

Of Interest to Women

Suffragists.

LONDON, May 21.—A number of militant women suffragists, dissatisfied with the reply of Prime Minister Asquith to an important delegation of Radical members of the house of commons, yesterday, on the question of women's rights for enfranchisement, made a demonstration in front of the premier's residence in Downing-street this morning, and the police reserves had to be called out in order to clear the thoroughfare.

Mrs. Mary Coxwell.

In the death of Mrs. Mary Coxwell, widow of the late W. H. Coxwell, of Osogode Hall, Ontario, loses one of its oldest residents. Mrs. Coxwell, whose maiden name was Mary Sophia, was the only daughter of Capt. John Powell, a naval officer who settled at Niagara, and became sheriff of Welland county in the assembly of Upper Canada. Mrs. Coxwell was born at Niagara nearly 45 years ago. Her father was married Aug. 8, 1808, to Isabella, eldest daughter of Major-General Aenes Shaw, of the Shaws of Strathnairn, Scotland, who resided at Oak Hill, south of Gore Vale, of later years known as the Blackford estate, near where Trinity College now stands. A sister of Mrs. Coxwell's mother, Sophia Shaw, another daughter of the general, and after whom Mrs. Coxwell was named, was engaged to Gen. Isaac Brock, whose career was cut short at the battle of Queenston Heights. The deceased, who was related to many of the older families of Ontario, is survived by all her five children, two sons, Edward Powell and Charles Eytton, and three daughters, Kate (Mrs. Walter Nurse), Nettie (Mrs. E. Palmer Clark), all of Toronto, and Louise (Mrs. Valancy Fuller), of New York. One other grandchild of Chief Justice Powell, by a younger son, also survives in the person of Mrs. John Ridout, of Rusholme-road, Toronto.

ART EXHIBITION AT THE KING EDWARD

Work of English Artist on View. Lovers of true art will find an hour of rare enjoyment in visiting this exhibition of water colors. The subjects are confined largely to the rugged but beautiful Cornish coast and those who gain a livelihood from its shores. As a Cornishman J. C. Uren has turned naturally to the sea for his inspiration and a large number of his pictures testify to the time he has spent in studying its various moods. The glistering expanse of wet sand, the quiet sparkling deep with ships lazily indistinct on the horizon has been reproduced, but in its stormy moments his pictures seem to win better effect, the spirit of the waves.

F. M. Evans is also a Cornishman, but turns not entirely from the sea, but to a study of those who gain a hardy livelihood by its shores. In his "Only Luxury," "Farming and The Artist" and "The Fisherman" the same weather-beaten faces appear, while in "Private and Confidential" he catches the fisher lassies in their leisure moments. A kindly homely air seems to pervade all his studies, most of interiors, and the occupants of humble homes. Saturday is the last day for the exhibit, which has been here a week. These pictures are on view at Room 848, King Edward Hotel, from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Mrs. Robert J. Allan has returned from California and is now spending some weeks in New York and at Atlantic City. Mrs. Lothar Reinhardt and Miss Reinhardt of 48 Jarvis-street are visiting friends in Chicago, Milwaukee and other points.

A letter was read from Mrs. M. M. Pike, the actress, at the regular meeting of the Toronto Humane Society yesterday afternoon, enclosing $1 for a membership fee and some leaflets describing the sufferings of cattle on the ranges in the winter time. She says that these leaflets have done a good work in the States and she thinks they would do equally well here. A substantial sum was raised by the sale of flowers and the proceeds of the tea-room during the horse show.

Miss Hastings' Recital.

It is certainly a pleasure for any patriotic citizen of the Dominion to note how Canadians are rapidly scaling the ladder of eminence in musical accomplishment. Miss Hastings' recital last night in Conservatory Hall afforded proof that Canada was coming into her own in the department of solo violin virtuosity.

Miss Hastings is a native of Brantford and her first pupil was a noted teacher of the violin, the late Joseph Baumann of Hamilton. She has the distinction—and it really is a distinction—of having been the soloist at concerts of the celebrated Boston Symphony Orchestra. This in itself precludes her from being considered anything else than a finished artist.

And her playing last night justified her inclusion in the company of virtuosi. She opened her program with the best composition on it, Vieuxtemps' "Ballade and Polonaise" (op. 38) for violin and piano. The ballade is a slow movement, with consistently scope for emotional expression. And Miss Hastings, by sweet, solid, pure tones, wrought out a beautiful piece of art. Miss Hastings has technique, and if she had not, she would have spoiled the polonaise by mere display of technique. Instead, she made the polonaise bright, colorful and emotionally happy. She was fortunate in having at the piano Mr. A. F. Reilly, who made his instrument follow the moods of the violinist. He had excellent technique, especially in phrasing, and I have not heard anyone at the piano in this city who better understands the art of accompanying.

I regret that Miss Hastings chose for her second number Wieniawski's "Legende," a characteristic composition in the minor key. It is a piece of very poor writing for the violin; it does not demand technique and it gives small scope for singing tones. The unfortunate passage was futile and the pizzicatos inane. However, Miss Hastings made the best of a poor composition and came to her own. The recital, the numbers of her program, "Les Adieux" by Sarasate and the "Humoresque" by Dvorak.

Miss Hastings was also assisted by Mr. Robert Stuart Pigott, baritone, in two sets of songs. The first set included Thomas' "The Viking's Daughter" and Atkinson's "Robin Hood's Farewell" and Nevill's "Autumn Sadness." Mr. Pigott is a master in the art of tone production and phrasing. But I hasten to add that he surpasses himself in emotional expression. And this set, which was in spirit mournful, required above all sensitiveness to the spiritual meaning of the composer. In the second set, which was Celtic in substance and spirit, Mr. Pigott was exceedingly happy and effective. Of the three songs, his own composition, "Nora," gave him the right to be recognized as one of Canada's composers who know how to secure what Henry T. Finck calls "emotional realism." That is, the music exactly represented the idea of the words in the poem. He sang it delightfully for all, and particularly touched those in the audience who have the Celtic gift of imagination. Miss Hastings, Mr. Pigott and Mr. Reilly are to be congratulated on having thoroughly delighted last night a select and appreciative audience. J. D. Logan.

STRICKEN WITH HYDROPHOBIA

Expert Conducting Post Mortem Over Brooklyn Victim is Himself Affected

NEW YORK, May 21.—Dr. Ira Van Giesen, expert on hydrophobia for the New York Board of Health, was inoculated with hydrophobia to-day while making an autopsy on the body of William H. Marsh, the Brooklyn manufacturer who died of that disease yesterday. Dr. Van Giesen scratched his arm with one of the bones from Mr. Marsh's body.

Dr. Van Giesen said he had been inoculated before and expressed only annoyance at the accident. He will go to the Pasteur Institute.

Sonnets of a Sorehead.

The Hunter-Rose Co. announce for publication in June a little book of slang verse by James P. Haverson of The World Staff. The title of the volume is "Sour Sonnets of a Sorehead and Other Songs of the Street." It is printed in two colors with appropriate page decoration and is profusely illustrated by Forgasz Eyle, a Toronto newspaper artist. The book is an amplification of a series of sonnets which ran in The Toronto Saturday Night Express last year. To this series, which has been extended, are added many other verses dealing with the everyday life of the streets. Simultaneously with the Canadian edition an edition will be published in the United States by the H. M. Caldwell Company, any of Boston.

Verdict for Plaintiff.

Justice Anglin, in the case brought by Robert Berkinshaw against G. E. Henderson, M. Parkinson and Elizabeth, gave judgment allowing an injunction restraining defendants from continuing the management of the Educational Publishing Co. without his consent. His lordship held that all the partners had equal rights in that respect, but could not allow damages for the plaintiff.

No Hard Times Here.

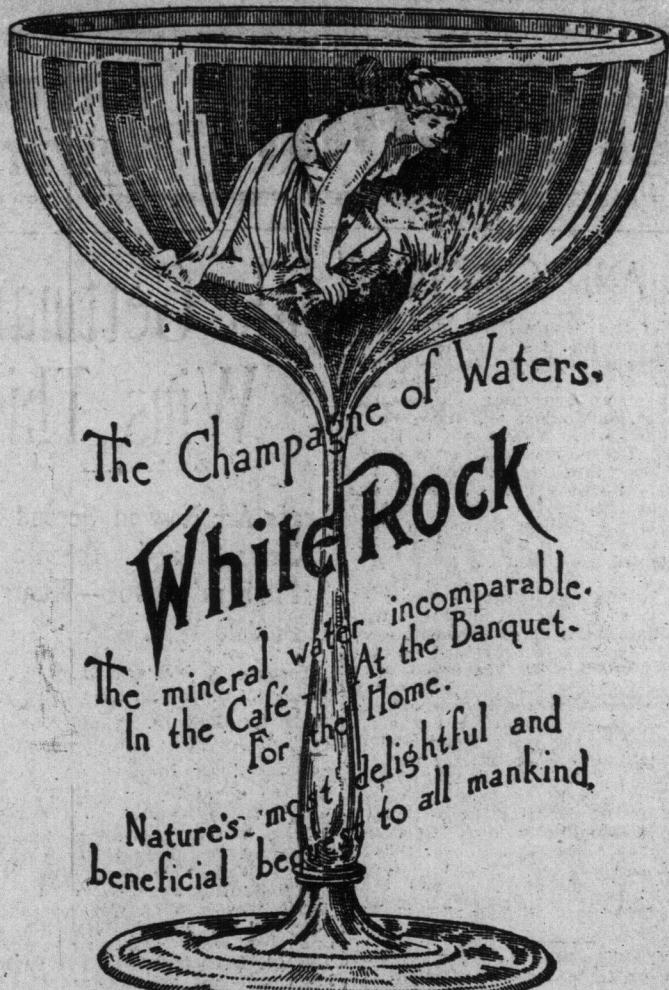

If one meets the long-faced individual who catches you by the buttonhole and says with sad voice that "times are bad," better take him up to the place where thousands of Toronto women daily meet to buy their millinery, shoes and wearing apparel. If a peep into the crowded store at McKendry's does not chirp him up, he is beyond redemption.

"Hiawatha."

The Daily and Sunday World is now being delivered at this popular summer resort. By telephoning your order to Main 252 or leaving same at 33 Yonge-street you will receive The World before breakfast.

Policeman Discharged.

ST. CATHARINES, May 21.—(Special.)—The police commissioners to-day discharged Thomas Burke, found drunk on duty early Sunday morning last, and appointed Thomas Boyle to fill the vacancy. Sgt. William McCarthy was appointed truant officer. The board practically decided in the future no stranger will be given a position on the force.

AT THE THEATRES

Lillian Russell will come to the Princess Theatre in "Wildfire" for race week and her reappearance will be welcome news to every devotee of the Woodbine. Thousands of visitors will appreciate the opportunity of witnessing such a lifelike representation of life at a race track and the characters are so cleverly drawn that they appeal to even those who usually inattentive in horse racing. Miss Russell made a strong hit on her previous brief engagement here and it will doubtless be repeated in a more pronounced way next week.

An engagement of more than ordinary interest to theatre-goers will be that of Etienne Girardot. He will be seen at the Grand next week in Brandon Thomas' clever comedy, "Charley's Aunt." Mr. Girardot has been styled "the true exponent of the laughter-producing act." The engagement will open with a special holiday matinee Monday (Victoria Day).

A melodrama like "Human Hearts" holds its original charm. It has been seen through the country for the past ten years, yet there is no decrease in public interest in this delightful play. "Human Hearts" will be the offering at the Majestic next week.

At Shea's Theatre next week the big bill will include Fred Niblo, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Murphy, Fanny Rice, Sam Williams, Clement de Lion, Claude and Fanny Usher and the kinetograph.

Weber and Rush will bring their famous "Parisian Widows" Company to the Gaiety Theatre next week. A snappy two-act musical comedy entitled "Stolen Sweets" is said to be melodious and funny. A feature is a series of "Living Art Studies."

The Judging of Bread

More than one way of judging bread, but every way there is gives my bread the blue ribbon. If you judge by quantity sold, then the increase of 26,000 loaves a week in a year is evidence enough of that kind. If you judge by texture, you will find my bread is firm, glutinous and tender. Its flavor is sweet and nutty, and the crust is never hard or tough. If you want the best bread judged from every point, get
