Advanced ideas in the manufacture of breads—placed this exceedingly delicious loaf on the market. Phone Park 553.

Presbyterian W.H.M.S.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the Toronto Presbyterian Church held its annual meeting yesterday, when the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. J. D. Walker; first vice-presidents, Mrs. Logie, Mrs. Gilchrist, Mrs. McLaughlin and Mrs. McBride; secretary, Mrs. Patterson; treasurer, Miss Jean Carmichael; secretaries, Miss McGaw and Mrs. John Steele.

HEIGHT OF CAR STEPS.

Dr. Helen MacMurphy yesterday morning brought the question of regulating the height of the steps on the street cars before Col. Hendrie, and Messrs. Letch and Ingram, commissioners. It appears that many of the cars and in particular the long double-deckers used on the belt line have been built with the first step 16 inches from the ground, and Dr. MacMurphy complains that for general purposes this is altogether too high.

WILL INVESTIGATE CHARGES.

OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—(Special.)—Hon. Frank Oliver cheta-day informed the delegation of ministers representing the Lord's Day Alliance and other ministerial bodies that an investigation had been ordered by the government into the charges preferred by Rev. Mr. Pringle against certain government officials in the Yukon, but so far Mr. Pringle had not gone ahead with his charges. As soon as he was ready they would be thoroughly investigated.

PERSONAL.

The marriage took place yesterday at St. Paul's church, Montreal, of Miss Rachel Mary Burnett, of the latter of the late James Burnett, to Mr. Harold Hansard Robertson of Boston, the bride, who was given away by her brother, Dr. Philip Burnett, wore a gown of white liberty satin with Brussels lace, tulle veil, and wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her four bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Burnett, Miss Jean McInnes, Miss Muriel Stikeman and Miss Betty McLennan. All were gowned alike in white chiton cloth, trimmed with lace and wore white presentation veils with algerette of white feathers, and carried pink roses. The maid of honor, little Miss Mary Pangman, niece of the bride, wore a frock of white lace and mull, and carried a basket of pink roses. Mr. Angus Macdonald supported the groom. The following gentlemen acted as ushers, Dr. W. D. Turner, Mr. William Bond, Mr. Lawrence Stephens, Mr. Edward W. H. Meagher, Mr. John Meagher, Mr. Hugh Burnett, after a reception at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. J. Pangman, Mr. and Mrs. Robertson left for New York, the bride traveling in a purple cloth suit with hat to match. The bridegroom's best man was a diamond pendant, to the bridesmaids monogram pendants, to the best man an amethyst and pearl pin, and to the ushers pearl pins.

Man As a Grumbler

There is one privilege which man still reserves exclusively for himself—his indisputable right to grumble. Up to the present, in spite of the rapid progress of woman towards freedom of thought and action, she has never succeeded in establishing any right to participate in this method of relieving herself of any little extra irritability or mental strain. A man wakes up with a liver, or he gets a letter from his banker telling him his account is overdrawn to such-and-such an extent. Instead of bearing the blow with the manly reserve and fortitude which, according to tradition, should be naturally expected from him, he proceeds in nine cases out of ten to vent his annoyance on everything animate or inanimate that is unucky enough to cross his line of vision. He swears at the servants, discharges the room, kicks the dogs, scolds his wife, slams a few doors, and finally departs leaving behind him a chaotic and aggrivated household, but feeling soothed and at peace with himself.

Man As a Grumbler

Always be smartly dressed, whether you have any money to dress on or not. Never ask your husband questions or worry him with little household details, such as the cook's temper or the housemaid's impertinence. Always appear interested in whatever subject your lord and master may elect to talk about, no matter whether you have heard it forty times before or not. And so on ad infinitum. But as for the husband, dear no! In the average man's mind the primeval belief is still firmly and ineradicably rooted that it is woman's sole joy and duty to attend on him and minister to his wants, and also that when he has once deemed to bestow on her the privilege of providing him with meals, managing his household, and bringing up his children, it should be quite enough for her. And it is still a grievance to him that women have dared to hint that, however much they may value and appreciate these privileges, there are times when they would enjoy little variation and respite from the routine of "Any orders for the butcher, please 'm' or "Please send me a package, my money is smoking, and cook says she can't do nothing unless it stops," which goes on all day long. All this must, no matter whether the wife is ill or tired, and yet she must always appear smiling and cheerful, and when her husband returns maddish and short-tempered from his work, to grumble because his shirt is not properly starched, or that his socks into the drawer exclusively reserved for collars, the soup is too thick, the fish is not cooked enough, the pheasant and the household altogether is miserably mismanaged and uncomfortable, after which he subsides into a tranchair with a cigar and a newspaper and probably goes to sleep. Taken all round, in spite of his complaints about the modern woman and her encroachments upon his rights, her trespassing into realms which could be exclusively his own, I do not think that the man of the present day has such a bad time of it. And then he has such a glorious, never-ending, and grumbler's life in the fact that the modern, athletic, literary, or business woman cannot make good, self-sacrificing wives as their mothers did, and, moreover, that, with woman's extravagance, love of luxury, and passion for amusement, it is impossible for her to marry unless he is a millionaire. So the poor martyr must live in a comfortable flat fitted with every possible convenience, with a caterer and valetage done on the premises, and grumble over his woes with the same old inconsistency of which Adam was the first shining example.

WORLD'S DAILY FASHION HINT

The foundation of this dainty party gown is a fitted waist and a plain full skirt of rose pink voile. The sleeves are of the large armhole variety, and the girle is of pink satin. A lattice-work of this satin over a black velvet ribbon trims the skirt. The waist is made elaborate by a collar of black velvet and white lace, bound with pink satin, and a scarf of pale pink chiffon, which finishes in sash ends in the back.
