

THE LAW OF CHRIST

THIS DIVINE RULE IS TO BEAR ONE ANOTHER'S BURDENS

THE SIN OF SELFISHNESS.

An Incitement to Enroll Yourself in the Ranks of the Saviors of the Race—Hard Work All the Way to the Very End—Bring Light and Liberation to Struggling Humanity.

Washington, Jan. 29.—Rev. Dr. Talbot, this morning preached from the text, Galatians vi. 2, "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ." He said: "Every man for himself! If there be room for only one passenger in the boat, get in yourself. If there are others to be saved, you must be willing to share the burden. You are the digit while others are the fingers on the right hand—nothing in themselves, but according to you. In opposition to that theory of selfishness Paul advances in that text the copal theory, 'Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ.'"

Everybody has burdens. Sometimes they come down upon the shoulders, sometimes they come down upon the heart. Looking over any assembly, they all seem well and bright and easy, but each one has a burden to lift, and some of them have more than they can carry. Paul proposes to split up these burdens into fragments. You take part of mine, and I must take part of yours, and each one will take part of the other's, and we will fulfill the law of Christ.

Mrs. Appleton of Boston, the daughter of Daniel Webster, was dying of pleurisy. The great lawyer, after pleading his important case in the courtroom, on his way home stopped at the house of his daughter and went into her chamber. He said to her, "Father, why are you out to-day in this cold weather without a coat?" The great lawyer went into the next room and came out with a flood of beautiful lace, which he laid over her, saying, "Dying herself, yet thinking of me." Oh, how much more we should do for others than this beautiful lace, which is but a covering to the soul.

Encourage the merchant. If he has a superior style, he should tell him of his windows and the shrewdness of his business. If he has a good prospect, if he has brilliant prospects for the future, recognize all this. Do not be afraid that he will become arrogant and puff up by your approval. Before night some shopping person will come in and tell him that his prices are an inferior quality and that his window gave promise of far better things than he found inside. Before the night of the day when you have approved words to the merchant there will be some one who will come and depreciate everything in the store and will bring you a whole lot of goods from a whole lot of shelves to fit out a family for a whole winter without buying a whole lot of goods from a grocer, there will be some one before night who will come and tell him that his prices are an inferior quality and that his window gave promise of far better things than he found inside.

Encourage newspaper men. If you know how many annoyances they have, you understand that their most elaborate articles are sometimes flung out because there is such great pressure on editors and that an accurate report of a speech is expected, although the utterance is so indistinct the discourse is one long stenographic guess, and that the editor who is awake, and that they are sometimes ground between the wheels of great brain manufacturing machinery, and that the newspaper man who has to report a public meeting, the next day to report to place by side a revolution which is a journalistic establishment; precarious life becoming more and more precarious. If you understand this you would be more sympathetic. Be affable when you have sympathy. Do not be so sharp on their grinders. Discuss in your mind without the newspaper, and give encouraging words to all who are engaged in this important duty of the chief of editorial department down to the boy who writes the morning or evening newspaper into your basement window. Encourage them. They will plumb the pipes, or they will clean the ceilings, or they will put down the carpets, or they will grind the machinery, or they will do anything else that is necessary to keep the press running. The book is well bound, the door is well greased, the chandelier is well swung, the work is grandly accomplished. Do not among those employees

WELL PLANNED MURDER.

ANNIE COX, OF CALAIS FOUND IN A POOL OF BLOOD.

ROCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 31.—A carefully planned and most cruelly carried out murder, the result of jealousy, came to light this afternoon when the body of Annie Cox, 18 years of age, of Calais, Me., was found in a pool of blood in the house of Henry Provencha, on Harrison avenue. The inquest jury connected with the finding of the body was in a measure convinced that it had been a murder.

Mrs. Lizzie Provencha, it is alleged, confessed to having done the deed and her husband, while her husband was in the room, she did not see him. She is the revolver in her possession. She is left this city on a freight train. The story which resulted in today's trial, and his wife separated about two years ago, Mrs. Provencha remaining in Somersworth, while her husband, a blacksmith shop in Mechanicville, Me. Mrs. Provencha visited her husband several times of late, in an endeavor to effect a reconciliation, but to no purpose. Today, on a single day, she returned, and that he did not wish to have anything to do with her. She answered, significantly, that she would make it hot for him, and that she intended to have revenge.

Provencha, about 4 months ago, she stated Miss Cox as housekeeper. She was 18 years of age and resided in Calais with her parents, previous to her coming to this city. It seems probable that Miss Cox, and it is claimed that she had former made threats against her husband. Today, when she came from Somersworth to the house Mrs. Provencha said her object of visiting Rochester was to find and kill her husband and the Cox woman. She paid a 44-caliber revolver with her own money, and she intended to kill her husband and the Cox woman. She paid a 44-caliber revolver with her own money, and she intended to kill her husband and the Cox woman.

Encourage the doctor. You praise the doctor when he brings you up from an awful crisis of disease, but do you praise the doctor when, through skillful treatment, he brings you back to the land of the living? There is a great deal of cheap and heartless medicine given to the poor people who get into the hands of a doctor. I see through the shame of a farmer, I see through the shame of a woman, I see through the shame of a man, I see through the shame of a child, I see through the shame of a man, I see through the shame of a woman, I see through the shame of a child, I see through the shame of a man, I see through the shame of a woman, I see through the shame of a child.

Encourage the lawyer. You praise the lawyer when he brings you up from an awful crisis of disease, but do you praise the lawyer when, through skillful treatment, he brings you back to the land of the living? There is a great deal of cheap and heartless medicine given to the poor people who get into the hands of a doctor. I see through the shame of a farmer, I see through the shame of a woman, I see through the shame of a man, I see through the shame of a child, I see through the shame of a man, I see through the shame of a woman, I see through the shame of a child.

RELIGIOUS EXCITEMENT.

Demonstration Made by British Protestants.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The Royal Albert Hall, London, was the scene this evening of a great demonstration on the part of 10,000 Protestants, including representatives of 50 Protestant organizations connected with the established church in England, Scotland and Ireland. Baron Kinnaird presided and the proceedings were marked by the utmost order. Resolutions denouncing "Roman practices in the established church of England" were passed, and a telegram was dispatched to the queen, praying her to direct Lord Salisbury, the premier, to take legislative steps to suppress the practices connected with the same.

Encourage the farmer. You praise the farmer when he brings you up from an awful crisis of disease, but do you praise the farmer when, through skillful treatment, he brings you back to the land of the living? There is a great deal of cheap and heartless medicine given to the poor people who get into the hands of a doctor. I see through the shame of a farmer, I see through the shame of a woman, I see through the shame of a man, I see through the shame of a child, I see through the shame of a man, I see through the shame of a woman, I see through the shame of a child.

Encourage the merchant. You praise the merchant when he brings you up from an awful crisis of disease, but do you praise the merchant when, through skillful treatment, he brings you back to the land of the living? There is a great deal of cheap and heartless medicine given to the poor people who get into the hands of a doctor. I see through the shame of a merchant, I see through the shame of a woman, I see through the shame of a man, I see through the shame of a child, I see through the shame of a man, I see through the shame of a woman, I see through the shame of a child.

Encourage the doctor. You praise the doctor when he brings you up from an awful crisis of disease, but do you praise the doctor when, through skillful treatment, he brings you back to the land of the living? There is a great deal of cheap and heartless medicine given to the poor people who get into the hands of a doctor. I see through the shame of a doctor, I see through the shame of a woman, I see through the shame of a man, I see through the shame of a child, I see through the shame of a man, I see through the shame of a woman, I see through the shame of a child.

Encourage the lawyer. You praise the lawyer when he brings you up from an awful crisis of disease, but do you praise the lawyer when, through skillful treatment, he brings you back to the land of the living? There is a great deal of cheap and heartless medicine given to the poor people who get into the hands of a doctor. I see through the shame of a lawyer, I see through the shame of a woman, I see through the shame of a man, I see through the shame of a child, I see through the shame of a man, I see through the shame of a woman, I see through the shame of a child.

Style and Stamina

Cannot be expected in a horse which is "run down," "out of sorts" through impoverishment of the blood, but he has both. It gives gloss to his coat—brightens his eye—vital to his action. It will double his usefulness and value.

DOUKHOBORS NOT PAUPERS. HAVE STRUCK IT RICH.

OTTAWA, Jan. 31.—Messrs. Fedley and White of the immigration branch, and Prince Edward have returned from Halifax and St. John, where they went to receive the second detachment of Doukhobors. Hilkoft went on to Winnipeg to assist placing the first detachment in winter quarters. He says he does not expect an epidemic among the passengers of the Lake Superior, as the girls who were afflicted did not exhibit signs of a severe type of small pox. Upon the arrival of the Lake Superior Dr. Montaigne boarded her and found the vessel scrupulously clean, as the result of the efforts of the Doukhobors themselves. Mr. White, in an interview today said: "It is a mistake to say the Doukhobors are paupers. They brought with them about $125,000 in household effects. All they are getting from the government is money usually allowed steamship companies for bringing immigrants to Canada. The Doukhobors in the second contingent are better off than those in the first. There are 18,000 in number, to come to Canada."

COLLIDED AND SANK.

Machine Schooner Fanny Flint Goes Down.

CHATHAM, Mass., Jan. 31.—The machine schooner Fanny Flint, of Pollock Rip, collided with the schooner Wm. M. Bird of Pollock Rip, and sank. The Fanny Flint was carrying a large quantity of goods, and the crew were rescued. The schooner Wm. M. Bird was also carrying a large quantity of goods, and the crew were rescued.

FIRE RESIDENCE BURNED.

Austrian Countess Loses Her Home at Berlin.

Berlin, Oct. 31.—The fine residence of Frau von Hebenster, Austrian countess, on the quakers of this town, was burned early this morning. The countess and her two nephews and servants barely escaped in their night clothing. The building was outside the fire limit, the water supply well broken, and the fire was unable to render much assistance.

CANADIAN RETURNS.

Indicate a Rapid Increase in Butter and Cheese.

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—Returns received at the department of trade and commerce indicate a rapid increase in Canada's trade in dairy products with Great Britain. In 1898 we sold in the British market 156,000 hundred weight of butter as compared with $8,000 in 1896. Canada sent 1,432,000 cwt of cheese to Great Britain in 1898, as against 1,234,000 in 1896.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Sad Fate of an Invalid at Scotch Settlement.

MONROE, Jan. 31.—A man named Allen was burned to death at Scotch Settlement yesterday. He and a chum were working in the woods when he was taken sick. The chum built a fire and sat him on a log near by and went after assistance. When he returned he found Allen on fire and burned to death. Deceased was 30 years old.

DEATH OF HUNTER DUVAR.

It is with much regret that we today chronicle the death of an old friend, Col. J. Hunter Duvar, which occurred at his residence, Berwick, Mill River, on Wednesday last of paralysis. He was 86 years of age, and was a member of the 68th year of his life. He was a well known and popular man. He was a member of the 1870 to 1880. He was a man of wide reading and much literary ability, and his writings in both prose and poetry have given him a place in the front rank of Canadian authors.

MANIC RUNS THROUGH THE STREETS.

Stabbing People.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Thos. Reynolds of Belleville, N. J., became a raving maniac today and ran through the streets with a knife in his hand striking at everyone he met. Two were seriously injured. He was taken to the hospital and will probably die, and a young girl named Manning, who was badly injured.